June Farm Calendar Given By Specialists

Clemson College, June 4.—R. W. Hamilton, agronomist, E. H. Rawl, horticulturist, Alfred Lutken, entomologist and pathologist, and J. T. McAlister, agricultural engineer, have below brief timely reminders for farmers in June.

Agronomy.—Boll weevils are prevalent. Mop your cotton with the 1-1-1 molasses-arsenate mixture. Make plenty of hay by planting every acre of grain stubble in peas or soybeans, which are low in price. There will be no money to buy feed with next year. Better plant a few more acres of corn to be on the safe side. Build a compost heap and worry less about buying fertilizer next spring.

Horticulture.—Secure Lookout Mountain potatoes for July planting and prepare soil early to conserve moisture. Order celery plants for late July or early August delivery. Apply quickly available nitrogen to garden crops if not growing well. Cultivate crops shallow but frequently to save moisture. Mulch tomato plants heavily with straw or leaves to hold moisture and prolong fruiting season. Pack vegetables and fruits in the right kind of attractive package and get better prices.

Insects and Diseases.—Spray pecans with 3-3-50 Bordeaux to control scab. Examine banded apple trees every 10 days and kill codling moth larvae. Pick up and burn fallen fruit. Spray melons, tomatoes, and Irish potatoes with Bordeaux for insect control; add lead arsenate for leaf-eating insects. Spray or dust magnesium arsenate to control Mexican bean beetle. Stop red spiders by burning weeds and badly infested plants, and applying superfine dusting sulphur.

Agricultural Engineering.—Keep the two-horse cultivator going. The same sweeps used on one-horse plows will work. Keep sweeps sharp and properly adjusted. Recondition the mower for cutting weeds and hay. Remove and store binder canvas after grain harvest, and grease the knottor with cup grease. Get the boll weevil duster in good working condition. Let grain be thoroughly ripe before combining, and provide ample storage space to prevent damage.

Animal Husbandry.—Keep hogs on forage, and provide shade and water. Keep young pigs on territory not infested with parasites. Treat sheep for stomach worms if heavily infested, and change pastures every two weeks. Market the fat lambs when they weigh 70 to 80 pounds. Get beef cows bred for spring calves. Mow pastures to destroy weeds and repair fences at odd times.

Dairying.—Control flies by keeping all manure spread on the fields. Cool milk and cream immediately after milking to control bacteria and undesirable odors and flavors. Mow the pasture often enough to keep down obnoxious weeds. Sow sudan grass on a rich plot close to the barn to cut and feed green when the pastures are dry and short. Keep an abundant supply of fresh water before the cows.

Keep pullets on clean range during summer months. Do not push them into egg production; feed a low protein ration made up mostly of grain. Watch the birds for lice infestation and examine the sleeping quarters occasionally for mites. If troubled each fall with chicken pox or sore-head, vaccinate the pullets when three to four months of age to prevent an outbreak this fall.

Mob Lynchings Accused Man

Princeton, Ky., June 1.—Walter Merrick, 48, was removed from the county jail by a mob late last night and his body was found hanging from a tree three miles from here today.

A lynching party entered Jailor Curt Jones' room, bound him, took his keys and departed with the prisoner without arousing any citizens. Merrick was arrested but it was June 13, on a charge of dynamiting the store of M. P. Poole near here last February. Poole was seriously injured and a boy near the building suffered a broken arm.

Intense feeling over the explosion caused fear of mob violence after Merrick was arrested by it was believed to have subsided.

The explosion, police said, was sent off by Merrick as result of Merrick's boy being whipped by a school teacher, who was sided with by Poole, chairman of the county school board, when the case was taken to court.

With eighteen offices to fill in its coming election, there are 57 candidates in Georgia offering for the various offices. There are ten candidates out for the governorship.

Record Race Victor Thanks Firestone

Upper left, Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., referee of the race, and Edsel Ford, pacemaker on the first lap. Lower, Fred Frame, the winner, and Jerry Hauck, riding mechanic, in the car they drove to victory.

Men, automobiles and tires set amazing new records of speed and endurance in this year's 500-mile international race on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. Giving a splendid exhibition of cool and steady driving, Fred Frame, veteran of many races, won the event in record-breaking time. With an admiring throng milling around him after his sensational victory, one of the first things Frame did was to send the following telegram to Harvey S. Firestone, pioneer tire manufacturer:

"I want to congratulate you and thank you on the wonderful performance of Firestone tires which helped me win the Indianapolis 500-mile race today without tire trouble, setting a new record of more than 104 miles an hour for the 500 miles."

The race throughout was a remarkable Firestone triumph. Every car to finish was equipped with Firestone Tires. The first four broke the former record of 101.13 miles an hour made by Peter De Paolo in 1925. In all the history of the famous motor race there has never been a more severe test of tires and never a finer demonstration of their qualities than was furnished this year. It was the thirteenth consecutive victory for Firestone.
