

Baby Cried and Fretted All Day

That Teethina, the wonderful laxative and stomach corrective, is the perfect medicine for keeping babies and children healthy is conclusively proved by the hundreds of letters constantly being received from happy and grateful mothers who have given it to their little ones.

Among others praising it is Mrs. A. A. Burr, Route 2, Clayton, Ala., who writes: "I began giving Teethina to my baby at 8 months and kept it up all through teething time."

"He might be crying and fretting all day, and at bed time I'd give him a dose of Teethina and he would sleep fine and wake up in the morning with a smile."

Teethina is sold by all druggists, or send 50c to Moffett Laboratories, Columbus, Ga., for package and FREE BOOKLET ABOUT BABIES

FROM TRINITY TO DUKE

Newspaper Humorist Says He is Opposed To It

Trinity college in Durham, N. C. is to become Duke University, and thereby receive an endowment of $25,000,000. I am sorry, writes Heywood Brown in the New York World. The news dispatch says that the board of trustees voted unanimously for the change. Even if there had been no more than one, I could wish that someone had stood out against the change.

Duke is well enough as a name, but Trinity is a good name, too, and after all the college was Trinity until an obliging and encroaching millionaire came along to change it. There should be a branch of the Lucy Stone league which would encourage colleges to keep their own names and resist the blandishments of people proffering endowments. The suggestion is too strong that Mr. Duke has bought the place and asked to have it wrapped up and sent around to his house.

Benefactors of education and other good works arrogate to themselves far too many rights in distributing money. People who help colleges are forever impairing their gifts with conditions. Every institution in the country is embarrassed with bequests founding a scholarship for a promising student of English, who shall be red headed and the daughter of a practicing physician in Vermont. Anybody who wants to give money to a university should do no more than write a little note saying: "Here is some money which I thought you might be able to use. Do what you will with it."

The one who gives earns for himself honor in heaven, but most of the beneficent cannot resist the temptation of going in for a little glory on earth as a sideline.

Now that Trinity has become Duke I trust the institution will make some provision to recompense the students who decorated their rooms with banners inscribed "Trinity 1923" and those who bought college pipes. And think of the football players who earned by dint of great determination, the honor of wearing a white "T" on their sweaters. Before the big game each year they were urged to die if necessary for dear old Trinity. Will it, I wonder, be just as easy to die for Duke? And what about the college song? There must be an anthem in which the sun sets behind the hills of Trinity. When next the sun comes round and finds that these are now the hills of Duke, will it just set in the same old way or will it feel that it cannot be bothered and confused by such sweeping changes and pass by?

Of course, $25,000,000 is a large sum of money, but standards in fortunes vary, and there may come another century in which such an amount becomes the merest trifle. In that day J. Augustus Tinkham may get a longing to see his name over a lecture hall, and what is to prevent him from offering a still larger endowment and having the Duke stripped from the walls and out of the long cheer, and substituting for it the name Tinkham?

No, I think it would have been smarter for the trustees in Durham to have kept the name and lost the millions.

Attorneys Get Large Fee

Chicago, Jan. 8.—Clarence H. Darrow and other attorneys who defended Richard Loeb and Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., for the kidnapping and slaying of Robert Franks, have agreed with the families of the youths to accept $130,000 for their services an announcement by the Chicago bar association, which endorsed the settlement as fair, said tonight.
