SOUTH CAROLINA NEWS.

Eight mules are reported to have died from heat prostration in different parts of Chester county last Saturday.

M. P. Palmer, a negro about 30 years old, was drowned at noon Sunday while swimming in an abandoned creek quarry near Pacolet.

Fred H. Mass of Summerville was drowned at Folly Beach near Summerville early Sunday morning. He was 56 years old and is survived by a widow and one son.

Sixty per cent of the total cotton bolls of the thirteen Southern states are located in the two Carolinas, according to figures furnished the subcommittee appointed by the directors of the Federal reserve bank of Richmond, by the joint committee representing the bankers of North and South Carolina.

For the first time in about ninety years the old county jail building at Winnsboro is entirely empty. All of the prisoners were disposed of at the same term of court which convened last week. Two prisoners were sent to the state penitentiary in Columbia, namely, W. J. Courtney, 25-year old farm hand, who is serving a three month sentence for storing liquor, and other, Will White, a young negro lished for the purpose of training laborer, who was sentenced to six years for grand larceny. The jail doors and windows stand wide open today. Sheriff Macfie and his family also vacated the building, which now goes into the hands of John Ameen Brothers, the recent purchasers, who bought the jail at the price of $15,000. The old building will be torn down and several new modern brick stores are to be erected on the lot, according to a recent statement given out by Ameen Brothers.

Judge Memminger of Charleston has filed with the clerk of court of Charleston county an order decreeing that the Orphan Aid society of the Jenkins Negro Orphanage have judgment against the Atlantic Savings Bank of Charleston "in the sum of $15,000 with interest thereon at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum from the date of the filing of the claim with the administrator." H. A. Duc, according to the papers filed in the case, was a wealthy philanthropist, who took much interest in work having to do with the uplift of the negro race. According to the papers, he ordered the Rev. D. J. Jenkins of the orphanage to establish a bakery, to be known as the "Poor Child Bread company." It is understood that this company or bakery was to be estab-

negro children in the art of bread making and distributing bread to the negroes at cost. Mr. Duc, however, according to the papers filed, would not sign any agreement to finance the proposition, ordering Jenkins, however, to proceed. The building was erected, but the philanthropist died before payment was made and in his latest will to be probated left no provision for the payment of the $15,000 expended on the structure. A claim against the estate was filed by the Rev. D. J. Jenkins, but when this was brought before the master in equity it was decided adversely to the claimant. Exceptions were raised by counsel for Jenkins to the report of the master and the case was heard by Judge Memminger, who after due deliberation made his decree. The order is voluminous and contains many paragraphs of interest. In one instance, it states, "As a matter of common notoriety (though of course this is not taken into consideration by this court in reaching its conclusions) Jenkins, though not so notorious, has done more efficient service for his race than Booker Washington ever did; and would have better manners and form than to lunch with a president." Among other things regarding the work of the Rev. D. J. Jenkins and the effectiveness of the Jenkins bands in collecting funds, it is pointed out that "he (Jenkins) has carried them over the world. This court itself has heard them in the Strand in London, and at the Champs Elysees in Paris, and it is said they have stood in the shadows of the pyramids, where Napoleon stood, and broke the silence of the 40 centuries, which were looking down with raw American syncopation."

Dual Tragedy Near Spartanburg.

Spartanburg, June 27.—Believed to have been driven insane by protracted ill health, Perry Thompson, 72, wealthy and well known farmer, residing near Switzer, crushed the skull of his wife, 65, with the butt of a shotgun after the load in the gun had been fired into the pillow upon which she slept without striking its target and then took his own life by slashing his throat with a pocket knife and hanging himself in the barn, where he staggered after having gashed his throat.

The double tragedy was enacted last night, Mrs. Thompson dying in the hospital in Spartanburg this morning.

TAXES OFF YESTERDAY

Many Articles Were Freed From Taxes By New Ruling.

Washington, July 2.—The public purse will have another sigh of relief at midnight tonight when further cuts in the nation's tax bill under the new revenue law becomes effective after the sixty-day period stipulated from its enactment. The so-called nuisance taxes are abolished entirely, while in the field of miscellaneous taxes material reductions take effect. Included among the old law assessments which are eliminated out right are those on telegraph and telephone messages and the stamp tax of two cents a hundred dollars on drafts, checks and promissory notes. The tax on theatre admissions of one cent for each ten cents charged is changed to apply only on admission in excess of fifty cents.

The five per cent tax on jewelry articles, including musical instruments so classed, will apply only on those exceeding $30 in value, and on watches only of a value in excess of $50. Although the law levies a new tax of five per cent on automobile chassis and bodies and motorcycles and three per cent on truck or wagon chassis selling for more than $1,000 and bodies selling for more than $200, it compensates in a measure by cutting in half the five per cent tax on automobile parts and accessories.

Another cut to become effective is that from two cents to one cent a hundred dollars in the stamp tax on sales of produce, boards of trade and similar trading marts.

Among articles freed entirely of the tax levied under the old law are: Pleasure boats and canoes, candy, hunting and bowie knives, dirk knives, daggers, sword canes, stiletos, brass and metallic knuckles, smoking stands, liveries and livery boots and hats, hunting and shooting garments, riding habits, yachts and motor boats not designed for trade, fishing or national defense, and X-ray films and plates.

GENERAL NEWS NOTES

Three bandits held up a Bronx, New York, jewelry store last Friday and after locking the proprietor, a clerk and a customer in a room, escaped with $43,500 worth of jewelry. Eleven men, held in the Lilly, Pa., jail during the past ten weeks as the result of the Ku Klux riots in that town several weeks ago, were released Friday night.

Matthew F. Griffin, former chief secret service officer in Philadelphia, was on Friday convicted in that city with seven others on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government of $5,000,000 in a "water for whiskey" substitution plot.

Five boys, prisoners on Randall's Island, New York, escaped from a city juvenile prison Tuesday by swimming the East river. Two of them were recaptured by the police.

James M. Lynch of Syracuse, N. Y., has been elected president of the International Typographical union. Lynch held the office previously from 1900 to 1913.

Courts of Russia have within the past few days, sentenced twelve more persons to death for alleged espionage, in addition to the several scores who have been executed within the past few months.

Charles H. Zirkle, of Roanoke, Va., missing since June 5, was found dead last Tuesday on the grave of his mother, a bullet hole in his head and a revolver with one chamber empty in his hand.

The poultry car shipped from Belton Monday was a big success, people bringing chickens from miles around and filled the car over half full. The plan was backed by S. M. Byars, of Anderson, along with the Belton Community League, which is always ready to help in any cause that they can. More chickens were sold this year than last, the total price paid for them being $1,626.70. The money was handled through the Bank of Belton. Following is the correct weight of poultry shipped: Hens, 7,061 pounds; roosters, 690 pounds; broilers and fryers, 486 pounds; ducks, 141 pounds; total 8,251 pounds.

Eugene Mack of Columbia, charged with speeding through the principal streets of Columbia fifty miles an hour was sentenced to pay a fine of $300 or serve ninety days in jail in recorder's court in the capital city Tuesday. Mack was accompanied on his wild ride by a seventeen-year-old girl.

Marvin Hawkins, 38, a merchant of Greenville was accidentally shot and killed while at work in his garden Tuesday morning. R. A. Norris who was practicing shooting with a .38 calibre pistol some distance away fired the bullet which killed Hawkins.

Ten play houses of New York city closed Saturday night to stay closed until after the adjournment of the national Democratic convention. Business has been so poor that they could not make expenses in competition with the big show at Madison Square garden.

"That knock's way back here!"

"YOU can't always tell where the knock is from the seat," says the old-time Fleet Boss. "We traced this one back to the rear axle. There's a tooth chipped off and every time it passes the pinion you hear a knock up front. A differential or transmission gear that isn't hardened right will often shed a tooth, especially if you don't keep it well lubricated. Your motor isn't the only place where oil or grease kills noise. And remember, noise usually means trouble."

There are hundreds of car models and almost every one has a spot or two at which experience says to watch lubrication with particular care. You'll have less to watch if you standardize on "Standard" Polarine Motor oils and greases. Fifty-four years of lubricating experience have made the "Standard" Polarine line the last word in quality. You can be sure of the finest lubrication all around—at a very reasonable price—by insisting on "Standard" products.
