

"Well! Strong!"

Mrs. Anna Clover, of R. F. D. 5, Winfield, Kans., says: "I began to suffer some months ago with womanly troubles, and I was afraid I was going to get in bed. Each month I suffered with my head, back and sides—a weak, aching, nervous feeling. I began to try medicines as I knew I was getting worse. I did not seem to find the right remedy until someone told me of

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

I used two bottles before I could see any great change, but after that it was remarkable how much better I got. I am now well and strong. I can recommend Cardui, for it certainly benefited me.

If you have been experimenting on yourself with all kinds of different remedies, better get back to good, old, reliable Cardui, the medicine for women, about which you have always heard, which has helped many thousands of others, and which should help you, too. Ask your neighbor about it; she has probably used it.

For sale everywhere.

Murder Suspected in Tennessee.
Camden, Tennessee, Nov. 18.—J. H. Olive, 30, manager of the local branch of the Standard Oil Company, is missing, and authorities here believe they are confronted with a murder mystery.

Olive went to his office last night and when he failed to return home his wife started an investigation. Early today when the searchers entered the oil company offices, they discovered blood stains upon the floor, overturned chairs and oil cans and evidences of a struggle. On a table was Olive's pocket book with $100 in checks, but no cash, and three notes. Two notes were signed "K. K. K." and both warned Olive to leave Camden. The third was to his wife and told her he feared he was going to be killed.

Local authorities believe that Olive was murdered and the body thrown in the Tennessee river. They are searching for the body.

ZEV WAS THE WINNER.

Spectators, However, In Doubt As To Which Crossed Wire First.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 17.—In what probably was the closest, most thrilling finish in the history of the American turf, Zev, winner of the Kentucky derby, and conqueror of Papyrus, reversed the victory. In Memoriam scored at Latonia two weeks ago by defeating him by a scant nose in a match race at one and one-quarter miles at Churchill Downs today.

The finish was so close that hardly a spectator in a crowd of 40,000 persons with the possible exception of Harry F. Sinclair, owner of the winner realized Zev had won, until the official decision of the judges had been posted.

The climax of the race furnished a thrill that set the crowd wild with excitement as almost everyone thought In Memoriam had triumphed as the two great 3 year old rivals floundered into the wire, racing neck and neck with scarcely an inch separating their noses. Trained observers, with eyes of experience in watching close finishes shouted that In Memoriam had won, but received the shock of their lives a second later when the judges posted Zev as the winner. The finish, in the opinion of turf experts, was so close that the race could have been called a dead heat and not provoke an argument from admirers from either horse.

Zev as a result of his victory becomes the greatest money winning race horse in the world. Owner Sinclair took down $25,000 of today's $30,000 purse, swelling Zev's winnings to $101,073, which shoved him ahead of the winnings of the two English cracker Isinglass with $291,275 and Donovan with $277,215.

Zev's triumph probably means that he will seek international honors, as the winner of today's race had been invited to compete in a six-cornered international race for a purse of one million francs to be decided at the Longchamps, near Paris, next May.

Owner Sinclair said tonight that Zev undoubtedly would compete in the race abroad if the offer still holds good after Zev's scheduled match with My own, the latter part of this month.

Wise old horsemen, thrown into a hysteria of excitement, over today's finish, said the race had never been equalled.

There was cloudiness in the sky and the track was as fast as lightning, when Zev and In Memoriam were lined up at the post. When the horses shot past the grandstand the first time, In Memoriam had a lead of a length and a half until three quarter post. Then Sande settled down to close the gap. As they flashed past the mile mark, Zev had reduced In Memoriam's lead to a neck. In the stretch Sande took a lead of a length and In Memoriam seemed to tire slightly and falter. When Jockey Garner saw his victory fading he began to lash In Memoriam furiously and the pair raced almost as a team when they continued to dash. The punishing hurricane at the finish of the stretch, brought the crowd to its feet with a shout of "In Memoriam" sweeping the stands. Just a few feet from the wire, Garner was seen to make a desperate charge but Zev's speed apparently was too great and Sande, riding a masterly race, was doing all the cunning for which he is famous to match victory out of defeat.

Even the betting indicated a thrilling fight although Zev as the result of his remarkable performance, in a string of his last name races, losing only to In Memoriam, was an overwhelming favorite.

The first to congratulate Sinclair was Carl Wiedenmann, Newport, Ky., sportsman, owner of In Memoriam. With tears in his eyes, but a smile on his face, Mr. Wiedenmann fought his way into the Sinclair box and grasped Sinclair's hand. He tried to speak, but words failed him. The two owners stood, their hands clasped, looking into each other's eyes.

"It was a wonderful race," shouted Wiedenmann. "Mr. Sinclair, not as a man, but as a Kentuckian, I want to congratulate you. Your horse was a great one. You have a first-class horse and a great jockey."

In answering habits, the two owners each turned and stood at the high house, dining room.

At the K. K. K. Nov. 17. Newspaper photograph of the Zev In Memoriam match race at Churchill Downs today.

day show the heads of the two horses are on practically a dead line with In Memoriam having a fraction the better of it. If anything, Spectators on the finish line contended that In Memoriam's nose was projected farther than Zev's at the line of finish. The newspaper photographs seem to bear out this conclusion.

The photographs besides showing In Memoriam to be fractional of a nose in the lead eighteen inches from the wire, showing both of his forefeet as just having hit the track and his body lunging forward from the impact of the stride while Zev's corresponding foot is on its downward motion and can not have given him an added impetus on the final jump before both crossed the wire.

The controversy raging over the thrilling ending of the match will not be ended by newspaper photographs, as spectators, a number of them directly beneath the judges' stand, and on a direct line with the pole, were telling the world tonight that In Memoriam had won. Each person was confident he was right because each "saw it with my own eyes."
