Women are queer things, no doubt about that. They hate to be thin, and they hate to be fat. One moment it is laughter, and the next it is cry. And you can't understand them, how ever you try. But there's one thing about them that everyone knows. A woman is not dressed till she powder her nose.

I've studied the sex for a number of years. I've watched them in laughter and seen them in tears. On her ways and her whims I've pondered a lot. To learn what will please her, and just what will not. But all I have learned, from the start to the close, is that sooner or later she'll powder her nose.

At church or a ball game, at dance or a show, there's one thing about them I know that I know. At weddings or funeral or dinners of taste, you'll find that her hand will dive into her waist. And every few minutes she'll strike up a pose. And the whole world will wait till she powder her nose.

MET WITH MRS. CARRISON

John D. Kennedy Chapter U. D. C. Had Meeting Monday Afternoon. Mrs. H. G. Carrison, Sr., assisted by Mrs. H. G. Carrison, Jr., were charming hostesses to the John D. Kennedy Chapter U. D. C. Monday afternoon.

The parlors of this beautiful ante bellum home assembled a representative gathering of the large membership of this chapter. The president, Miss Louise Nettles presided and Mrs. W. F. Nettles, the Chapter registrar, again served double duty by acting as secretary.

The treasurer, Mrs. E. E. Sill gave a fine report of finances, but urged members who had not paid annual dues to do so at once. After a short business session the historian, Miss Lella Shannon, presented the programme for the afternoon.

As it was "Carolina Day" the birthdays of John C. Calhoun, March 18, and Wade Hampton, March 29th, were honored. A splendid paper on the life, character and achievements of John C. Calhoun, from the fluent pen of his grand-niece, Mrs. A. C. Annum, was read by Miss Lella Shannon.

The Chapter voted to have this paper typed, and a copy sent to the State Historian. Mrs. Bratton deLoach had on display the book purchased for world war records which displayed the flags of the Confederacy, including the state flag of South Carolina, the origin of which was read by Mrs. Julia Long Knapp.

Mrs. Lawrence Mills also a relative of John Caldwell Calhoun, on the Caldwell side, their charmingly rendered "Carolina," which was pleasing and effective without music. An interesting sketch of the life of Wade Hampton was read by Mrs. S. C. Zemp.

Mrs. Curt, a Carolinian by birth, but now living in New York, and a member of a New York U. D. C. Chapter made a few well chosen remarks, also presented a sketch and tribute to Mrs. Livingston Rowe Schuyler, president general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Miss May Knight, of New Hampshire, also a guest of the afternoon brought greetings from the far north. Somewhere it is written that "the falling out of faithful friends is but the renewal of love," and this truth is demonstrated where the "Johnny Reb" and the "Yanks" and their descendants come together in friendly intercourse.

"York and Lancaster—Red and Blue, Each to themselves, and the other true." Mrs. Agnew, a popular winter visitor was also honor guest, and the chapter was pleased to again welcome Miss Mobley, of Asheville, N. C. The hostesses served a salad course with hot tea.

Colored Couple Married. Francis Hart, a well known and worthy colored woman, of Camden, was married on February 28th, to Jimmie Chatman, of Camden, Rev. J. W. Boykin, the colored Baptist pastor performing the ceremony at the bride's home.

The extremely inclement afternoon interfered with the attendance, but quite a number braved the weather and enjoyed the charming hospitality offered, also an interesting and instructive programme. The topic for discussion was The Battle of King's Mountain.

"REMEMBRANCE ROAD"

Ladies Undertaking Noble Work To Commemorate Soldier Boys. We have undertaken to perpetuate the memory of the boys of Kershaw County who answered their Country's call in the World War, and to do this we have decided to have a "Remembrance Road" in honor of all Kershaw's gallant sons, as well as a memorial to those who made the supreme sacrifice.

Our plan is to plant Darlington Oaks (they are evergreen) on both sides of the highway between Camden and Columbia, beginning at a feasible point just beyond the Seaboard Air Line Railway tracks and going to the river. This is a distance of two and two-tenths miles.

Planting at a distance of forty feet will require about five hundred trees. These trees have been donated, we to pay transportation and transplanting charges. We are going to ask every family of our World War Heroes to donate one dollar for each member who gave his services to his Country in this war.

If there are others who wish to donate who did not have the privilege of sending a representative, but whose home and fireside was kept safe by the sacrifice of those whose privilege it was to be among this gallant band, we will appreciate any donations for this, we think, worthy cause. We know what it meant to those boys to leave home and loved ones, and in planting this "Remembrance Road" with the evergreen oak, we want to leave the future generations a reminder of their bravery and loyalty.

Mrs. David R. Williams, Mrs. M. Baruch, Mrs. Robert M. Kenney, Jr., Miss M. A. Clyburn. Camden, S. C., March 7, 1922.

Burned Out Again. The seven room cottage belonging to Mr. H. E. Beard, in the northern section of Camden, near Lakeview, was destroyed by fire early Tuesday morning. The fire occurred about one o'clock, the family being awakened by neighbors and some of them barely had time to escape. Nearly all of the household belongings were destroyed.

This makes the second time that Mr. Beard has lost a house within a little over a year. His thirteen room home being destroyed by fire in December 1920. He carried about $3,000 insurance on building and contents. Mr. and Mrs. Beard have moved into the house belonging to Mr. E. N. McDowell situated nearby.

Shriners Banquet. We had the privilege and pleasure of attending the banquet given by the Shrine Club, known as the Masonic play ground for social activities, last Thursday evening and enjoyed the occasion to the fullest extent. The guests assembled in the Masonic hall and were later invited into the banquet hall where a course supper was served. Mr. John Wilson sustaining his deservedly popular reputation as caterer.

The Shrine club's popular president, Mr. Robert T. Goodale, acted as toastmaster and master of ceremonies. He first introduced Mrs. Ernest Zemp who pleased the guests with a vocal selection. Mrs. E. N. McCorkle giving a piano accompaniment. Mrs. Zemp graciously responded to an encore. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Zemp then sang a duet; and Mr. Hottis Cobb favored the occasion with two vocal selections. The Camden orchestra furnished music during the entire evening, thus leading cheer and brightness to the occasion.

Mr. Goodale in a very happy manner and with bright and catchy introductions called for after dinner speeches, and the following responded, each giving witty, snappy little talks, teeming with good fellowship: Dr. John W. Corbett, Mr. W. R. Zemp, Mr. C. H. Yates, Mr. L. T. Mills, Mrs. N. R. Goodale, Miss Louise Nettles. Mr. Moseley was also called upon and while he did not make a speech, his reply was well timed and witty.

Mr. Goodale made some very interesting remarks on the different branches of the Masonic order, their establishment and growth in Camden. This secret fraternal organization of world wide celebrity and credited by enthusiastic writers with great antiquity is well represented and has a splendid following in Camden. Its secrets have never been divulged; but we are told that the underlying principle is a belief in a Supreme Being and the immortality of the soul. Next to that is the recognition of fraternal obligations. The duties of a mason to his duty to God, to his country and to his fellowmen, a fact not generally credited outside the fraternity and ignorance of which has led to much of the opposition it has encountered on account of its being a secret institution. We admit our ignorance of the work of the Order, but we do know that the social activities are quite charming and much enjoyed by their lady friends.

Craven Hall, in Columbia, was destroyed by fire last Sunday morning. The loss is estimated at between $15,000 and $20,000.
