BAKER-LENOIR

Rembert, July 5.—Miss Carrie Emily Baker and Samuel Gaillard Lenoir, of Horatio, were married at the home of the bride at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, July 3. Rev. J. T. Littlejohn, of Bishopville, officiated in the presence of fifty relatives of the two families. The room in which the ceremony took place was very pretty with an improvised altar of pines and ivy, interspersed with tall white floor baskets of Queen Anne's lace and Shasta daisies. In the center a large white vase of white gladioli were placed where they were reflected in the mirror over the mantel. On each side of this vase were two silver candle-holders with white candles which were lighted by LeRoy Baker, brother of the bride. The bride and groom entered the ceremony room together, unattended.

Immediately after the ceremony the young couple left for their wedding trip.

THE CIRCUS QUILTS ITS TOUR

The greatest of American circuses, the Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey combination, has returned to its home in Sarasota, Florida. Its performers and other employees are out of work. They chose to let the circus go home rather than accept reduced wages. The management said that it was losing too much money and that it was vital that expenses should be curtailed. More than a week the circus was in Scranton, Pa., and then it entrained for Sarasota, its several trains passing through Charleston.

In a time when the federal government spends prodigally for the unemployed and the unemployables the circus equestrians and equestriennes, the trapeze performers, the acrobats and the tumblers, the "razor backs" and others have joined the unemployed. The question has already been asked: Will Mr. Harry L. Hopkins come to their relief with his WPA funds? Will the abecedarians back up these circus people in quitting, because the circus could not afford to continue their high wages?

The WPA may come to the assistance of the unemployed circus performers and workers, but the management of the circus will have to maintain animals and equipment in Sarasota out of private funds. Not yet is there any intimation that performers and workers will change their minds and bring the circus back on the road. The circus season does not end until November, so that the combination of the Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey has folded up in mid-season.

A great circus is a costly enterprise. It must sustain itself from day to day. When it loses, it loses heavily. In these latter years costs have mounted. The circus cannot divide among its employees what it falls to take in the ticket-wagon. It must suffer a steady loss in quarters, but that loss, it seems, will be less than if the tour had been continued with the wage scales as high as they are. The circus takes a licking, but so do all the employees who have left it. In circumstances, performers and workers have deliberately joined the unemployed. There is no profit to them in their strike.—Charleston News and Courier.
