Forestry Projects For Many Counties

A part of the educational program of the State Forestry Commission is the creating of miniature "Demon- Baskets of spring flowers in many stration Forests" in each county of the State. The Commission proposes to locate one, if possible, near each agricultural high school, and it is hoped to have at least one demonstration area established in each county by the end of the present

These little "show-window forests" may cover anywhere from one to ten acres of land. Where a tract of bare land only is available, it is planted up with valuable species of timber trees from the State Forest Tree Nursery at Camden. It is desirable to secure an area a part of which is unforested and a part al ready well set with trees, preferably a dense young stand of second growth. The latter can be used for making demonstrations in thinning and for growth studies. A prime requirement is the prayiding of adequate protection from fire.

So far this spring two demonstration areas have been established in Richland county-one on the farm of the Epworth Orphanage, adjacent to the Sumter highway near the Mill Creek school, and one on the school grounds at Dentsville. Three have been started in Kershaw county, all in connection with agricultural schools; two in Greenwood county, one near the city of Greenwood and one at Ware Shoals; one near St. Matthews. in Calhoun county, one at Springfield, Orangeburg county, one at Williston, Barnwell county, and one near Anderson. Sixteen hundred one-year old pine trees were planted on the camp grounds of the Future Palmetto Farmers in Oconee county by the agricultural students from the Walhalla and Tamass schools, under the direction of the Assistant State Forester and their agricultural teachers. It is planned to make successive plantings of different species annually for a number of years. In locating and developing these laughs, and some music and a song or two to lend it sparkle. It is hoped to have in readiness for Memcreal that trees are being trimmed and do not by tree surgeons in the hope of preserving these beautiful specime: our city of the dead.
