Early Morning Fire Burns New York Cafe

Firemen at five o'clock Wednesday morning entered the New York Cafe on DeKalb street where flames in the kitchen were for a while threatening this section of the city with one of its most serious fires.

The fire originated, according to belief of fire department officials, from an overheated or defective oil stove which had been permitted to burn all night beneath a coffee urn. Damage to furniture and fixtures from smoke and water in addition to the toll by fire is expected to run around $2,000, according to Gus Michotes, owner and manager of the cafe, with insurance it is said amounting to $2,000.

HEADED FOR RICHES

Man Who Shot Up Virginia Court House Now Cashing In

Danville, Va.—Sidna Allen, a participant in the Hillsville horror many years ago and who comparatively recently emerged from the penitentiary, is already on the way to prosperity. Penniless when he started life over again, his fortune dissipated in the long legal fight, he had just refused an offer of $100,000 in New York and will, according to luminaries in showmanship, be worth $500,000 in five years.

Allen has virtually no stock in trade except himself. He carries a specimen of wood work done in the penitentiary, which he displays. He makes a short talk and has capitalized his being at the expense of public curiosity.

He has already earned sufficient to buy a home and is relatively speaking on "easy street."
These facts were given today by Robt. George, of Pittsylvania, who has become interested in Allen. Pressed for details of the $100,000 he said that it was a boni fide offer for that amount. A furniture manufacturer wants Allen to enter a years contract with him and go where he is told to go. Allen spurned the offer, until he could meet the man at close quarters and he is now headed north planning to stop at various places on the way to reap in the quarters.

He has already toured Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, West Virginia and part of Maryland. The further he goes, George claims, the larger is public interest.

Allen developed the idea himself. He is a modest, retiring man and is the very antithesis of the wild mountain man with a two-gun tendency as he was depicted at the time pistols smoked in the Hillsville courtroom. He opened his first venture here and succeeded. Then he entered a contract with a travelling show company. The small tent was a big hit. Now, rival carnival companies are bidding freely for him.

Thirty or more persons were more or less injured in a street car collision in Chicago on Sunday afternoon. Several children were trampled by the panicky crowd.

Death of J. A. Shaw

It is with profound regret that we Cronicle this week the death of John A. Shaw, father of W. A. Shaw, assistant cashier of the Peoples Bank, which occurred Monday afternoon at the home of his son near Mt. Pisgah high school, following a long illness. The funeral services were conducted at the home Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. G. W. Davis, pastor of Mr. Shaw, assisted by Rev. Geo. E. Smith, pastor of the Kershaw First Baptist church, and Rev. M. B. Gunter, of Bethune, and the remains were brought to Kershaw by motor hearse for interment in the Kershaw cemetery.

Mr. Shaw, who was in his seventy-ninth year, spent most of his life in the Buffalo section of Kershaw county, where their children were born and reared to manhood and womanhood, leaving the homeplace after their marriage. When his son, W. A. Shaw, established his home just a short ways southeast of town on the Kershaw-Bethune highway, his father and mother came to make their home with him. There they dwelt until more recently, when Mr. W. A. Shaw and family removed to their present home near the Pisgah high school, and he took his father and mother with him to make their home with him there also. Mr. Shaw was a good man in every sense. He was a member of Shiloh Methodist church and had a consistent Christian life, loving his fellowmen and being loved and respected of them. His life was quiet and unpretentious, but won the faith and the respect of all his friends and neighbors. His latter years were in ill health, and for the past two years he had been kept closely to his home. About ten days prior to his death he grew worse and gradually declined until the end came Monday afternoon. The large attendance at the funeral service at the home and at the cemetery, and the many beautiful floral tributes testified of the esteem and friendship felt for him.—Kershaw Era.
