

The Barnwell People.

JNO. W. HOLMES, Editor & Prop.

LARGEST COUNTY CIRCULATION.

THURSDAY, MAY 18, 1905.

The Edgfield Advertiser had nothing to say last week in answer to our comments and inquiries addressed to that esteemed contemporary.

Whether it is incubating the question or consenting to the State's speaking as its volunteer proxy is equally agreeable to us.

That there will be a yellow peril becomes plainer daily. At a meeting of prominent Chinese wholesale merchants in Shanghai last week it was stated to be their determination to boycott American goods if the new extension treaty discussed in the United States Senate last winter should be completed.

It is the American policy to keep the cheap labor Chinese out of our possessions, while it wants an open door for the introduction of our goods in the celestial empire.

This counter warning of the Chinese threatens damage to the cotton makers and manufacturers of the South, for with the loss of the China trade there would be a constant overproduction of cotton and a continuance of unprofitable prices.

"There is no place like Charleston." It has its few faults, but they are outweighed by its many virtues. It is the one unconstructed city of the South, to its credit standing low in the North Atlantic Base Ball League. Not even the national game can make it, or its hired players, forgetful of its old time staidness.

It is a peculiar people that dwell in its quiet residences and dream in the moonlight on the Battery. Their truest to the old ideals was beautifully shown last week when Major J. C. Hemphill completed his first quarter century connection with the News and Courier. The owners of the paper kindly voted him a vacation and his friends contributed a generous check to cover the cost of an old world trip.

Rivals North, East, South and West may outstrip in wealth and progress, so-called, O city by the sea, but none can ever win such memories as those that hark back to Moultrie and Mygener, nor in all the world will there ever be your like again.

Of late the Japanese appear to be rattled, for the first time since the beginning of their war with Russia. The destruction of the Russian fleet at Port Arthur left them masters of the sea, but the coming and completion of the two Russian squadrons commanded by Rozhdestvensky and Nebogatoff has been both a surprise and disappointment, for it now appears that they, the Japs, did not believe that the Russian ships could make the long voyage from the Baltic to the Pacific in good condition and ready for fighting. Such news as is allowed to be given out puts the combined Russian fleet at twenty-five per cent stronger in ships of the line than the Japanese have. The Russian ships are said to be in excellent trim and the long voyage has made first class sailors out of their crews, and practice has made their gunners experts.

The Japanese believe, or pretend to have ground for the belief, that the French authorities of Cochin China have given the Russian ships privileges and facilities, not authorized or justified by the laws of war, for putting in provisions and making ready for the last play in the game.

The Japanese complaint against France is, we guess, intended to force Great Britain, her ally, to come to her help in case of Togo's defeat as England is bound by treaty to do so if any other power takes part against Japan.

"THE LAND WE LOVE"

THE BARNWELL PEOPLE say The State has the monopoly on the kaleidoscopic way of looking at the upbuilding of South Carolina. The figure is not very good, for THE PEOPLE means our persistent optimism. We hope it is mistaken. It will be a poor day for South Carolina if any fellow or set of fellows can get a corner on optimism.—The State.

One looking into the kaleidoscope invented by Sir David Brewster sees a great variety of beautiful colors and symmetrical forms, all coming from bits of glass and reflecting surfaces, all dead and lifeless as the burned out volcanoes of the moon, and nothing beyond them.

The State was born in the fire swept ruins of the capital city of South Carolina and pledged in its cradle by its founder to the rebuilding of the waste places made by Sherman's vandal fires. It is natural then and as much a virtue as a fault that in The State's kaleidoscope there should be only seen mills and manufactories, sky scrapers, railways and electric lines, trobbing streets all noisy with the clangor of bells, the din of whistles, the roar of trains, the frictions of machinery, the complainings of the tawny river harnessed day and night, the tramp of aching feet following mammon. And beyond its vision there is nothing but the shadows of hope.

In the field we know best, from the Edisto to the Savannah, there are no such sights and sounds, only the whistle and passing of the iron horse to tell how near the madding crowd.

Now there are no waste places, for we cannot not waste the wayside tree that comforts the traveller with its grateful shade, the clump of trees that wait the building of a future home, the whistling places that shall in good time be transformed into a cottage, the bits of pasture land where the mild eyed

Jersey feeds, the swamp where the song birds nest and the bay blossoms fill the air with fragrance, the clear deep streams flowing free under the shadows of the cypress and the oak.

This is a land of happy memories. It forgets not the ease and plenty, the kindness and good neighborhood, the fine courtesy and honesty, the high clean standards of its golden past. It is slow to be moved by any new wind of doctrine, slow to follow any new self-appointed Moses, slow to barter its birthright for a mess of pottage and would rather bear the ill it has than fly to others that it knows not of.

It is a land that keeping the faiths of the past is sure of its future, a land vibrant with hope and the steadfast self-reliant courage that wins success. It is a land whose people are too proud to admit their unworthiness of the heritage of soil and growth left them by their ancestors, too proud to utter the Macedonian cry and beg the alien and Yankee to bring their money or their muscle to their help. In their homes there is growing, in their school houses and their churches, is being trained a generation that will soon be in line of brave manhood and noble womanhood, enough to hold every square foot of fruitful soil.

For them their parents and their friends hold the fort.

To the individual or the family coming freely no matter whether from abroad or from the North the open door welcome waits, for such immigrants will make good citizens. But to the colony brought by over glowing accounts it will be once more the story of Eden as told by Dickens with Mark Tapley left out.

Even now many Carolinians are leaving the State for lack of room and opportunity and the day will come all too soon when our young people will like those of the old world be forced to seek homes in strange lands.

LET NONE NEGLECT THIS DUTY.

To The District Divisions of the Cotton Growers' Association of Barnwell County:

You are hereby requested to hold your Township meetings on the 27th day of May for the purpose of electing delegates to the convention of the Cotton Growers' Association of Barnwell County, which will convene at Barnwell, C. H., on Monday, the 5th day of June, for the transaction of all business, completing and reporting of acreage and fertilizer reports, warehouses, &c.

The Executive Committee in charge of the canvassers will make their final report at Barnwell to the Secretary, H. L. O'Bannon, on May 25th, so as to have said report tabulated and in the hands of the State Association by the first day of June. Canvassers in charge of the work will govern themselves accordingly.

All persons failing to pay required dues to canvassers will send the amount direct to John K. Snelling, Treasurer, Barnwell, S. C.

All persons in sympathy with the movement we wish to make a voluntary contribution to aid us in paying the heavy expenses incurred in taking the census of the county, can send their voluntary contribution to J. K. Snelling, Treasurer, and a list of the contributors will be published in the county papers, giving the name and amount so contributed, which will be highly appreciated by the members of the Association.

The Warehouse Committee will meet with the convention on the 5th of June and present plans and suggestions looking forward to the immediate erection of suitable warehouses to be erected at different places in the county, so as to serve the convenience of the farmers and the best interests of all concerned.

Fittingly, let us urge every township to have representation at the Convention as it will undoubtedly be the most important meeting of the Association that will be held this year.

Frank H. Creech, President.
H. L. O'Bannon, Secretary.

HAMPSON'S INAUGURATION.

John S. Reynolds' Eq. of Columbia is publishing in the Sunday State a much needed history of "Reconstruction in South Carolina," which will be reproduced in book form. We can add from personal recollection a few facts as to Governor Hampton's inauguration described in Sunday's paper. The Governor took the oath of office on the new Bible thoughtfully provided by Capt. Charles Petty, then a representative from the "Old Iron District" and now editor of The Spartan.

After the delivery of his inaugural address the multitude crowded around him, shaking his hand and congratulating him. As the writer stood near the Governor he turned and said to him: "They've nearly killed me." He was nearly out of breath. So we took his arm and piloted him up the stairs into Carolina Hall, where he quickly recovered from his fatigue. That Bible is held doubly sacred by Capt. Petty.

Between four and five bushels of strawberries are required for one tea of the Winthrop angels.

Sonator A. C. Latimer was reported out in Mexico last week with a party of copper mine capitalists.

Weather grumblers forgot last week all the good resolutions they made when almost frozen last February.

A tornado struck the town of Snyder, Oklahoma, last night week, killing over 100 persons and injuring many more.

John D. Rockefeller says that the churches must be reorganized after the fashion of the Standard Oil Company before they can convert the world.

Yellow fever is spreading on the Isthmus of Panama and a good many Americans holding soft places there have come back home to do harder work for less money. At present it seems that Yellow Jack will delay the completion of the big canal, unless the doctors learn better how to prevent and cure its attacks.

The London Graphic is responsible for the statement that "the home is being abolished, household duties are being neglected, and passion for amusement is developing with unexampled rapidity," so is that for dress, for display, for extravagance. The manners of the men reflect faithfully the conduct of the women, and it is undeniable that the men in our day are less careful of their conversation than they were.

PENSION MONEY.

Clerk W. Gilmore Simms received last week a check for the pension money, $3,247.50, for this county and is ready to pay it to those entitled to receive it.

The following request was issued by Comptroller General A. W. Jones Saturday:

"Whereas, a general impression prevails throughout the State that a great many persons are on the pension roll who are not entitled to pensions under the laws now in order that the pension rolls may be purged, and that only deserving and needy Confederate soldiers and of such widows shall receive the funds appropriated for them, be it

Resolved by the State pension board, That the press of the State be requested to publish the list of the pensioners of their respective counties, and that all good citizens of this State be requested, upon examining such lists, to report to the county pension boards any undeserving pensioner on the roll, and should any county board refuse to take action thereon, then the facts be reported to the State board.

Senator Tillman has returned from Atlanta apparently cured of the nervous trouble that has recently bothered him.

Hiram Crouk, the only survivor of the War of 1812, died at Aysa, New York State, on Friday, aged 105 years. During that war he served two terms of 5 weeks and 40 days, when a little over 11 years of age, but he never smelled gun powder. Of late years he had received a State pension of $2 per month, in addition to his pension from the United States.

At Orangeburg Court last week the several persons charged with lynching Kett Bookhardt, by drowning him in the Santee River last year were acquitted. The witnesses for the defence established to the satisfaction of the jury that the defendants were at home all the night of Bookhardt's lynching. Several of them testified that the white man who turned State's evidence was beastly drunk that night in their house and that he did not leave until after breakfast next morning.

Dr. Kenyon V. Millard, the Western lecturer, who was married to Miss Sallie Kenyon of St. George a month or so ago, was released from the Orangeburg jail on Saturday, where he had been confined on the charge of bigamy. It was developed that many years ago he was divorced from his Indiana wife, that last December he was divorced from his California wife, but the decree forbade the marriage of either for a year. He now says that he and Miss Kenyon will be remarried next December.

If Washington correspondents see and talk straight there are more exciting times ahead in Congress than it has known since the debate before secession. Mr. Roosevelt is in dead earnest as to the controlling of railroad freight rates by the government and will insist that Congress shall give that power of regulation to the Interstate Commission. If beaten in this Congress he will try again the next. In this one thing the Democratic Senators and Representatives hunt with Teddy.

TERRIFIC RACE WITH DEATH.

"Death was fast approaching," writes Ralph F. Fernandez, of Tampa, Fla., describing his fearful race with death, "as a result of liver trouble and heart disease, which had robbed me of sleep and of all interest in life. I had tried many different doctors and several medicines, but got no benefit, until I began to use Electric Bitters. So wonderful was their effect, that in three days I felt like a new man, and today I am cured of all my troubles." Guaranteed at C. N. Burekhalter, Drug Store, Creech's Pharmacy, price 50c.
