H. D. NILES Editor and Publisher

Published every Friday at No. 1109 Broad street and entered at the Camden, South Carolina postoffice as second class mail matter. Price per annum $2.00.

Camden, S. C., Friday, Sept. 19, 1924.

William L. Douglas, former governor of Massachusetts, died in a hospital in Boston Wednesday. Mr. Douglas began life pegging shoes, later he established a shoe factory known as the W. L. Douglas shoe company. For a generation his picture appeared in his advertisements of his famous shoe and there is hardly a man of a few years ago but who had seen his picture. He owed much of his success to printers ink.

America has again captured the international polo cup, having taken the first two games of the series from Great Britain. The four players, Webb, Hitchcock, Strawbridge and Milburn have been seen on the Camden polo fields and the games have been watched with a great deal of local interest.

Two noted murder trials to come up in the state soon are those of King and Harrell, at Chesterfield, for the murder of Major McLeary, and Edmund Bigham, slayer of five members of his own family, which comes up at Conway, this month.

Just Indignation.

Indignant letters of protest are pouring in on the New York Times, which attempted a defense of Judge Caverly's sentences in the Chicago murder case. The American public as a whole has rejected utterly the specious pretenses upon which clemency was extended in this case to two degenerates who happened to be the sons of immensely wealthy parents.

The American public is rejecting also the efforts to make this case the basis of a movement to abolish capital punishment. It should do so; first, because there are some cases which call for the death penalty and if the law does away with the death penalty mob law will impose it; second, because there is absolutely no assurance that a sentence of life imprisonment will be carried out. How many people expect that Loeb and Leopold will spend the rest of their days in the penitentiary?

It may be questioned whether human life was ever before so cheap in this country as now, or whether it is anywhere cheaper than here. Nor may any improvement be looked for until the courts are able to deserve and command a larger degree of public confidence than they now enjoy.—News and Courier.

A Canadian explorer recently left Edmonton, Alberta, in company with two others for the purpose of taking photographs of the caribou migration across the barrens. This explorer has received permission to bring out a pair of wild muskox if possible.

Society

By Miss Louise Nettles

Meeting of Hobkirk Hill Chapter.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the above chapter was held Thursday afternoon with Mrs. R. B. Pitts as hostess. The regent, Miss Leila Shannon, presided and minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. S. C. Zemp. The chapter felt much gratified with the increased membership and increased interest and knowing that next year will be the one hundredth anniversary of Lafayette's visit to Camden, plans were discussed for some celebration of the event.

The committee on the year book consisting of Mrs. R. B. Pitts, Mrs. Leonard Schenk and Miss Ada Phelps reported the work finished and the chapter accepted it with thanks and appreciation.

The study for the coming year will be South Carolina heroines of the Revolution and will no doubt prove an interesting one as their dignity and stateliness and formality are brought in contrast with the freedom and informality of the women of today.

It was decided to put water in the chapter hall and thereby add to its convenience and usefulness. It was also decided to lend the chapter hall to the Civic League for a reception in October.

The chapter accepted with pleasure an invitation from the Kershaw members to meet with them the first Friday in October and all are looking forward to this meeting with bright anticipation.

After business the hostess served ice cream and cake.

Visitor Complimented.

A charming social event of the week was the bridge party Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Leonard Schenk as hostess and Miss Alice Roche as guest of honor. The living room, sun parlor and dining room of Mrs. Schenk's beautiful new home were thrown en suite and aglow with merry lights that brightened and gave an artistic touch to the verdant forest green.

Seven tables were arranged for the game. The score prize went to Miss Ethel Yates, the consolation to Mrs. L. A. Kirkland, the honor guest was also remembered.

Refreshments consisting of block ice cream, cake, coffee and mints carried out the pleasing color scheme of sunny yellow and were served by Misses Phyllis Carrison and Carolyn Heyman.

PERSONAL MENTION

Miss Mildred Gardner left Sunday for Atlanta to enter the Atlanta Conservatory of Music.

Mrs. H. K. Hallett and children, of Paw Creek, N. C., are spending the week end with Mrs. Hallett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Landsay.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy Blakeney and children are visiting relatives in Camden. Mr. and Mrs. Blakeney have recently made their home in Charlotte.

Mrs. J. R. Griffin, of Newberry, is spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. H. D. Niles.

Mrs. E. E. Mandeville, of Philadelphia, has returned to Camden for the winter.

Mr. Dozier Brumfield, who is now located in Florida, is on a visit to his parents.

Measuring only three quarters of an inch high, the smallest camera in the world has been presented to Queen Mary of Britain, for the Queen's Doll House.

A chemistry test will convince you that Elektrik Maad whole milk bread is purer and more wholesome than any other. Elektrik Maad Bake Shop.

At a meeting of the Ministerial association of Chester attended by the pastors of the Presbyterian, Associate Reformed Presbyterian, Methodist and Baptist churches, the association refused to give its support to a special conference of the Y. M. C. A. on the ground that the organization retains such secretaries as Mr. Holmes, the secretary at Greenville, who denies the deity of Christ. The Ministerial association thinks that the evangelistic churches ought to withhold their support, moral and financial, until the Y. M. C. A. can give assurance that it is Christian in its doctrine.
