TRIPLETS BORN AT SEA.

Captain of Vessel Finds Himself in Unusual Predicament.

Gulfport, Miss., July 26.—When Captain John Ethelbert of Cornwall, England, skipper, of the ship Helena, from New Castle, South Wales, to Gulfport, with nitrate reached here yesterday, he told a story of his unusual and distressing predicament during the voyage.

The Helena was just rounding the Island of New Caledonia and was heaving heavily in the mountainous seas kicked up by a sou'wester which had been blowing for three days when triplets were born to his wife who had accompanied him on the trip. The captain's efforts to signal other ships for medical aid were unavailing, he said.

Tragedy had come to the vessel two days before when the ship's physician, Dr. A. N. Fowler, died of acute indigestion and was buried at sea.

The gale blew itself out soon after arrival of the babies and Mrs. Ethelbert, despite the unusual conditions attending her illness, is now strong with three healthy and happy babies beside her. The mother is spending a few days in port replenishing the wardrobe of the youngsters, which had only been prepared for one, Iona, the only other child of the couple was born at sea.

Mrs. Ethelbert has accompanied her husband on seven sea voyages which has taken her to all parts of the world.
