"I ENVIED HER LOVELY COMPLEXION..."

Two years I'd wanted to ask how she kept her skin so satiny smooth and youthful. At last she told me... Octagon Toilet Soap! Of course, I started using it right away. And, oh, what a huge improvement it has made in my complexion. My skin is far softer, too! Why not rely upon the rich, creamy lather of Octagon Toilet Soap to guard your beauty, too?

Rotary Notes

The Camden Rotary Club was entertained yesterday by F. L. Campbell, campaign director for the United States Highway Number One Association, who spoke on the problems which this highway is facing, and their possible solutions.

Mr. Campbell explained that, because of more modern methods of advertising, and thereby attracting tourists, newer highways are usurping Number One in tourist trade. He made an appeal to Rotarians to aid in the formation of a more modern program of advertising for the highway, stating that it had four things which no other highway could beat, namely: the Number ONE all the way from Maine to Florida, which makes for simplification of travel problems; better road beds than any other long highway; more historic interest; and better facilities for taking care of the tourists who travel it—in tourist homes, hotels and service stations.

After Mr. Campbell's talk, F. H. Heath, Secretary of the Camden and Kershaw County Chamber of Commerce spoke briefly, praising the U. S. No. 1 program, as did William Lykes, Secretary of the Columbia Chamber of Commerce.

Guests at the meeting were William Lykes and Mr. Evans, of Columbia; W. E. Kendall, F. H. Heath, Arthur Slade, J. Cooley Gillis, and Miss Betty Carrison, of Camden. Visiting Rotarians were Verd Peterson and J. K. DeLoache, of Columbia, the latter being president of the Columbia Merchant's Association.

At a short meeting of the Highway Number One Association representatives, together with interested local persons after Rotary, J. Cooley Gillis was named chairman of the Camden division of the United States Number One Highway Association.
