

Practical Nurse Tells

Mrs. N. E. Snow, of Route 1, near Paris, Tenn., tells the story of her experience as follows:

"I am 62 years old and I have been a practical nurse for more than 20 years, taking mostly maternity cases. One of my daughters suffered from cramping at . . . She would just bend double and have to go to bed."

CARDUI

was recommended to her and she only had to take about two bottles, when she hardly knew that it was . . . she suffered so little pain.

"My youngest daughter was run-down, weak and nervous, and looked like she didn't have a bit of blood left—just a walking skeleton, no appetite and tired all the time. I gave her two bottles of Cardui. It built her up and she began eating and soon gained in weight and has been so well since."

Cardui, the Woman's Tonic, has helped suffering women for over forty years. Try it. At all druggists.

NEW TYPE OF NAVAL PLANE IS BEING BUILT

PN-3 Expected to Surpass Records of All Machines.

Philadelphia.—A new type of naval scouting plane, one which it is thought will surpass even the records made by the new PN-7, also built here, is under construction at the naval aircraft factory at the Philadelphia navy yard.

This plane, the PN-3, is similar to the PN-7, save that it has an all-metal hull, while the latter is of fabric.

It is hoped that the change will increase the speed of the plane as well as its carrying capacity. It is definitely known, through tests with other types of planes, that the metal hull will add to the life of the machine and increase its stability.

Capt. George Conrad Westervelt, in charge of the aircraft factory at League Island, said that the PN-3 would be the finest boat owned by any government in the world.

"It is even better than the PN-7, which showed up so wonderfully well on the tests with the fleet," he said.

"Both planes are developments of the old type scouting plane, the T-5-L. But where the latter had a wing spread of 104 feet, our new planes have only 72 feet. They have a longer radius than the old plane and a greater carrying capacity.

"The new PN-3 is an improvement on the PN-7s. It is expected that it will be much more seaworthy and will have added speed and carrying capacity.

"All of these ships are designed for long cruises."

The planes use two Wright engines, rated at 525 horsepower each. The peculiar feature about them is the narrow wing span. This is made possible through the application of the high lift wing to flying boat construction.

It is expected that the PN-3, with the metal hull, and with the salient features of the PN-7 will be ready for tests within a month or more.

Scientists to Solve the Mysteries of Vitamins

Washington.—Chemistry's attack on the mysteries of vitamins is becoming world-wide, and the workers "are near the goal of discovering just what these highly important substances really are," says an announcement by the division of chemistry of medical products of the American Chemical Society, outlining the three newest developments of what is described as a notable revival of research.

The statement summarized the salient features of a group of papers, which, at a special public session of the division at the society's evening meeting in Washington, will disclose in detail the advances made in the laboratories of the old and New Worlds.

"There has been a notable revival of research on the chemistry of vitamins," says the statement, made public here by Leo H. Eakeland, president of the society and professor of chemical engineering in Columbia university. "Announcements of the isolation of three of the four at present recognized vitamins have been made to the society."

One of these comes from Japan, one from Washington and that for the newest member of the vitamin family nearly simultaneously from chemists in Toronto and New York. All of this work shows that chemists are near the goal of discovering just what these highly important substances really are."

World's Largest Bible Being Written by Hand

Portland, Me.—The largest Bible in the world is being compiled by the Bible Society of Maine, under the direction of Edmund T. Garland, superintendent Y. M. C. A. building, this city.

It will consist of 1,500 pages of the dimensions of the ordinary newspaper and the total weight will be 80 pounds. The pages are being written in long hand by upward of 1,500 persons, the oldest being more than ninety years of age and the youngest six and a half years. The youngest contributor, by the way, is the grandson of Superintendent Garland, who is sponsoring the project.

The first page is written by the son of the founder of the Bible Society of Maine. Every college and preparatory school of the Protestant denomination in the state is represented by a page written by the president of the institution. Many Sunday schools of the state are represented, and also many other organizations and individuals.

The unique volume, which will be completed soon, will be used for exhibition purposes.

"Kindest Man" Is Now Hangman

Manchester, England.—William Willis, of Ardara, near London, who is described by his neighbors as the kindest man in the county, is to be the new public executioner to succeed John East, who recently retired.

Willis is a native of Manchester and has been assistant hangman for twenty years. When he is not engaged in dispatching criminals to their doom he works as an engraver.

"You would never guess my husband was a hangman," his wife said. "He is the kindest man alive."

Hupmobile steering knuckle and arm are drop-forged steel, double heat-treated, and unusually heavy for safety. The Brinell mark indicates the proper hardness for service and safety.

Profit to the Buyer

It is Bound Up in the Finer Quality of Hupmobile Parts

Hupmobile could not use materials less fine—and still be Hupmobile.

For the very heart and soul of Hupmobile success is the way it stands up—year after year—at astonishing low cost.

Let it try to cheapen any of its finely built parts and it would at once lose that superiority. So in the end, it would not profit the buyer.

The motor car question, as we see it, comes down to this.
