Gen. Gordon, the hero of China and likewise of Klartown, based his life upon four rules: Forgetfulness of self, absolute sincerity, indifference to the world's judgments, absorption in the will of God. These four rules abide as guide posts on the path to greatness. Just the greatest of these is in order to the will of God.—Pacific Baptist.

WAR CLOUDS IN THE EAST.

Last week a leading St. Petersburg, Russia, paper predicted an early war between Japan and the United States, in which the former would be victorious, and as the spoils would take the Philippines and Hawaii and occupy California.

The prediction was as much the expression of the Russian wish as a prophecy, for the sympathies of the great mass of Americans were with Japan in the recent war waged with Russia, and the yellow man remained besides substantial help in the way of money loans from the capitalists of the new world. To the Russians revenge would be as sweet as to any warmer blooded people.

Yet there are signs of strife in that direction. Since the humiliation of Russia there has been no let up in the increase and preparation of the Japanese navy for hostile action. In addition to building new and powerful battle ships, cruisers and torpedo craft Japan has raised from the bottom of the sea numbers of the sunken Russian vessels, repaired and made them ready for service.

Good promises were preached by the Japanese all through the war that after the conflict the door of trade to all northern Asia would be left open and kept open to all the nations of the West, but the combat is made and apparently undeniable that those yellow Yankees of the East are monopolizing the Manchurian trade and keeping European and American from reaping their expected shares of business and profit.

An excuse for war was given Japan last week in the killing of a number of the subjects who were shooting seals in American waters near Alaska against treaty rights and obligations. That, is the American version, but the Japanese may see it differently. If Japan has any doubts as to acquiring the Philippines and Hawaii now is her opportunity. Her naval and military strength and preparedness on the Pacific are far ahead of ours, and the war would be over before the Americans could collect their scattered battalions in the Atlantic and Pacific. Cape Horn and cross the Pacific to the relief of the handful of soldiers in the Philippines.

And it may be that Great Britain is bound by her last treaty with Japan to even take sides against her American kindred in case of a conflict. Japan has causes of gratefulness toward the United States, running back to the progress of the world, but gratitude among nations as well as individuals is generally produced more for what is expected than for what has been accomplished.

FOR CONGRESS, 2ND DISTRICT.
B. B. HARE.

Mr. B. B. Hare of Saluda county has made a record breaking campaign in the second district for Congress. By a persistent, high toned gentlemanly canvass he had made himself known and felt by nearly every voter in the district. We have been in nearly every county in the district and have yet to find a single man to criticize his campaign or to speak in any way disparaging of him. He is looked upon as being honest clean and able. As a stump speaker he easily outclasses his opponents. Those who are in a position to know unhesitatingly say that he will roll up a vote that will even surprise him and his most sanguine friends.

B. B. Hare is in the position to be the next Congressman from the second district. The second district will be worthily represented.

THE BUSINESS QUESTION

That is the business question asked us so frequently on Fridays that we are sure that inquirers do not have a full idea of the time and trouble it takes to make a paper. So we propose to speak about a little.

After a county paper is printed, the type washed, the printers go to distributing the reading matter and "dead" advertisements. In the upper and lower cases from which reading matter is set there are 132 divisions, in which the type, figures, letters, signs &c must be distributed, each bit of metal to its own particular box. This is a work to be carefully done and the expert "throws" them rapidly. Next the type setting for the next paper is in order. This is a slower work, for every type, space, punctuation mark &c must be taken from its box, separately and put in the "stick." The boy or girl who will scatter a quart of peas over a dinner table and then pick them out one at a time in a bowl will understand why editors sometimes boil down long letters and at other times put them in the waste basket. In setting a column of brevier type the printer's right arm travels over five miles, while his left hand holds the stick. The printer keeps busy all his working hours, not waiting like the clerk for a copy to come.

No he keeps steady at work so that in case of sickness or a show he can get a little holiday.

All friends want the paper to be ready for printing at the regular time so that the mails can be sent off.

On Tuesday dinner time to have enough matter to fill up, then correcting mistakes and making up for the press are in order, and there is a chance to set up a little late news.

The advertiser who delays handing in copy until Tuesday afternoon means that his judgment should be better informed—after reading this. To make an attractive advertisement requires as much skill as to create a pretty bonnet and the typographical artist has his pride. Like the editor he gathers in quick haste and then he criticizes because it isn't perfect.

The advertiser is also benefited by the newness of the paper for the more good people will read his proclamations. And if by tardiness he loses the chance to be read out he hurts his own interests by diminishing the interest of readers.

The thoughtless advertiser may consider himself a benefactor in giving his "patronage" to the paper, but it is a matter of business, for which he gets value received, if he and his goods and desires deserve it.

The advertisements in every paper are compliments to its readers. They mean that the advertisers want to do business with them. There is a difference between the hand bill, which is an occasional experiment, and the regular weekly fact with specific aim and defined influence. A newspaper can get along without advertisers, but not without subscribers, and the better the subscribers to their papers the better their papers will be to them.

DOING WITHOUT FLAKS.

One of our readers says: "Tell the housekeeper that a sure way to keep off flies, if screens are not to be had, is to keep everything absolutely clean, to leave no food sitting about in the house, no scraps scattered about the yard, no garbage can open, no slop pails, no uncovered drains, no tubs of wash water, and no unwashed dishes piled up in some corner, there is no filth or uncovered food. Air the rooms by open windows and doors through the night, where safe to leave them so, and where not, open them up very early in the morning, closing them before the sun gets much above the horizon, leave the windows open a few inches at top and bottom, and open the transoms. As soon as possible after closing the openings, darken the rooms on the sunny side of the house, and don't let in the light until they are in the shade."—M. C.

BACK TO FIRST PRINCIPLES.

Last week for the first time in thirteen years this golden government of ours entered the market as a buyer of silver for coinage purposes. The increased business of the country requiring more change forced a return to the way in which the country first started on the right road to prosperity.

THE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

The fifth convention of the Third District, Knights of Pythias, was held in Aiken on the 7th inst. About fifty delegates were in attendance, those from Barnwell and Bamberg Counties being—

Alhredale—District Chancellor J. E. Warnock, W. A. Pearson, S. E. Strange, M. F. Hay.

Barnwell—William McNab, A. A. Lawson, W. G. Britton, J. R. Harrison, Blackville—G. P. Boylston, H. M. Mearns, J. M. Clark, Y. N. Nevils, Dunbar—B. N. Whaley, Jenny—Joe L. Folk, Williston—L. C. Sprawl, Bamberg—W. D. Rhodes, Denmark—W. L. Riley, J. B. Gilliam, Ehrhardt—C. E. Kinsey Jr., F. D. Jones, F. H. Ebers, Olar—J. O. Sanders, T. D. Beard.

The Journal and Review says of the banquet addresses:

MEDICAL PROFESSION

"Joy and Temperance, and Repose, Slam the door on the doctor's nose." In response to this toast Dr. J. E. Warnock of Allendale told the life of a doctor is a hard one and the sacrifices he must and does make for his patients at all times.

THE PULPIT.

"In his duty prompt at every call He watch'd and wept, and felt, and pray'd for all." To this sentiment Rev. W. G. Britton of Barnwell responded in a bright and clever ten minute speech which was full of wit.

THE COUNTY CAMPAIGN.

A good audience representative of all sections of the township to give the candidates a calm and careful hearing at Blackville on the 8th inst.

The Williston meeting on Friday had the largest number of voters of the series of meetings, every seat in the school auditorium being filled, and many standing. It had to more of spice and ginger in the speeches of the candidates than the previous gatherings—all in good humor and fair play.

The one and pie pie dinner served by the ladies of the Baptist Church was a splendid feast of good things, showing abundance in all their homes and perfection in the preparation of delicacies and substantialities.

The pretty profit of some eighty dollars for church purposes was outweighed by the enjoyments of those who partook of the good cheer and who received the true welcome of its givers.

The last of the regular campaign meetings was commencing at Barnwell yesterday when the presence of the breeze got busy in printing this issue.

Mr. Cass Weatherford, the oldest citizen of Aiken County, died on the 7th inst., aged 87 years. He served well in the Confederate army. His wife, aged 83, died a few years ago.

The State campaigners will have their final meeting at Laurens on Wednesday next. It does not appear that any one of the travellers is larger in public estimation than when he first spoke in public on the stage.

The Georgia Legislature passed last week by a great majority the best law on its statute books, one stopping speculation in cotton and other futures through wire transfers and bucket shops. The South Carolina lawmakers take similar action the Georgia gamblers can come over the Savannah, or their ships in Hamburg or North Augusta and flourish like green bay trees.

Justice though her eyes are always bandaged is not always leader footed George Hall, a white cotton mill operator who last week led a mob of 3,000 men and boys to break into the Salisbury, N. C. jail and liberate three negroes charged with murdering the Liberty family, has been found guilty of conspiracy and given a 16 year sentence in the penitentiary. But the other 2,000 lynchers are unconvinced.

The Georgia Railroad Bank has offered a thousand dollars reward for the arrest of Thomas W. Alexander, the cotton factor, who left Augusta last month after having bled the Bank according to its statement of $120,000 of worthless warehouse receipts. The descriptions and pictures of the departed one have been sent to all American towns of good size and to many towns in Europe. His physical condition is one that can not be easily changed in appearance.

AD. W. HOLMES, Editor & Prop.

BARNWELL COUNTY CIRCULATION.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 16, 1906

Every office holder, whether chosen by the votes of his fellow citizens or appointed by superior authority, is expected to discharge his duties faithfully, and failure to do so brings dis-appointment to his friends, injury to his good name and harm to the interests in his charge.

But there are many officeholders who do not appear to know that they occupy such positions, and who are not blamed for their state of omission or commission. For every male citizen holding a registration certificate and a poll tax receipt is an officeholder, made one by the gift of the State, and as duty and honor bound to do the right thing as the man who has larger responsibility and receives greater recompense.

And the general duty resting upon each qualified voter is that he cast his ballot in every election that the candidate best fitted for the office shall receive his support. The right to vote is not the privilege to reward one's friends or to revenge one's wrongs. It is the confidence of the State that the citizen will help put the best men in office.

In making up his ticket each voter should rely upon his own judgment, select the candidates in his opinion most representative of the principles he most holds and who is best equipped in solid brain and resolute backbone to stand to and champion his convictions.

Let the voters do their duty and the men of their choice will not disappoint them.

At this writing the thermometer is surging among the nineties, the average corn crop is reported sufficient for spring use only to the new year, the cotton stalks are said to be wilting and shedding and yellowing under ardent rays of the glowing sun.

For these and other weighty reasons we decline to be made uncomfortably warm as to the gubernatorial race, and to become the partisan of any one of the eight gentlemen striving to climb to that ambitious height.

It is asking rather too much to wish us to set up and publish at our own expense whole sticks, even columns of adulation and argument why Cola, This and That and The Other Man should be elected Governor.

Especially so as we harbor no great expectations of public good from the election of any one of the octagons.

This paper firmly believes that no man, woman or child can have child and fever unless the malarial poison is inserted in his or her blood by the bite of a female mosquito—or, perhaps, a horrid bed bug.

Allow no water near the house to grow stagnant, in unused vessels, old cans, broken dispensary bottles, saks &c. and the chances for alternate sweating and sweltering will be minimized.

Within twenty years a million dollars worth have been granted in the United States.

And still there are thousands of women who have not received justice.
