Short Items of Interest Picked Up Here There and Everywhere.

E. G. Mayberry, white man of the Kings Creek neighborhood in Cherokee county has been arrested on request of Shelby, N. C. officials charged with selling liquor. He gave bond in the sum of $500.

Clarence Doyle, a young white man, is under arrest in Darlington charged with the theft of a ring valued at $450 from the hand of Hal Scarborough, November 2 last. After Scarborough had been killed in an automobile wreck, Doyle, it is alleged, was also in the automobile at the time of the wreck near the fair grounds in Florence.

The body of John L. Galley, night watchman for the Maybank Fertilizer company on the tracks of the Seaboard Air Line railway near Charleston was found Friday night. He had been killed and robbed. Death was caused by a blow on the back of the head with a sharp instrument. The offices of the company were ransacked, desk drawers being broken into.

Governor Morrison of North Carolina says he is in for all the money the people are willing to spend for hard surface roads; but he will stand for no more appropriations for sand and clay roads.

Wallace A. Ringle, a senior in the Pittsburg, Kansas, high school, committed suicide last Friday, after he had been arrested on a charge of holding up a Pittsburg store clerk.

Announcement of a wage reduction of approximately 12 1/2 per cent, affecting more than 3,000 workers, was made in Montreal, Canada, last Friday by the Canadian Cotton Mills, Limited.

Mr. C. W. McDonald and Mrs. Fodie Holland Shirley, both of Bethune, were married on January 30th, Probate Judge McDowell officiating. This marriage was also witnessed by several friends of the bride and groom.

LURE THAT TEMPTED MANY

Adventurers as Well as Dreamers Bought Vainly for the Fabled Fountain of Youth.

In that far-off, never-to-be-discovered country in that region which has shifted and changed just as men's minds alter and expand, in that mystic Bimini was thought to be the spring which, if tasted by mortals, would assure them immortal youth. On that island bubbled a fountain whose waters healed all manner of sickness.

The lure of the Fountain of Youth seized upon not only the dreamer, but caught the fancy of the bold adventurer, Ponce de Leon, and the redoubtable De Soto sought to taste of its life-giving fluid and it is perhaps the mystery and wonder, coupled with desire, that brought about the discovery, not of the fountain, but of that part of our country known as Florida.

It was on the 27th day of March, 1513, that Ponce de Leon sighted land which he thought was an island. On April 8, which was Easter Sunday, he took possession of the country in the name of the king of Spain and called it Pascua Florida in honor of the day. He explored the country and was obliged to battle with the Indians, and after many adventures, which included another voyage in 1521 to found a colony this intrepid navigator succumbed to a wound inflicted by a savage, and died while his vessel was making for the island of Porto Rico.

DANGER IN ELECTRIC CURRENT

Neither Fixtures Nor Appliances Should Ever Be Touched by Anything That Is Wet.

No electric appliances should ever be placed where a person in a bath-tub can reach them. Such is the assertion of Dr. A. Zimmerman in the Presse Medicale (Paris) in commenting on the death of a colleague. Electrocutation has taken place with a current of only 110 volts under such circumstances.

The reason is that the water on the hands and body provides exceptionally favorable conditions for conduction of the current. It is not safe to touch even an electric light, heater or bell when in the bath. Doctor Zimmerman cites recent cases as follows:

A woman killed by holding an electric light in one wet hand while turning a water faucet with the other; a woman killed by wiping with a wet cloth the current distributing apparatus for an electric heater; a man receiving a severe shock by taking hold of a chandelier while holding an electric light suspended by a wire.

It is very dangerous to change an electric bulb when the hands are wet or the floor is wet; a slight defect in the insulation may cause a severe shock or even death.

Measuring Sludge.

An ingenious method of measuring the depth of sludge in deep sedimentation tanks is employed at the sewage disposal works of Fitchburg, Mass., says a Canadian writer. The measurements are made by means of a pitcher pump and 25 feet of 1-inch rubber hose, marked in 1-foot lengths. The pump is screwed to a 3-foot plank and attached to the hose by a union coupling. In making measurements the plank is placed across the top of a gas vent and the hose pushed into the tank until it is near the supposed sludge level. The hose is then lowered an inch at a time. Between each shift sufficient pumping is done to insure a complete change of water in hose. When the sludge level is reached, the pump will raise sludge. The length of the hose below the chimney top is then noted, and as the distance from top of chimney to bottom of tank is known it is an easy matter to estimate the depth of the sludge.

Mexicans Wary of Snow.

It is possible on almost any day in the year to see snowbanks from Mexico City, yet few of the natives there had ever touched snow until one day last winter, when there was quite a perceptible fall, the first in many years in the Valley of Mexico.

The mountain peaks of Popocatepetl and Iztaccihuatl, clearly visible from the capital, are always snow-capped, but they are some sixty miles away. Barefooted or lightly shod natives stepped gingerly into the strange element, and afterward spent most of the day huddled in their homes or in sheltering nooks and corners. The snow flurry was due to a sudden drop in temperature during a light rain.

His Predicament.

"What is the matter with old Riley Rezzblow?" asked the traveling salesman. "He does not seem to like himself."

"Oh, tell you," returned the landlord of the Petunia tavern. "Uncle Riley has killed the peach crop for the coming season, got the League of Nations out of the way for the present, and nobody cares a hyper whether the climate of Mars is healthy or not, so he's kinda out of talking points for the present, and hasn't anything to argue about until he gets some new ones."—Kansas City Star.

Packing Cases for Rubber.

Before the war Japan used to supply most of the packing cases used for rubber sent out of Burma. Owing to the increased cost and the scarcity of shipping the Burma forest department took up the business and now supplies the boxes required, which yield a fair profit, besides benefitting an important local industry.

In 1913 the German army cost 1085 marks (271.50) per man, officers included. Today each soldier costs the government 50 marks.

Within the past six months Germany has delivered to France and Belgium a total of 30,000 horses, 125,000 sheep, 90,000 cattle, including 30,000 in calf.

Famonn De Valera, president of the Irish republic, who has been in America for some time past is said to have managed to get back into Ireland; but so far the British government knows nothing of his whereabouts.
