Closing Of Public Rest Room Recall City's First One

Civic League Instrumental In Establishing A Very Elaborate One In Horse And Buggy Days

The closing of the public rest room by the city after it had been ceased to be used by the public brings to the minds of older Camden residents the establishment of the first rest room in the city.

"The history of the rest room," said one Camden resident, "is interesting as a link with the past, and its establishment filled a long-standing need in its day."

"Believing the women's natural talents as homemakers would be useful in the sanitation and beautification of the town, Dr. Frank Zemp, during his second term as Mayor—about 1906-1908—asked Mrs. M. A. Shannon to be chairman of a committee of five women chosen from the different wards to assist him in such work. Upon Mrs. Shannon's resignation, Mrs. Douglas Boykin, first; then Mrs. Egmont vonTresckow, succeeded her as chairman.

"From this beginning developed the Camden Civic League with an extraordinary membership—(100 joined at the first meet) from every ward, and all deeply interested and willing to work. With the backing of the city fathers and untiring aid of Health Officer John Wilson, three real clean-up and paint-up contests were held every year, every premise was inspected by a committee and prizes awarded to white and colored. The League took charge of all parks and plantings, held May Day festivals for town and county, obtained the Carnegie Library and made themselves generally useful.

"Those were horse and buggy days; county traders spent the entire day Saturday in town, some shoppers also came via S.A.L. and

Driver Training Course At Midway School

An automobile driver training course is being launched at the Midway School this session and the roster of students taking the course already totals twenty-five with more in prospect.

The school has purchased a Studebaker Champion automobile equipped with dual control, which will be used in the new course, and in the above picture S. W. Hogue of the Myers Motor Company is shown delivering the keys of the car to Mr. Stanton.

Ford B. Stanton, superintendent of the Midway school, took the driver education training course that was conducted at Winthrop College at Rock Hill and has his diploma from the State Highway Department.

Midway school thus becomes the second school in the county to put on the driver education course. Antioch school was one of the pioneer schools in the state in putting on such a course.

The Baron DeKalb and Blaney schools are expected to start training courses this term.

Harter Attend Institute For Sales Managers

David S. Harter, sales manager of the Langston Motor Company, of Camden, has left for Savannah, Ga., to attend the Chevrolet Sales Managers' Institute, an intensive nine-day course of training in the newest methods of merchandising automobiles and trucks.

The institute is Chevrolet's first step in an aggressive selling campaign to prepare for the eventual return of the "buyers' market." At the institute, the local sales manager will be joined by sales managers from approximately 40 other Chevrolet dealerships in this region. The regional meeting is one of several being held currently in all parts of the country, whereby Chevrolet will train approximately 2,500 sales managers. The "faculty" at the sales managers' school is composed of members of the Chevrolet wholesale organization who have been carefully selected for their practical knowledge and especially trained to present and discuss all phases of retail selling.

McCorkle Has Two Speaking Dates

Former Mayor Francis N. McCorkle will speak to the Springfield Civitan Club on next Friday evening on "Communism As It Affects America."

On the following Sunday he will speak at the services of the Eau Claire Baptist church of which the Rev. J. B. Caston is pastor.

Southern Railways. "Except for Hirsch's large department store, there was not a rest room for ladies except in the above-named R. R. stations, not convenient for our saleswomen. The progressive Civic League immediately saw the need—a public rest room was necessary for our business women and shoppers and mothers with babies. Large sunny rooms and bath were procured upstairs where Eichel's or Belk's is now.

"With busy hands and happy hearts the ladies furnished a rest room and reading room, and a room full of cradles, cots and small beds where babies slept under the watchful eye of a competent woman. Here later baby clinics were held, health literature given out and classes for mid-wives carried on. A committee of ladies supervised the rooms. The merchants assisted generously and the rest room was an asset to the community.

"Later the city took it over and finally it ended in the rooms which are now closed, as Camden has progressed beyond the stage of needing a public rest room."

Begging On Streets Is Now Prohibited

As ordinance prohibiting begging on the city streets is now being enforced.

Mrs. Alma B. Salmund, director of the county board of public welfare, says that such local indigents are receiving or have the privilege to receive subsistence through welfare funds.

The enforcement of the law has been begun to prevent professional beggars who travel from city to city from stopping in Camden. Citizens of Camden are asked not to encourage those transients and to refer all beggars to the Public Welfare Office.
