Legion Enjoyed Banquet.

Sixty-two members of the Leroy Beck Post, American Legion, of this city enjoyed a banquet at the Masonic Hall Friday evening tendered them by the Legion Auxiliary. Ralph Shannon acted as master of ceremonies and introduced Rev. W. S. Stoney, who asked Divine blessing on the assembly. Dr. R. T. Goodale made a few remarks and the speaker of the evening, Rev. Maurice Glover, state chaplain of Columbia, was then introduced. Music was furnished for the occasion by the Camden orchestra, and the hall and tables were attractively decked in national colors with chrysanthemums. One of the members were delegated to send a supper to J. C. Ammons, a member of the Legion, who has been confined from the effects of gas overseas and who could not be present. The assembly all joined in singing of "America" and at the close of the evening the orchestra rendered "Dixie" and the "Star Spangled Banner." After the Legion members and their visitors had been served tables were laid for the members of the Auxiliary, who number thirty-six, and the twelve members of the orchestra joined them.

A Band for Camden.

Realizing that "where there is music, there is harmony" the Chamber of Commerce invited Mr. J. H. Comstock, a noted musician and well known band director, of Columbia to come over and organize or make an effort to organize a band for Camden. Mr. Comstock came and met with very flattering success, for while the organization is not completed it is well on the way.

We have a well lighted town; electricity, the queen of illuminants has not been stinted in casting radiance over the Arcadian like beauty of Camden, and now that our beautiful, broad streets are to be paved, street dancing is looked forward to as one of the promised pleasures. Dancing in the open, under the bright electric lights is innocent and healthful and we must provide clean, healthful amusement for our young people or they will go elsewhere to find it, for "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

We need a band too for other occasions, celebrations, memorials, etc., for we always have to send out of town and ask for such favors. Among those who have joined the band and are willing to give their time and talent to a much needed organization are: Messrs. George Ithame, E. P. Truesdale, Hollis Cobb, Herbert Campbell, Charles Houshing, F. N. McCorkle, R. S. Williams and others.

Mr. Comstock is willing to take beginners, young boys who would like to join will see or phone any of the above gentlemen. Mr. Comstock will be in Camden every Wednesday with headquarters at the Camden Hotel. Let us hope that the fullest interest and backing of the citizens will be given to make this undertaking a complete success.

A Pleasant Occasion.

Mrs. Belton Boykin was a gracious hostess to a limited number of the Belles of the Sixties, at a waffle luncheon recently. Hot tea, preserves, jellies and buttered waffles fresh from the electric irons proved a tempting menu and served as a happy reminder of "Aunt Dinah's" waffles that came steaming hot and delicious from the Carolina kitchen in the days that are no more. The conversation turned to those forgotten days, and a hearty laugh enjoyed and sometimes a tear started over the recollection of youth. "Should auld acquaintance be forgot, And never brought to mind? Should auld acquaintance be forgot, And days O' Auld Lang Syne?"

Among those present were: Mrs. A. C. Anerum, Mrs. John Whitaker, Mrs. F. Leslie Zemp, Mrs. Thomas Lang, Miss Charlotte Kershaw.

Child Died on Train.

Death overtook little Cleo McQuage, five year old stepdaughter of Jake Linton of Bethune, yesterday on the Seaboard train, which reached Columbia about noon, just as she was nearing Columbia and the medical aid that would, it was hoped, restore her to health.

The little girl was ill and was being brought to the Columbia hospital for treatment. She was accompanied by her stepfather and Miss Inez McManus, nurse of Columbia. She passed away as the train approached Dentsville.

The body was taken back to Bethune yesterday afternoon. Sympathy is extended by friends to the bereaved parents in their grief over the death of their little daughter.—Wednesday's State.

Mill Man Acted Ugly.

J. P. Hughes, a white man, aged about 55 years, is said to have created quite a good deal of excitement in the Wateree Mill Village Monday afternoon, when Superintendent H. K. Hallett and Mr. J. E. Robinson went to his home to interfere when the man was attempting to beat his wife. Hughes secured a revolver and snatched it at the two officials, but luckily for them the weapon failed to fire. He left the mill immediately and went to the swamps and although a diligent search was made by county and city officers the man has not yet been located. He is said to have been armed with a rifle and revolver when he left the house.

Cattle Thieves on Wateree.

A well known planter and stock raiser residing in the Boykin section of the county was here last week and was telling us that it is certain, that cattle and hog thieves are operating on both sides of the Wateree river for several miles. Since the completion of the power dam at Wateree where the water is cut off, and in extremely dry weather like that of recent weeks, the river gets so low that cattle and hogs can easily swim and wade the river at many points. Cattle crossing from one side to the other oftentimes never come back and their owners make search for them and they are never found. Many places have been found where hogs and cattle have been butchered and it is thought that there are men who are making their livelihood by this means. In many instances it is thought that the cattle are taken to Columbia or other towns by means of trucks and there sold to butchers. One stock raiser tells of the loss of eleven head of cattle within the past few months.

Operates Extensively.

While in Columbia a few days ago a representative of The Chronicle had occasion to go into the headquarters of the Haack Advertising Service and were shown over the offices by the manager, Mr. Haack. This service occupies four rooms in an office building on Main Street, and works seven typists and stenographers, and a multigraph machine in their large mailing department. They also have twenty salesmen on the road in different towns and cities where they are conducting sales continually. No stock seems to be too small and none too large for them to handle, and in every instance the proprietors are well pleased with results and always give them the highest class recommendations. In past years this firm has conducted several sales in Camden for J. C. Cunningham, A. Lodinger and the Snyder store and have always crowded their places with customers eager to buy. They certainly have the system for producing results, and they have quite a lot of money invested in their sales service.

Has a "Preferred" List.

It is said that a certain well known merchant in Camden has a list of names in his store which he calls "The Preferred List." When asked what he meant by "preferred," his reply was that he "preferred their cash to their credit." We are told that the salesmen in the store have been instructed to consult this list when in doubt, and if credit is allowed the persons whose names appear on the list, the salesmen are held responsible for the collection of same. We learn that these folks have gotten on the "preferred" list because of the fact that they have let their accounts run for around three years without making an effort to pay, even in part, hence Mr. Merchant has adopted this plan. Gradually the merchants of Camden are learning the drones and deadbeats and they are being denied credit because they have shamefully abused their credit. Of course you need not ask us who this merchant is or who he has on the list for we are not going to tell you, but every business man in Camden can come very near guessing the most of the names.
