little salt or sugar. Or give him oatmeal gruel or barley water to drink.
 11 Clean your horse at night, so that he can rest well, and clean him thoroughly. The salt dandruff on his skin makes him uncomfortable, and often produces sores under the harness.
 12 Do not fall to water him at night after he has eaten his hay. If you don't he will be thirsty all night.
 13 If it is so hot that the horse sweats in the stable at night, tie him outside, with bedding under him. Unless he cools off during the night, he cannot well stand the next day's heat.

Pickling the Cucumber.

Clemson College, July 10.—Many inquiries are reaching the horticulturists of the college for information about pickling cucumbers, and to meet this need a supply of a circular letter prepared by the State Home Demonstration Agent's office has been provided and may be had either from the State Home Demonstration Agent, Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C., or from the Horticultural Division, Clemson College, S. C.

That pickling cucumbers is a simple matter is shown by the following paragraph from the circular letter, which gives also brief information and suggestion on the part played by different bacteria in the pickling process, how to test for acid, prevention of scum yeast, exclusion of air, etc.

"Soft water should be used in making the brine. Water containing much iron or lime will discolor the pickles. Put the cucumbers into brine very soon after they are gathered. A good measure of salt is absolutely necessary to prevent spoilage, but salt alone is not enough. The cucumbers may be put down in a 45-degree to a 60-degree brine. The salt draws out the water from the vegetable tissues and toughens them somewhat. For this reason the weaker brine will give a better texture to the finished product. About one pound of salt dissolved in one gallon of water will cause a salt hydrometer to float at about 45 on the scale, which will show that it is a 45-degree salt solution. The cucumbers should be weighted down so this solution will completely cover them. A cheese cloth may be placed over the top to exclude the dust and at the same time admit air."

Thinks Laney All Right.

In this connection The Advertiser has no hesitancy in saying that for chief executive of the state it has a preference, in fact is committed to Chesterfield's candidate for that high office, the Hon. G. K. Laney. We believe Mr. Laney is well equipped mentally and morally for this office. We unhesitatingly commend him to the voters of this county.

His service of 20 years in the legislative halls of the state have eminently fitted him for the place of governor.—Chesterfield Advertiser.

Hot Weather Rules for the Horse.

- 1 Load lightly, and drive slowly.
- 2 Stop in the shade if possible.
- 3 A sponge on top of the head, or even a cloth, is good if kept wet—dry it is worth than nothing.
- 4 Water your horse as often as possible. So long as a horse is working, water in small quantities will not hurt him. But let him drink only a few swallows if he is going to stand still.
- 5 When he comes in after work, sponge off the harness marks and sweat, his eyes, his nose and mouth, and the dock. Wash his feet but not his legs.
- 6 If the thermometer is 75 degrees or higher, wipe him all over with a damp sponge, using vinegar water if possible. Do not wash the horse at night.

7 Saturday night, give a bran mash, lukewarm; and add a tablespoonful of saltpetre.

8 Watch your horse. If he stops sweating suddenly, or if he breathes short and quick, or if his ears droop, or if he stands with his legs braced sideways, he is in danger of a heat or sun stroke and needs attention at once.

9 If the horse is overcome by heat, get him into the shade, remove harness and bridle, wash out his mouth, sponge him all over, shower his legs, and give him two ounces of aromatic spirits of ammonia, or two ounces of sweet spirits of nitre, in a pint of water; or give him a pint of coffee warm. Cool his head at once, using cold water, or if necessary, chopped ice, wrapped in a cloth.

10 If the horse is off his feed, try him with two quarts of oats mixed with bran, and a little water; and add a

Firestone

GUM-DIPPED CORDS -and Their High Mileage Records

The high mileage records of Firestone Cords continue to emphasize the fact that Firestone methods are different and better. These records, steadily increasing in number and in mileage totals, justify the Firestone contention that there is one best way to build tires.

Among the primary sources of Firestone extra mileage is double gum-dipping—the saturation of the cord plies in a vat of liquid gum—thus coating each cord and virtually eliminating internal heat and friction.

Another is Firestone air bag curing, with its 200 pound pressure, which places every cord accurately and equalizes the tension.

By blending the rubbers of different plantations and types, and by tempering it before mixing, Firestone men add still more mileage.

Many cord tires are good—a few are better—Firestone users say one is best.

Those who have already experienced Firestone mileage, have stopped shopping and experimenting—they have made these cords standard equipment. Investigate your friends' success with Firestone Cords—and buy your next tire accordingly. Come in and get your share of extra mileage.
