Management Announced

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Lindsay announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Nancy Stewart Lindsay to Mortimer Glover Muller, of Charlotte, N. C., son of Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Muller, of Camden. The marriage to be in the early spring.

The Fashion Show

Very gratifying to civic pride was the fitting climax to Kershaw county's splendid fall, the Fashion Show, given at the old court house Friday evening which assembled a large, representative and appreciative audience. Although given under the auspices of the fair committee credit for its complete success is given by that committee to Mrs. Groves L. Blackwell, whose talent, taste and untiring efforts never fail to crown with success any undertaking. The ladies on Mrs. Blackwell's committee are greatly indebted to Mr. H. B. Kennedy for staging the affair and rendering such valuable service.

The business firms responded graciously showing first class and up-to-date goods and proving that people need not go out of town to get the best.

The stage was elegantly and appropriately furnished by the Camden Furniture company and beautifully decorated by the Camden Floral company.

Quantities of varied flowers made an appropriate setting for the display of the many beautiful costumes worn by the maids and young matrons of Camden, who displayed positive talent and original style as models. The girls, and boys too, were in evidence in fashion's latest fad. And the young men models showed to advantage the prevailing styles in the realm of fashion as displayed by the different firms in town. The vanities were loaned by Miss Florence Boykin from the Treaschic Shoppe on DeKalb street and the fans, crops, and accessories by Mr. Grover L. Blackwell. Old fashioned costumes that told of other days "When knight-hood was in flower," and "Manners were in bloom," claimed a liberal share of interest and admiration.

An orchestra from Columbia furnished music for the occasion and the dancing and songs given during the intermission were especially pleasing.

Misses Gertrude Zemp and Mollie Blackwell as Pierrot and Pierrette charmed the audience and Miss Margaret Anrum like a butterfly in sunny yellow captured all hearts in her Spanish dance. The "good night" number, babies in nightgowns holding lighted candles was simply adorable.

After the show the floor was cleared for dancing that continued through the evening, an evening filled with brightness, cheer and beauty within, that was in striking contrast to the down pour of rain without.

Nurses Graduate

Quite a large audience attended the graduating exercises of the Camden Hospital when two young ladies received diplomas last Thursday evening at the school auditorium. The program as announced was carried out with few exceptions—Dr. Corbett presenting diplomas to Miss Florence Elizabeth Taylor and Miss Shellie Elizabeth Jackson. The principal address of the evening was made by Farmer Judge M. L. Smith, who always delights an audience, who instrumental solos entertained the audience as well as a ladies' quartet. Unfortunately the exercises were set for a night during fair week and this kept many away who might otherwise have attended. The audience showed their interest in the two young graduates as well as their interest in the fine institution from which they graduated.

Camden Selected

Camden was on Tuesday selected by the South Carolina Hospital Association as its next meeting place. About twenty delegates representing ten hospitals in the state attended the semi-annual session held in the Columbian Medical building Tuesday.
