

A NEW POWER COMPANY

To Spend Vast Sum Near Columbia and Adjacent Towns

New York City, Dec. 12.—Present plans for the immediate and future development of the generating and distributing system of the Broad River Power Company which call for expenditure of nearly $5,000,000 before the end of 1926, will have a marked effect upon the industrial activity and prosperity of Columbia, Spartanburg and adjacent cities of South Carolina, in the opinion of W. S. Barstow, president of the General Gas & Electric Corporation, who returned this week from a tour of inspection of the entire power, light, street railway and gas situation of the territory in which the existing properties and proposed extensions will operate.

The General Gas & Electric Corporation recently formed the Broad River Power Company to provide for the future electric power requirements of Columbia, Spartanburg and adjacent towns.

Mr. Barstow was very enthusiastic in discussing the prospects he had noted for the prosperity, growth and development of the Southern cities which he visited, especially those in which the companies he represents have interests. He stated that these companies can be counted upon to help along the progress and expansion of the cities by developing their public utility services to the highest possible stage of efficiency.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., and Pynchon & Co., investment bankers of Chicago and New York, have purchased the first bond issue of $1,500,000 of the Broad River Power Company, the entire proceeds of which will be used to carry into effect the initial phases of the construction and extension program. Their decision to do so was based largely on the wide diversification of essential industries using electric power already located in and near Columbia and Spartanburg.

"While a part of the territory in which the Broad River Power Company will operate already supports a large amount of industrial activity, all of the territory holds great potential opportunities," said Mr. Barstow. "A real scarcity of power during the past three years has made it necessary for the power companies to refuse new power business to large companies in some instances. Despite this situation, however, I found that the growth of the smaller businesses in the territory, which have forced themselves ahead, has contributed to a quite steady and satisfactory growth of both the electric light and power and gas business. The amount of electricity produced and sold in the territory served has more than doubled in the past nine years and gas has tripled."

The new modern steam generating plant of 65,000 kw. ultimate capacity, now being constructed adjacent to the hydro-electric generating station at Parr Shoals on Broad River, represents the first step in the development program referred to by Mr. Barstow. The first unit of 12,500 kw. will probably be completed early next fall and will be made available to Columbia, Spartanburg and various other communities through the construction of 70 miles of high-tension transmission lines. It is expected that the installation of the second unit of 12,500 kw. of the new station will be started soon after the first is completed.

The Broad River Power Company, through subsidiaries, controls the entire electric light and power, gas and street railway business of Columbia and adjacent cities. When the proposed new high-tension transmission lines are completed, Spartanburg will be included in the company's field of operation as well as several other cities. Connections first will be made with Batesburg, Leesville and Lexington.

The Broad River Power Company is under the same management as the North Carolina Public Service Company, of Greensboro, N. C.; Metropolitan Edison Company of Reading, Pa.; Pennsylvania Edison Company of Easton, Pa.; The New Jersey Power & Light Company of Dover, N. J.; Binghamton Light, Heat & Power Co., of Binghamton, N. Y., and other well known and successful properties which are controlled by the General Gas & Electric Corporation.

The Broad River Power Company, therefore, has at its command the services of the same experienced operators that have successfully developed these other companies and there is every reason to believe that they will accomplish the same satisfactory result with respect to the Broad River

Resolutions of Respect

We the County Home Demonstration Agents of South Carolina assembled at our annual meeting do hereby offer the following resolutions:

Resolved: 1. That since God in His all-wise providence has removed our co-worker Miss Madeline Thompson, we have suffered irreparable loss and we do hereby offer to her family and her friends our deepest sympathy and prayer.

2. That we have short services to her memory at our agents program on Friday, December 12.

3. That a copy of these resolutions be inscribed on a page of our minute book and also be sent to her family and to the paper in Camden, where she worked and in Gastonia, her home.

Respectfully submitted,
Jennie Boyd,
Caroline S. Alston,
Emma Jane Varn,
Committee.
