Junior-Senior Banquet

Claiming first place in the interest of Camden's younger society set during the past week, was the junior-senior banquet given on last Friday night. Every year this banquet marks the climax of the social activities in the high school and this year it was a particularly bright affair.

The local post of the American Legion lent their new assembly hall for the occasion. This was decorated in potted plants, ferns and southern smilax. The school colors of gold and black were also used effectively in the decoration. The class colors of green and white, however, were carried out in the clever favors that marked each guest's place.

Lucius Ogburn, president of the junior class, was toast master for the evening. Catherine Boykin gave the toast to the seniors, to which Elmer Watts, senior president, responded most graciously.

An outstanding feature of the entertainment was a dance by the maids, who were, Misses Willie Haile, Emily Pitts, Elizabeth Zemp, Caroline Houser, Mary Helen Flowers, Virginia Howard, Olive Nettles, Lenora Rhamé, Elizabeth McCaskill, Alma Hall.

May Pageant Put On At Mill School

Under the supervision of Miss Ernestine Bateman a pretty pageant was put on at the Mill school Wednesday. It was in honor of the King and Queen of the May, and many little tots from the town and mill schools took part—to represent flowers which formed the background.

Signs of Spring were rabbits, bumblebees, frogs and butterflies, who took their places among the mushrooms. The solo dancers were: Rain, Emily Shannon; sunshine, Evelyn Edwards; and rainbow, Wilks Wright. Then appeared the fairies and brownies who waked them up to let them know that Spring was here.

Lenoir Myers played the part of King and the Queen was Connie Murphy. Jolly Pitts acted as the Herald. The court attendants and flower girls came ahead of the King and Queen and they were Mary Pitts and Henry Niles, Jr., Bettie Stevenson and John Langford, Dorothy Sowell and Charles McCaskill, Virginia Guthrie and Leroy Wooten.

Mother Goose and her children, ballet girls, and Dutch boys then came in to welcome the King and Queen back again. An old fashioned minuet was staged and a flag drill representing heralds from Health-land made up of boys and girls from the school. The final was the grand march off the stage in front of the audience.

It represented no little work and patience on the part of Miss Bateman, and owing to the fact that so many of the mothers from the mill were unable to be present, the pageant will be held again tomorrow, Saturday, at 5:30 in the afternoon.

Shuford R. Coward, Republican leader and prominent farmer of Madison county, North Carolina, was fatally shot by his wife Friday in their home. The two exchanged shots for some time.

A stone from the Cowans Ford battlefield near which Gen. William Davidson was killed will be sent by the Mecklenburg county commissioner to the Old Fort Indian Memorial association to be used with a stone from each of the other counties in North Carolina to form the base of a marker at the point which was an outpost of civilization for a long time.
