Gipsey Car Wrecked.

Five automobiles loaded with Gypsies bearing New York state license tags, passed through Lancaster Thursday on their way south for the winter. A short stop was made in the city, while several of the women folk, bedecked in gay frocks with red streamers of gingham or tulle flying from their heads, strolled about the streets endeavoring to tell the fortunes of a majority with whom they came in contact. As far as Lancaster's young men were concerned, there was nothing doing in the fortune business and the travelers did not tarry long, leaving in a short while in the direction of Columbia. When the band of travelers reached a point between Elgin and Pleasant Hill the automobile traveling in the rear turned over on the roadside, pinioning the eight occupants beneath. The car had to be jacked up before some of the occupants could be released. One of the children in the party sustained an ugly cut about the head which required several stitches to close. The others were only slightly injured. It was 1 stated that the wrecked automobile, a 1 Cadillac, was traded in to E. C. Bridges at Heath Springs, for a new Buick, after which the party proceedrd on their way south .- Lancaster

NINETY YEARS OF COTTON.

Prices Have Fluctuated Over Very Wide Range.

A spread of 11,800 points, or $590 a bale, took place between the high and low on the New York cotton exchange during the year 1864 according to a table recently made public by B. Harrable recently made public by B. Harrable recently made public by B. is, state commissioner of agriculture, n the Weekly Market Bulletin issued by the state department of agriculure, commerce and industries.

In making this notation, Mr. Harris called attention to the fact that it was the greatest difference in price for any one year from 1829 up to the present

"I am doing this for the education of the farmers," said Mr. Harris in explaining his reasons for publishing the full table. "I know they will be interested in reading it and you will observe that it has always advanced in price after it got out of the farmers' hands. And common sense will tell you if it sold for a higher price after it got out of the farmer's hands it was worth it while he owned it. The same thing has happened this year.

Mr. Harris appended the following figures as high and low prices middling cotton in New York from the year 1829 up to the present:

An unusual occurrence took place near Fountain Inn, in this county, a few days ago when Jack Abercrombie a negro, who is said to be 104 years old, was arrested by Rural Policeman Thompson on a charge of having made an attack on Mr. Brazier, a white man. It is stated that the old negro threw an axe and that his son drew a gun during the attack, but that Mr. Brazier was not injured.

The officer locked up the two negroes in the guard house at Fountain Inn.-Laurensville Herald.

Golden Eagle Captured.

A splendid specimen of the golden eagle, taken alive near Monck's Corner, in Berkeley county, will be placed on exhibition in the Charleston Museum today. The great bird will be given a cage in the room where the live reptiles are kept, just south of the main entrance of the Museum, and no doubt it will attract many visitors. The golden eagle is not only one of the largest and finest looking of all the birds of prey, but it is also a very rare bird in this part of the world and the capture of this specimen is on that account of considerable interest. Whether the eagle wandered have accidentally from the Western regions, where the species is still fairly abundants or whether it was reared and had its home somewhere in the mountains of North or South Carolina, still survive, is a question.

The eagle was captured by Mr. J. E. Hill, of Monck's Corner, who saw it sitting on a post. For some strange leston News and Courier.
