PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs. Blanding DeSaussure, of Atlanta, is visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bates of Orangeburg spent the week end with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Smith.

Mrs. E. C. Richie and Mrs. N. R. Goodale attended the Central District Conference of Federated Clubs held in Bishopville on Wednesday.

Mr. George Coleman, a student at the University of South Carolina, spent the week end here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Coleman.

The Misses Tyler, grand-nieces of President Tyler, and recently returned from an extended trip abroad, incidentally to act as bride's maids in the Carrison-Waite wedding, left Thursday for their home in Kentucky.

Among the out of town guests for the Carrison-Waite wedding were: Mr. Robert Pinckney, Charleston; Mr. and Mrs. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. James Murphy, Columbia; Mrs. A. S. Waite and Mrs. V. E. Butler, Portland, Maine.

Miss Josephine Muessen, of New York, a member of the Carrison-Waite bridal party, was the guest of Miss Ethel Yates while in town. She was an admired guest of Miss Carrison's last summer and therefore not a stranger in social circles here.

Miss Ethel Yates Entertains.

Complimenting Miss Carrison and Major Waite, whose wedding Wednesday evening was the paramount social event of the week, Miss Ethel Yates entertained at a lovely bridge party Monday evening. Invitations to this home, noted for the warmth and charm of its hospitality, are always accepted with pleasure. The delightful parties given at this home linger long in memory, and this one was not an exception. Seven tables were attractively arranged for bridge.

The score prize went to Mrs. Jack Whitaker, Jr., and the bride was generously remembered.

After cards the hostess served a salad course with coffee.

Cotton Ginnings in County.

According to the bureau of the census, department of commerce, the number of bales of cotton ginned in Kershaw county prior to October 18th, 1923, was 13,584, as against 8,363 for a like period in 1922. For the State the number of bales in 1923 was 508,102 and for 1922 the number was 336,260. The report was made public Thursday, October 25th.

Services at Synagogue.

There will be services at the Jewish Synagogue on Sunday, November 11th at 3:30 p. m. Services will be conducted by Rabbi F. K. Hirsch. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Mr. Joseph Workman Dead.

A message was received in Camden this week stating that Mr. Joseph Workman, a former citizen of Camden who left here about twenty years ago and enlisted in the United States Army, died Monday in a Denver, Colorado, hospital. The body left Denver Tuesday and is expected to reach Camden about 12 noon today, and the funeral will be held at the grave.

Mr. Workman had seen service in this country and in the Island possessions and had traveled extensively. He is a brother of Mrs. A. S. White and Mrs. Virginia Clarke of this city. He is also survived by several other brothers and sisters. Mr. Workman was about 45 years of age.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

I have opened a Photo Studio at 1018 Main Street, Camden, S. C., over J. G. Cunningham's Store, where I am prepared to do any kind, size or style of Photo work, day or night. Open every night until 9 o'clock and on Saturday night until 11 o'clock. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. JOE B. GASKIN, Proprietor.

BRILLIANT CHURCH WEDDING.

Miss Carrison Becomes Bride of Major Sumner Waite.

A noted society event of more than Statewide interest and of unusual beauty and brilliancy was the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Carrison of this city and Major Sumner Waite, Infantry United States Army, solemnized Wednesday, the seventh of November, at seven o'clock in the evening at Grace Episcopal church.

Graceful smilax, pine and bamboo, with quantities of yellow chrysanthemums and gleaming white candles were used in the elaborate decorations and formed a pleasing and artistic color scheme. The wedding march was played by an orchestra composed of Mr. E. E. Houston, of Charlotte, Mrs. F. N. McCorkle and Miss Loree Truesdale, Camden, who rendered the following program: "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice"—C. Saint-Saens. "In a Rose Garden"—Tobia Acciani. "Elegie"—J. Massenet.

Misses Phyllis Carrison and Margaret Ancrum, nieces of the bride in accordion pleated georgette dresses in sunny yellow, with gold bandeaux and gold slippers and formal bouquets, untied the broad satin ribbons through which the bridal party passed.

The ushers were Messrs: D. Jordan Carrison, H. G. Carrison, Jr., Camden; Carl Ray Smith, Timmons-ville; A. Rutledge Ward, Georgetown. The groomsmen were: Lieutenant Colonel Fay Brabson, Captain Thomas Finley, Captain James Lester, Major James Ullo, all in full dress army uniform, with decorations and sabers. The bridesmaids were: Misses Ethel Yates, Camden; Josephine Muessen, New York; Emma and Helen Tyler, Kentucky. They all wore exquisite dresses of turquoise blue cut velvet with a garnishing of gold beading and gold accessories. Each dress was fashioned alike and each maid carried an armful of yellow chrysanthemums.

The flower girls, Margaret Smith and Emily Thomas, were winsome in their dresses of sunny yellow georgette—an exact counterpart of the dresses worn by the older girls who untied the ribbons. Mrs. Carl Ray Smith, sister of the bride, was dame of honor, and also acted as maid of honor, she also was beautifully gowned in turquoise blue cut velvet with gold accessories and carried yellow chrysanthemums.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage, a handsome blonde, she was queenly in her imported wedding gown of white satin, brocaded in silver. It was draped to the left side with a silver decoration from which a cascade of rich lace fell. A full court train hung from the shoulders and the tulle veil fell from a wreath of orange blossoms, while a shower of orange blossoms tied with silver ribbon fell gracefully with the veil to the train.

She carried bride's roses, showered with valley lilies. An added sentiment to her bridal costume was the quaint and dainty handkerchief-holder used by her mother and each of her sisters on like occasions at the same altar. She was met at the altar by the groom with his best man, Major William Lay Patterson, and they were united with the beautiful and impressive ceremony of the Church of England. Dr. A. S. Thomas, brother-in-law of the bride, Rector of St. Michael's church, Charleston, and the Rev. F. H. Harding, rector of Grace church, were the officiating ministers.

According to a time honored army custom, Major and Mrs. Waite left the altar under the crossed sabers of the groomsmen.

Immediately after the ceremony a brilliant reception assembling Camden society en masse was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Carrison, on North Broad street. This beautiful old Southern home combines modern elegance and comforts with the distinctive charm of a by-gone period and made an appropriate setting for the assemblage of culture, chivalry and beauty that represented several states. The guests were welcomed at the door by Mrs. H. G. Carrison, Jr., and Mrs. William Ancrum. The receiving line formed in the north parlor was composed of the bridal party, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Carrison, Mrs. A. S. Waite and Mrs. V. H. Butler, of Portland, Maine, mother and aunt of the groom.

Individuality and unique charm marked the lovely appointments of the bride's table. The bride's cake was a clever representation of a wedding-ring and circled a mound of valley lilies. This cake was cut by the bride with the groom's saber. Another pleasing decoration was a miniature bride presiding over the table, lovely in a color scheme of white and yellow. Chicken salad, beaten biscuits and sandwiches were served in buffet style followed by wedding cake and punch. The punch bowls were presided over by Mrs. James Murphy, of Columbia, Mrs. T. J. Lipscomb and Mrs. A. D. Kennedy, Jr.

Music was furnished throughout the entire evening by the Misses Truesdale and Mr. E. E. Houston, the pleasing notes coming from a recess in the hall banked with palms, ferns and flowers.

In the gift room the display of beautiful and useful presents expressed the good wishes, friendship and love of a host of friends not only in the bride's home town, but representing a wide circle from Maine to California.

The bride's going away dress was of brown marova with garnishing and accessories of light tan. A Parisian hat in brown and tan, and a brown fur coat completed the effective and stylish costume.

Major and Mrs. Waite left by auto for a wedding trip, after which they will make their home for the present at Camp Benning, Columbus, Georgia, where Major Waite is stationed.

Luncheon For Bridal Party.

Mrs. W. J. Mayfield and Mrs. William Ancrum were hostesses at a five course luncheon Tuesday complimenting the Carrison-Waite bridal party. The wedding colors of blue and gold were carried out in detail. The bride presented her maids with leather picture frames and the groom remembered his groomsmen and ushers with leather bill-cases. Healths were drunk and a toast given the bride, to which she graciously and gracefully responded.

The average attendance of white and colored pupils in South Carolina schools in 1922 was 345,885.
