Published every Friday at No. 1109 Broad Street and entered at the Camden, South Carolina, postoffice as second class mail matter. Price per annum $2.00.

Camden, S. C., Friday, July 10, 1925

One of the manufacturers of fruit jars are turning out a square jar instead of the usual round jar. "They say" it is easier to get a grip on. Now for one with a groove to fit over the nose.

That monkey business at Dayton is filling many a column of newspaper stuff. If that fellow Scopes thinks he descended from a monkey he has a perfect right to his opinion but he has no right to be trying to force that belief on others. He may be right in his own individual case.

It is related that an angel once appeared to a dreaming engineer, saying, "Yes, after this life thou wilt live again." "Is it absolutely necessary?" begged the newspaperman, as he fell out of bed.

At the opening of the court of general sessions in Sumter this week Judge Wilson in his charge to the grand jury said that there were entirely too many violations of the prohibition law in that county. In their presentment the grand jury requested that the judge impose sentences instead of fines in all cases of this character.

George Tolbert, Jr., well known Greenwood county farmer, will be prosecuted, it is understood by Mrs. Lula Banther of Belton, charging alleged mistreatment of her two children who were entrusted to Tolbert by the Children's Home Society of Columbia two years ago.

Plans are being rapidly completed for the annual state trapshooting tournament to be held in Spartanburg July 14-16, it is announced. Sportsmen from all sections of the state are expected to compete for the various trophies offered by the Amateur Trapshooting association.

The lifeless body of Jesse Price, 17 year old youth of the Motlow Creek section of Spartanburg county, was found in the woods near his home. A shotgun lay beside the corpse and the top of the boy's head had been blown away. The gun had apparently been accidentally discharged while young Price was hunting.

DEATHS ON THE FOURTH

Two Hundred and Fifty Paid With Their Lives in Celebration

Chicago, July 6.—The toll of holiday fatalities throughout the country mounted today to the 250 mark with automobile accidents and drownings at the head of the list, without Boston harbor tragedy in which 43 persons perished.

Although the Fourth of July passed with remarkably few deaths from fireworks and explosions the abnormal traffic in suburban areas led to an unusually long list of dead and injured.

More than 400 were injured in the states which reported the heaviest death tolls.

Illinois reported 57 dead and more than 100 injured. Other state totals follow.

Massachusetts, New York, 20; Indiana, 16; Ohio, 15; Missouri, 12; Colorado, 11; Rhode Island, 9; New Jersey, 8; Pennsylvania, 7; Vermont, 2; Minnesota, 1; Iowa, 1; California, 1; Oregon, 1; North Dakota, 1.

When hundreds of thousands of people are celebrating a national holiday it is not surprising that there should be a number of accidents and deaths. The Fourth of July is a time when people are more careless and more prone to take risks. The result is a high death toll.

GENERAL NEWS NOTES

A $50,000 yarn mill will probably be erected at Ellenboro, Chester county.

A creosoting plant, involving an investment of about $200,000 will be established at Spartanburg.

Citizens of Gaffney will vote July 28 on the question of issuing $100,000 in bonds for permanent street improvements.

Spartanburg county cotton mills and banks paid their stockholders semi-annual dividends aggregating $694,471 on July 1.

Subscriptions are being raised in Florence for the erection of a new hotel, the movement being fostered by the chamber of commerce of that city.

John Langdon Davies, professor at Oxford university, England, declared at Rock Hill that "there can be no conflict between Scriptural version of creation and the theory of evolution."

Florence expects to get a share of the expenditure of $10,000,000 which the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company has authorized for betterment of its facilities this year.

Two thousand citizens of Georgetown county and other parts of the state gathered at Black River last Friday to take part in the ceremonies opening the recently completed bridge over this river that forms so important a link in the Atlantic coast highway.

George Tolbert, Jr., well known Greenwood county farmer, will be prosecuted, it is understood by Mrs. Lula Banther of Belton, charging alleged mistreatment of her two children who were entrusted to Tolbert by the Children's Home Society of Columbia two years ago.

Plans are being rapidly completed for the annual state trapshooting tournament to be held in Spartanburg July 14-16, it is announced. Sportsmen from all sections of the state are expected to compete for the various trophies offered by the Amateur Trapshooting association.

Announces For Governor

Greenville, July 4.—James P. Carey, Jr., popular member of the Pickens bar, formally announced his intention to enter the gubernatorial race of South Carolina of next summer in a statement written here tonight for the Greenville News. In making known his intentions, he pointed out that his platform will be announced soon and that his campaign began at once.

Mr. Carey has enjoyed a successful career in law at Pickens for about twenty years and has served on the board of the state legislature. He has served as a special judge and is president of the Keowee Bank of Pickens.

Some of the money that President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon are going to save might well be spent wiping out disease, deserts, and swamps on Uncle Sam's great farm.

American officers that went to England to play polo against the British officers beat the British, and the polo trophy title stays in the United States. That is good. But why are America's enlisted men sent over to play polo?

To Locate in Columbia
W. J. Christmas, of Camden, N. Y. Traveler of Character and H. W. P. Adams of Columbia, graduate of the law school of the University of South Carolina, are a few of the names of the members of a committee organized to locate in Columbia.

W. J. Christmas, who was born in Camden, N. Y., and who has been in the service of the State of South Carolina for many years, is a prominent member of the United States Army. He is a member of the State of South Carolina.

The cross-word puzzle craze has driven into bankruptcy the Fung Chow Company, Incorporated, formerly one of the largest domestic manufacturers of Mah Jong sets.

THIS WEEK

By Arthur Brisbane

Mr. Brisbane's editorials are published as expressions of opinions of the world's highest-salaried editor and The Chronicle does not necessarily endorse all of his views and conclusions.

The Farmer's Share

The agricultural department shows that in 1924 the farmers averaged a profit of 21 cents a bushel on wheat and 28 cents a bushel on corn. Many lost money on every bushel, others made more than the average.

Farmers that raised potatoes on the average actually lost money, and would have been better off if they hadn't planted a potato.

A good wheat speculator, knowing that the prosperous class wanted La Follette badly beaten, and was sure to put up the price of wheat, could easily buy a million bushels of wheat early in the campaign and sell it at a profit of one million dollars.

It was a lucky farmer that could raise five thousand bushels of wheat and sell it at a profit of one thousand dollars.

Codlage on the Radio

No man can guess what power to speak well over the radio may mean in years to come.

The other night bridge parties laid down their cards, women on farms stopped the late cleaning up of dishes, their husbands came in from evening chores, tens of millions listened to the president's clear, incisive matter of fact voice, discussing in plain fashion the importance of national economies and laying down, to the satisfaction of every hearer, the simple truth that the people's money belongs to the people.

It was an innovation when Woodrow Wilson, so perfectly dressed, drove to the Capitol and talked direct to senators, representatives, the supreme court and others.

"Wonderful audience," the world said.

But it was no audience at all compared to the vast multitude that heard President Coolidge talk direct to the people of the United States.

The 24-Ounce Dress

Proof that the complete costume of a modern woman, including dress, stockings, shoes and underwear, may weigh as little as 24 ounces causes the virtuous to grieve. But, even as woman in her changing moods cuts off her dress at top and bottom, there may be comfort. The low-necked dress is partially justified by this fact, to which your doctor will testify: Cancer attacks women more often than men, and cancer of the breast, dreadfully frequent in civilized countries, is quite unknown among female savages that wear no clothing above the waist. Sunshine seems to keep cancer away.

Amundsen is back from "almost to the Pole," and if he lives and can raise the money he will start again. His ambition is to be the only man that ever stood "on both tops of the earth."

In English coal mines, mechanical cutters and carriers of coal are driving out men by the thousands. "The truth shall set you free," says the Bible. Science is the truth, and you realize what science has done to set humans free when you look at the pictures of women that used to work in English coal mines, crawling on their hands and knees through the narrow passages, an iron chain around their necks, passing under their bodies and fastened to a small coal car.

Turn from that picture of a woman pulling coal on her hands and knees to a modern mechanical coal carrier, moved by electricity.

Old Swimming Holes

Patriotic citizens of Indiana contribute $12,500 to preserve James Whitcomb Riley's "Old Swimmin' Hole." That's worth while; sentiment is beautiful.

The government ought to spend a few thousand times $12,500 to fill up a lot of mosquitoes' old swimming holes, swamps and other breeding places of malaria.

Some of the money that President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon are going to save might well be spent wiping out disease, deserts, and swamps on Uncle Sam's great farm.

American officers that went to England to play polo against the British officers beat the British, and the polo trophy title stays in the United States. That is good. But why are America's enlisted men sent over to play polo?
