A YEAR AND A DAY
And Fine of $2,000 is Price of Bath Tub Party

New York, June 3.—Earl Carroll, Broadway producer, convicted of perjury in connection with grand jury investigation of a party in his theatre at which an unclad chorus girl served drinks from a bath tub in which she was seated, was sentenced today to serve a year and a day and to pay a fine of $2,000.

Carroll was originally indicted on six counts. Two referred to his testimony that there had been no liquor served at the party, two to his statement that no one occupied the bath tub, and two to his assertion that he had no list of guests at the party.

The guest list indictment was dropped on recommendation of the prosecution. He was not found guilty of the liquor indictment, but guilty of the two indictments concerning the nude woman and the tub.

The court ordered the jail sentence on the two counts to run concurrently so that Carroll will have to serve a year and a day and to pay a fine of $2,000. Sentence was imposed by Judge Goddard, before whom Carroll was tried and convicted.

MAKING FARM RECORDS TALK

By D. H. OTIS
Agricultural Director,
American Bankers Association.

Any one who has driven an automobile in a new country knows the value of a good road map. Farm accounts, properly kept, are a reliable road map to aid the farmer in directing the business management of his farm.

In farming communities where records have been kept in considerable number it is not uncommon to find differences in net income of $1,000 per farm between the average and the poorer farms of the community. It is also frequently found that there is a difference of over $1,000 between the average farm and a few of the better farms of the community. These differences of from $1,000 to $2,000 per farm in the net income are of vital concern to any farm in any community.

Where to Get the Facts
Farm records and inventories will reveal the reasons for these differences. The various colleges of agriculture and the United States Department of Agriculture have a collection of records and farm management surveys from which they find it possible to construct standards or guides showing actual attainments under good systems of management. Figures of this kind are available to county agents and farmers who desire to use them. It is also possible to organize farm accounting groups in a community and with the help of the College of Agriculture to develop community standards showing what the average and what the better farms are doing. These standards or examples of what the more successful farms are doing, when handled in such a way as not to divulge the identity of the owners, are a wonderful help in pointing out to the less successful farmers the weak spots in the business management of their farms.

How to Use the Facts
The farmer who keeps a careful record of the factors relating to the business management of his farm is in position to compare his farm with the average and with the best in the volume of business, as number of acres, total investment, number of cows, total receipts and total expenses. He can check on his diversity of income by comparing his income from sale of cows, sale of livestock, livestock products and sales from miscellaneous sources. His quality of business can be studied by comparing such items as income per acre or income per cow, etc.

By such a process the farmer is in position to make his records talk to him and point out the weak and the strong features in his farm operation. There is no tax that we pay today that compares with the tax we pay for our ignorance. This is true on the farm as elsewhere. Farm records, including inventories from which it is easy to form financial statements, will do wonders in reducing the tax of ignorance and placing farm business on a business basis and inspire confidence in the farmer, himself and with all these with whom he deals.

BANKERS HELP

Minnesota bankers played a constructive part in hastening the attendance at the Northwest Dairy Exposition held in connection with the State Fair in September. Five hundred members of the Minnesota Bankers Association received letters from the chairman of the agricultural committee, asking them to assist in forming delegations from their respective communities to attend the show.

The Atlanta, Ga., Clearing House gives the boll weevil no rest. In an effort to effect a concerted and state-wide poison war on the boll weevil, this institution sent letters recently to all the bankers in the state asking that they assist in emphasizing the need for a wholesale war on the pest. According to a recent survey poisoning is being done on the larger farms, but not to any appreciable extent on the small farms. According to reports by the Department of Agriculture the boll weevil infestation is heavier this year than ever before, and if allowed to go unchallenged the crop will be destroyed. Immediate and extensive action is urged.

Over two hundred bankers in Iowa recently made an arrangement to attend the Iowa State University for a two-day period and study farming and farm problems. The bankers will sit as students under the professors in the agricultural department, and will dig right down to the bottom of the many subjects which are of mutual concern to themselves and the farmers. This action on the part of the bankers of Iowa shows a real spirit of interest and a determined intention to understand.

Clark County (S. D.) Bankers, have appointed an agricultural committee of five to aid the county agent in putting across the latter's program of work with special emphasis on a ten-acre corn contest and eradication of tuberculosis in the county.

A Near Tragedy.

Spartanburg, May 31.—A repetition of the Kershaw County catastrophe which shocked the country several years ago when a school building burned to the ground, killing a number of children, was narrowly averted at Walnut Grove school house during the closing exercises. As the curtain was going up for the first act in some way a large oil lamp was turned over, the flames leaped up toward the ceiling.

A stampede ensued, men, women and children rushing for the doors
