Travelers Score 11 to 7 Polo Win

In a game featuring polo riders from Camden, Fort Jackson, Baltimore and Alken, the Travelers, with McGrath and Brown of the Essex troop, Fort Jackson, Reber of Alken, and Lightfoot of Camden in the lineup, trounced the Camden Yellowjackets, Hasting Gallion of Baltimore and DuBose, Harrison and Bates of Camden before a large crowd, 11 to 7 Sunday afternoon. It was the highest scoring game on the Camden field this season.

The game was marked by one spill—Gallion taking a nose dive from his mount in the first chukker. Although badly shaken up he was able to resume play after five minutes rest. Tupper of Camden, took over in the last two chukkers.

The Travelers had a two-goal handicap allowance to start but as events turned out, did not need it. Twice during the six-chukker battle they scored three counters per chukker and in one period put over two markers.

The Yellowjackets were the first to score, Harrison making a perfect shot toward the end of the first period. In the second frame Reber of the Travelers scored but was closely followed by Harrison. Brown scored for the invaders and was followed by Reber with his second goal. In the third period the Yellowjackets staged a sensational rally to score three goals and tie up the game at the bell as the Travelers were blanked. Scoring were Gallion with two and DuBose with one.

In the fourth the Jackets were blanked, while the Travelers gathered two goals, by Reber and Lightfoot. Again in the fifth the Jackets, who were now playing sloppy ball, went scoreless while Reber shot his fourth goal of the afternoon. The Travelers continued the slaughter in the sixth while Lightfoot, Brown and McGrath scoring. The Jackets staged a rally of their own to score two points on goals by Tupper and DuBose. Harrison scored after the bell in the fourth but the goal was not allowed. Maj. Lester Karow of Charleston was referee of the match.

High School To Make Model Planes

stir the interest of American boys and girls in aviation, since many of them expect to grow up to be pilots, this project channels that interest toward an educational objective of immediate value."

G. E. McGrew and H. A. Small will jointly supervise the construction of the models. They explained briefly how the models may be used. "Identification must be second nature for a pilot," he said, "for in a 'dog fight' no pilot has time to look for plane markings."

"These models will be on an exact scale of 1 to 72. That means that a model plane seen at 35 feet is identical with the true airplane seen at just under half a mile. By studying the model through a standard ring sight used on aerial gun mounts, the pilot learns not only identification but range as well."

"The models will serve also to train civilian 'spotters' in identifying enemy planes. The British, I understand, have found invaluable the ability of citizens, through close study of models, to identify a plane in the instant it might take to pass from one cloud bank into another.

"The safety of our major cities may soon depend on the ability of our citizens along coastal areas to spot and report quickly and accurately the types of enemy planes that may approach our shores."

Each youth who produces stated quantities of accepted models will receive an individual certificate including his name and a statement on the importance of the work issued by the United States Navy Bureau of Aeronautics.

Heavy Fall Of Snow Blankets The City

The young people, even some of the oldsters got a big kick out of the snowfall, staging mimic battles in which snowballs played a prominent part. One of the most exciting engagements of this character occurred on Hampton street where a band of northern officers stationed at the flying school and making their homes in the Hampton street area staged an attack upon a group of southern belles and being amazed at the dexterity of the "rebels" in loosing a barrage of snow balls.

The snow storm was general all over the state and up into North Carolina. Wednesday morning the Palmetto area was under a white blanket.

Clemson Loses First Man in Service

Clemson, Feb. 23.—Notes of interest from the Clemson College campus: President Robert Franklin Poole has announced that Clemson will operate on a 12-month basis "such procedure is strongly recommended by the government." Dr. Poole: "We do not have the financial appropriation or faculty personnel to continue the classrooms and laboratories the year 'round, and many of our students have to wait in the summer to help finance their education." . . . The Clemson chapter of Phi Psi, national textile fraternity has decided to eliminate "rough and childish hazing" at future initiations.

Clemson last week learned of the first graduate to sacrifice his life in active service of his country. It was Raymond A. (Soph) Sloan, 1938 graduate from Marion. Sloan was on active duty in the Philippines. . . . The card file Clemson officials are compiling on former Clemson students in the armed service has reached a total of 1,100 names. Persons knowing former students in the service are still requested to forward this information to the Clemson News service.

The following is a paragraph from a letter of Dallas Sherman, Clemson 1929 graduate now on duty in Africa to his parents, Professor and Mrs. Franklin Sherman of Clemson: "Yesterday I was in a small local store Dutch owned. The black clerk was attending me in broken English and was also jabbering away with a black Mammy in native tongue. Her eyes were popping with excitement and surprise. She had just learned that I was an American. A white American! She thought all Americans were black. Reason: The freed slaves that were sent back here to settle came back as American colorizers. They have imitated us too well—spread propaganda along with their trade, and not too particular as to the type of trade."

Lieutenant P. C. Sprawls, 1940 Clemson graduate who was at Hickman Field, Hawaii, when Pearl Harbor was bombed, wrote the following to Professor B. E. Goodale: "I lived a lifetime in a few hours, but escaped injuries."

Researchers have developed an efficient and cheap means of producing tartaric acid from corn.
