

Hope For Record Attendance At Churches Sunday

Church Loyalty Campaign Sponsored By Camden's Civic Clubs Begins

With its objective stated "Every person in Camden church every Sunday", the Church Loyalty campaign will begin Sunday and continue through October, November and December, closing on Christmas Sunday. The campaign, sponsored by the Camden Kiwanis Club and endorsed by the Camden Rotary Club and the Camden Lions Club, having the hearty cooperation of the churches themselves, is expected to result in a very great increase in attendance on all of the churches.

Sponsors of the movement expressed the hope this week that the campaign would get off to a start Sunday morning with very large congregations at all of the churches.

Posters are to be placed over the city and it is planned to erect signs on the highways leading to the city urging attendance at churches. "Go to the church of your choice" Sunday will be on signs.

The campaign also has received further impetus through the cooperation of business men of the city who have agreed to sponsor series of page advertisements in the Chronicle urging church loyalty and attendance.

Business firms cooperating in the page ads are: Fellers-Sumner Co., McLeod and Boykin Co., Furnishing Co., John M. McGuire Co., Stogner Motor Co., Laundry and Camden Dry Cleaners, City Filling Station, D. Egan Bargain House, Siebel's Department Store, Economy Auto Supply, Quality Cleaners.

Miss C. P. DuBose and Son, Main Shop, Letourneau Boy's Furniture Co., Belk's Department Store, Camden Hardware Supply Co., DeKalb Pharmacy, Redstart Motor Co., Camden Post Shop, Speaks Oil Co., Camden Motor Co., Outlook Shop, Camden Parts, Camden Motor, Fove Veneer Co., Camden Machine Works, Myers Motor Co., John Pontiac Co.

Interesting services are being held by various churches during the campaign.

Honored By Medical Society 50-Year Pins Presented Two Camden Physicians

Dr. John W. Corbett and Major A. Moultrie Brailsford were presented with 50-year pins on last Thursday evening by the South Carolina Medical Association at the home of Dr. Corbett on Lytleton street. The pins were presented to them in recognition of their 50 years in the profession.

Dr. Roderick H. McDonald, of Rock Hill, president-elect of the association, presented the pins to Dr. Corbett and Major Brailsford paying tribute to their loyalty to their profession.

Dr. Corbett and Major Brailsford responded and thanked the association. Dr. Corbett reminisced on the changes that have occurred in the practice of medicine since he first began.

Dr. McDonald pinned Dr. Corbett's pin on him and Dr. C. S. McCants, of Winnsboro, councillor from the fifth district of the South Carolina Medical Association, placed Major Brailsford's pin on him.

Members of the Kershaw County Medical Association were present for the occasion and Dr. A. W. Humphries, president of the association, presented Dr. McDonald and McCants.

Dr. Corbett has spent his life in the practice of his profession in Camden. He is one of the city's most beloved citizens and has held many positions of honor in the community and is a former president of the Medical Association.

Major Brailsford practiced his profession at Mullins before entering the army. He was commanding officer of the field hospitals of the 30th Division in the first world war. Since retiring from the army he has made Camden his home and although he has not practiced his profession here he has been affiliated with the Kershaw County Medical Association and has twice been honored by being elected president of the association.

Kershaw Baptist Association To Meet On Monday

Wateree Mill To Sell Homes To Employees; Would Annex To City

Election Likely To Be Held Soon

Petition From Majority Of Freeholders Asking Vote Is Expected

In connection with the proposed sale by the Kendall Company of its village adjacent to Camden, and the announcement by the company that preliminary negotiations have been undertaken by the company with the city officials for annexation of the village to the city, the following announcement was made Thursday by Mayor Savage:

"On several occasions during recent weeks the City Commission has considered the problem presented by the request of The Kendall Company that steps be taken to annex the Wateree Mill Village and the other vacant areas owned by The Kendall Company lying south of the village. The Commission takes the view that if anyone proposed the construction of 100 houses within Camden and asked for streets, power, sewerage and water service the Commission would not hesitate to promise, and as quickly as possible, provide these services in order to increase the taxable property within the city and get the additional utility customers. In view of the fact that these facilities all exist in the area suggested for annexation it appears to the Commission that it is to the advantage of the city in the long run to extend its limits to include the Wateree Mill Village.

"Under the law, the majority of the freeholders in the area to be annexed, must make a petition for an election. An election is then held in the area to be annexed and in the city, and on a favorable vote in both areas the city limits are automatically extended on resolution of the Commission.

"It is anticipated that such a petition will be presented in the next few days and an election on the question will be called very soon thereafter.

"The area proposed to be annexed extends from the mill and the management's houses down through the new Pine Tree Creek school, down to U. S. Highway No. 1 for a short distance between Pine Tree Creek and the business district down as Lewisville. About 100 houses are in the area and approximately 500 people live in the village.

"The Commission feels that the people residing in this area are actually part and parcel of our community and would welcome them as future citizens of the city should they be voted in at the forthcoming election."

UNAVOIDABLE ACCIDENT

A coroner's jury investigating the death of Levi Hayes, 87-year-old negro man who was struck and fatally injured at a curve in the Knights Hill road near Dusty Bend last week, returned a verdict that the accident was unavoidable.

Catamount Is Killed Near Blaney

When H. W. Sanders, O. L. Cook and W. B. Ross went fox hunting last Friday morning they didn't know that they would run upon a catamount—the fact they didn't know that there was any such animal in that section. They were more than surprised when they heard their 18 dogs in a furious struggle with the animal. The dog proved too much for the cat and they soon killed him. The killing occurred about four miles north of Blaney. The catamount was four feet long. In the above picture Mr. Sanders (right) and Mr. Cook are shown exhibiting him. A 15-pound wildcat was killed at Fort Jackson this week. The one killed near Blaney was much larger. — Photo by Monarch.

The Kendall Story Is Told In Very Interesting Manner

A handsome publication "The Kendall Story" has been issued by The Kendall Company and copies of same has been received in Camden. The book carries a map of the United States showing plants, branch offices, district offices and warehouses and there are references throughout the book to the Wateree plant located in Camden.

The annual production of the cotton mill division's nearly 300,000 spindles ranks the Kendall Company among the largest cotton textile enterprises of the nation.

The cotton mill division is also a leader in the important business of making tobacco seed bed coverings and lightweight fabrics for numerous industrial uses.

Six of the eight Kendall Cotton Mills, including the Wateree plant in Camden, specialize in the weaving of "tobacco cloth", the textile (Please turn to page six)

Directors Plan Big Chamber Of Commerce Drive

Large Portion Of Budget To Be Expended In Advertising Camden

Directors of the Camden and Kershaw County Chamber of Commerce met Tuesday afternoon and discussed plans for the membership drive for the organization, which will be conducted the week of October 18-23.

It is planned to build up a large membership for the body during the drive and to put it in position to do effective work in advertising Camden and in seeking new industries.

Members of the board were agreed that a very considerable portion of the budget for the next year should be spent in advertising the city so as to attract more winter visitors and also for the purpose of getting new industrial plants to locate here.

Sentiment for maintaining a strong chamber seems to be unanimous among the business men of the city.

"I feel that Camden must keep a strong Chamber of Commerce," said A. C. McKain of the J. C. Penney Company this week, "if we are to keep pace with other cities and towns."

Joe Jenkins of the Camden Motor Co., commander of the James Leroy Bell Post of the American Legion, said he felt that the business and professional people of the city would undoubtedly rally to the support of the chamber and put it in an even better position than it has been in the past to do effective work for the city.

J. C. Gillis said he felt that a strong Chamber of Commerce was an absolute necessity.

Occupants Get Chance To Buy

If They Do Not Purchase Then Other Employees Get Opportunity

C. L. Taggart, manager of the Wateree plant, Kendall Mills, of this city, announced Thursday that the management has decided to sell approximately 99 of its company-owned houses.

Arrangements are now being discussed for the inclusion of the village property in the Camden city limits in order that home owners may obtain full benefits and privileges of Camden citizens. The sale will proceed when these arrangements are completed. Selected houses will be retained for supervisory occupancy and will not be offered for sale.

In announcing the sale, Mr. Taggart stated that the Kennedy Real Estate and Insurance Company, local real estate dealers, has been employed by the company to handle the sale in all of its details and will act as the company's agent.

Present occupants of the houses to be sold will be offered the first opportunity to buy, and other employees of the mill who do not live on the village will be given next opportunity should the present occupant elect not to purchase.

It is expected that after lot surveys and appraisals, which are now being made, are completed, the houses to be sold will be offered about October 25, at which time the houses will be placed on sale.

Kershaw County Is Asked To Aid Hungry Children

A general canvass will begin on next Monday, October 4 and continue through October 9 to raise Kershaw county's quota in the American Overseas Aid and United Nations Appeal for Children.

A canvass of the business section was made this week and next week the residential section will be canvassed. Myron Tupper is general chairman of the county, and Cy Mitchell is chairman for Bethune.

Col. Tupper and Joe Jenkins, commander of the James Leroy Bell Post, spoke over the radio Thursday urging the importance of the drive and asking the general support of the people.

"It is estimated that 482,000 children under 15 years of age are on the verge of starvation in foreign countries through no fault of their own," Commander Jenkins of the Legion post said Thursday. He said that these children must be fed to save their countries and to save the world.

"Any one who was in the service during the last war and saw the half-starved children of the war-torn countries knows the urgency of this appeal," said Col. Tupper.

Kershaw county's quota is $1,584. Twenty-six organizations have combined their efforts into a joint campaign to raise $60,000,000 to feed these starving children.

Children in the schools throughout the county will also be given an opportunity to contribute.

Farm Women Will Meet On Saturday

The Kershaw County Council of Farm Women will hold its fall meeting Saturday, October 2 at 10:30 o'clock in the Presbyterian Sunday school building.
