Conservation Notes

Sericea lespedeza is being cut for hay on a number of Kershaw farms this week. J. B. Cantey used his new Holland pick-up baler for the first time in baling his sericea and found that it worked very satisfactory. Among others cutting sericea were Jiggs Team, R. S. Kirk, W. H. Stokes, Allan Norris and Edwin Boyle. Sericea comes out in the spring and furnishes hay and grazing earlier than most plants. Most of the cuttings were made from disposal areas designed for terrace outlets.

Terraces were constructed the past week on E. T. Bowen's farm near Blaney. Lines were surveyed by the Soil Conservation Service and terraces constructed by James Ward, local AAA contractor.

Soil conservation essay awards were made Friday evening at the Thomas Tavern by the supervisors of the Lynchess river soil conservation district to the high school students writing the best essays in the county. Miss Betty Lou Downey of the Blaney school won first place in the county.

Farm conservation plans were written the past week on the farms of E. C. Goff, Blaney; J. S. Edmonds, Ridgeway, and H. T. Lovett of the airport community.

Other men who have been through experiences similar to theirs during the war, and yet be subject to recall to active duty only in a national emergency declared by congress. Applications for Enlisted Reserve Corps are being received daily at the local recruiting office located at the American Legion here in Camden.
