

CONDITIONS IN GERMANY BAD

Once Well-to-do People Are New Ask ing for Assistance.

An idea of post-war conditions in Germany is gleaned from letters re ceived from distant kinspeople in Beirtheim by Frank Krauss, former postmaster at Waxhaw: "You will go doubt be rather astonished to get a letter from here after so many years of unusual silence," one reads, "but I have been so lucky to get your ad dress only a few days ago. I am the widow of your cousin, Wilhelm Krauss, from Munster. I dare say family Krauss has probably mentioned us in letters to you.

"I am so sorry to inform you that my dear husband died quite suddenly and unexpectedly last year, leav ing us and our dear little girl, Elizabeth (age of 14) behind entirely devoid of all means of living. Our two sons, aged 27 and 28 years, perished in the awful war. Our eldest son and elder daughter, striving themselves very hard for gaining their living, are equally unable to support us. So I am often very hard up, especially as everything is so dreadfully expensive.

"I have a small monthly allowance of 400 marks, but this sum is not even sufficient for a week. The worst of all is that I am often ill of late and so little able to do hard work. Even my sewing does not bring me much, as my poor eyes get weaker and weaker. So you perhaps will understand and excuse my asking you if you would kindly send me some worn-out dresses of your daughter for my girl and for myself. I have a good hand at rearranging and getting up decently old things for us, and I ask you, too, to help me in getting my girl to a good school of dressmaking by sending me a few dollars so that I should be able to pay her a place as an apprentice. "You may be sure that this pecuniary help should only serve as an assistance for the education of my dear girl. And you may be equally sure that you are helping persons worthy to be helped. Please do not be angry at my asking for help from you. If our poverty were not growing harder and harder every day, the prices of the more indispensable victuals rising continually, I should never have allowed myself to write to you in this way.

"You are already a long time over there in your rich, happy America. Let me hope that you have not quite forgotten your relations in your poor old Germany."

Mr. Krauss is of German parentage, but was born in this country. Ever since the signing of the armistice he has been sending food and money to his once well-to-do but now war-impoverished relations in the old country.

A glimpse of Christmas in the old country is given in another letter: "A German Christmas festival day," the letter read, "be it ever so humble or poor, is deeply moving. I wish you could spend Christmas ever, if it were only one time, with us in the way we observe the day. You would never forget it."

Other extracts read:

"You have doubtless read of the high cost of living in Germany. It s becoming oppressive. Most any kind of food is unobtainable except at excessive prices. . . . I am told that life has grown more difficult ever over there in your happy,

"Under present conditions we fare ill, and things will not improve unless we obtain a large loan from America."-Charlotte Observer.

Germany's Grave Digger.

Vienna, Feb. 4-The arrival of the German general, Ludendorff, in Klangenfurt, Carinthia, today was the cause of serious fighting between Socialist workmen and Pan-German irregulars. Ludendorff had intended to address the National Peasant Congress. While he was driving from the station workmen tried to drag him from his automobile, meanwhile characterizing him as "Germany's grave digger," "Murderer."

Ludendorff was not permitted to deliver his address. The street decorations were torn down and burned amid geat excitement.

Ohio Cook Spoiled to Make Great Singer

When Cyrena Van Gordon, prima donna of the Chicago Opera Com-pany was a little girl at Camden O., and the great Campanini told her she would be the greatest con-traito in the world, a fine cook was spoiled. Later she get her musical education at Cincinnati. Even yet, however, her idea of a gala occa-sion is to invade the kitchen to 'weal an' 'ammer'—a dish taught her by her grandmothe This is the recipe: "Take one pound of veal and one pound of ham, cutting into small cubes. Simmer until tender. No seasoning is nec-essary. Thicken the gravy, place in a baking dish and add two thinly sliced boiled potatoes. Cover with thin rich biscuit dough and bake 20
