MEYER-KIRKLAND.
In Steel Creek Baptist Church where so many sacred and happy memories cluster and linger, at high noon on Tuesday the 23rd day of November, many loving friends will gather to witness the beautiful marriage of Miss Mittie Eia, niece of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Meyer, and Mr. John Bratton Kirkland.

And very many and cordially sincere wishes will be their good wishes for the long united life, perfect happiness and rich prosperity of these so well beloved young people, the bride a fine princess in all her charm of personal grace and accomplishment and the groom a gallant and worthy winner of so fair a prize.

MARRIAGES.
In Williston by Rev. W. M. Jones on the 17th inst. Mr. J. Walker Smith of Wilmington, S. C. and Miss Emma, daughter of the late Dr. S. Owens.

At the home of the bride's parents by Rev. M. M. Henson on the 20th, Mr. Paul S. Greene and Miss Addie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Greene, Jr., all of this county.

Mr. O. H. Owens of Mossy and Mrs. Allen General were happily joined in matrimony at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Roundtree near Dunbarton October 17, 1907 at 5:30 o'clock a. m.

Miss Doris Owens served as Maid of Honor. After the marriage they went to their future home near Mossy. Rev. W. W. Glover officiated. We believe for them a happy future and wish for them a long life.
Friend.

MORRALI CANTELOU.
THE PEOPLE is honored with an invitation to the marriage in the Church of our Saviors at Fremont on Wednesday morning next, October 30th, at eleven o'clock of Miss Sara Lee, daughter of Mrs. George W. Morrall, and Mr. Boris Canelou of Edgeland.

To this fair, young daughter of her well as to an address of the high qualities and noble ideals of her splendid father among the imprints, and of the rare graces and cultured accomplishments of her devoted mother and to the winner of her white hand and gentle heart all Barwell, from the Edisto to the Savannah, gives best congratulations and trust wishes that all the future years in their new home among the hills shall be bright in unclouded happiness, perfect in constant prosperity and as radiant as in the golden present in the love and regard of their multitude of friends.

COOKING PUMPKINS.
A good house keeper whose good husband has grown out of pumpkins asks us how to cook them.

We furnish the information with pleasure and with the assurance that our lady friend's table will be even more delightful than usual when this rich golden food is served thereon.

Cut the pumpkin in half, with a spoon remove the seeds to the firm meat. A pumpkin that is done it may be prepared in several ways.

1st. The pumpkin may be baked until well done, and the edible part taken out from the rind with a stout spoon.

2d. The pumpkin may be cut into slices, the rind removed by a sharp kitchen knife, and the meat cut into pieces and boiled in porcelain or other suitable kettle. In this way put but little water in the kettle as the juices of the pumpkin will supply the needed moisture and if too much water be used the pumpkin will be less pleasing to the taste and looks.

3d. Others prefer the steam process for the cooking.

A dish of hot pumpkin on the breakfast table needs only a little butter and salt added to each plate to suit the taste to call for a second helping.

For making pies the following recipe is given by a famous North Carolina house keeper:

"Take four heaping tablespoonful pumpkin, add four tablespoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of ginger, one teaspoonful of cinnamon mix thoroughly. Then add one pint of milk and cream mixed. When that has been well stirred, break in two eggs, white yolks together. Beat the whole vigorously and bake in pastry lined pan. Serve with whipped cream on top."

Pumpkin—Some persons are fond of stewed pumpkin, which takes the place of squash. It should be cooked slowly in as little water as possible. When finished there should be no water or juice in the pumpkin to be seen; add a very little salt and plenty of butter. Frequently they are browned down in the bacon tallow, like we cook the summer squash.

At the annual meeting of the directors of the Grand Old Cotton Mills at Greenwood President McKelick made the gratifying statement that seventy-one per cent of its capital stock is held by citizens of South Carolina.

Of how many other cotton mills in the State can any thing like that be said? We ask the question, but have no doubt that any full answer will be given.

Court at Hampton next week.
The State Fair will be held in Columbia next week.

After next issue we will have more space for reading matter.
Mr. J. O. Walker was our very welcome first caller on Monday.

The Barwell Baptist Association met this morning with Mr. Arnon Church.

After a visit of several days to Mrs. McMane Mrs. John D. Brownie returned to Williston on Tuesday.

Miss Jennie Pate returned Friday from a happy vacation visit to North Carolina relatives and friends.

A cent a mile and 25 cents additional will be found trip passenger rate to and from the State Fair in Columbia.

On Saturday Dave Myrick, colored, shot and killed J. Lillian Preacher, colored, at Booth's saw mill near Ulmer.

Treasurer Armstrong again leads in being the first County Treasurer to send new collections to the State Treasurer.

Messrs Claude A. Pate of Washington, D. C. and A. D. Pate of Burlington, N. C. came home to attend the burial of their father.

Col. and Mrs. Robert Aldrich returned from Richmond, Va. after a stay of several weeks in attendance upon the triennial convention of the Episcopal church.

Seven young ladies stood the examination for Teachers' Certificates on Friday.

The colored candidates numbered about twenty.

Mrs. E. A. S. Mixson left on Sunday to attend the National Convention of post masters in Washington, expecting to visit the Jamestown Exposition on her homeward way.

One ear of corn sold for the record breaking price of $20.00 in Glasgow last week. The hagar was the farmer who grew it, and may have indulged before the bidding began in a popular liquid made from corn.

Died at Seiglingville on the 16th inst. of congestive chill after a brief illness little Doodle daughter of Mr. W. C. Still, aged seven years. The sympathy of many friends goes to the sorely bereaved family.

Rev. G. W. Garner has resigned as pastor of the Barwell Baptist church to take effect December 1st. He has accepted the position of Associational Evangelist of his home Association and will reside in Griffin, Ga.

Spartanburg merchants, with two exceptions, have agreed, beginning November 1st, to close their stores at 6:30 p. m. all the year round, except on Saturday nights and during December, when they will keep open until 10 p. m.

A prominent citizen of Ulmer gives us a glowing report of the very excellent address made there on the evening of the 17th inst in favor of school building improvement by Miss Nance who is doing noble missionary work on that line.

Rev. G. W. Garner will supply the pulpit of the Williston Baptist church next Sunday morning and will fill his own appointment there Sunday night.

Other pastors of the Barwell Association will supply at Williston during the critical illness of the pastors wife.

The pretty home of Mr. John D. Jennet of Sycamore township was burned about noon on the 16th inst. According to one report all the household goods were destroyed, another is that much of the furniture was saved. He had insurance for $1,000 on the house, none on the contents.

The members of the Salkhebatie Club who have promised to contribute agricultural products to the Fall Fair exhibit are requested to bring their contributions to Barwell by Saturday the 23rd. Leave them either with Mr. W. H. Duncan, Jack Morris or H. W. Quint; the committee in charge.

A committee of the Salkhebatie Agricultural Club, Messrs Birt, Peacock and Zorn, superintended on Monday the gathering of Mr. W. L. Cave's competitive acre of corn made on the Williamson plan and found the yield to be 63 bushels and 24 pounds. The average two acres of the field were not as good, the total yield of the three acres being 156 and 12 3/4 bushels.

Col. Frank Creech's three acres were gathered Tuesday, total yield 136 and 3/4 bushels.

Congressman Patterson has received the good news from Washington that the Agricultural department will soon put experts in the Second District to make soil surveys for the benefit of the farmers, thereby enabling them to know more exactly what fertilizing elements are lacking in and needed by different soils. This good work will begin in Saluda county and be continued to the sea. The scarcity of experts has delayed the commencement of the work, for which Judge Patterson has been persistently striving.

Farmer George H. Bates gave us last week specimens of corn grown on his farm on the Rich Land plan that must be seen to be appreciated. In size and quality they are a credit to his agricultural skill. The longest ear is 12 1/2 inches from butt to tip and crowded with grains.

The field averaged 27 1/2 bushels to the acre and there was more profit in it than in high priced cotton of same acreage. Some 50 ears will be among the best exhibits at the Georgia-Carolina Fair in Augusta. Besides from his farm will be sent a bale each of sheep oats, crab grass and pea vine hay.

CONFEDERATE MOTHERS.
A good news gathering whose business carries him into many sections of the county has been the celebration of those who were in the Confederate army still survive. He has been able to find only three.

Mrs. Sallie Morris of Georges Creek Township, now about 94 years of age. She is the venerable and well beloved mother of Messrs George W. Morris, Ransom Morris, J. W. Morris and Frank Morris and of Mrs. Susan Creech.

Mrs. Mary Coward of Dunbarton, mother of Mr. M. O. Wall by her first marriage.

Mrs. Coward is now 88 years of age, in the enjoyment of good health and undiminished faculties and the years have added only to the sweetness of her whole hearted solitude in the home where she is so well beloved. Her reminiscences of the old days are most entertaining. She is probably The People's oldest subscriber and never forgets that the publisher is paid.

MATTHEW J. PATE.
For thirty years he was our friend, faithful and true and staunch, wise and generous and considerate.

He was a true and noble soldier of honor in the ranks of the Confederacy as he reached the threshold of manhood he put on the gray of a private of cavalry and rode with the gallant captains until the last hope was dead. And to his final hour on earth he kept sacred his devotion to the principles for which he fought.

When the war storm passed and white peace came back he returned to his chosen life work and in his force and faithfulness won the perfect confidence and sincere friendship of such great men as Henry Grady, and Patrick Walsh. He made friends wherever he lived because he was a good man, as honest as the sunshine, as true as steel to his convictions, and with a wonderful gentleness of heart for all who knew sorrow or suffering.

He died suddenly of apoplexy at 2 o'clock on Monday afternoon, and every heart in this community was broken in the appalling sorrow that came as quick as a lightning flash upon his loved ones, the family to which he was so devoted. And in many hearts throughout the county there is sadness that he has been so soon called to join the comrad's souls waiting on the other shore.

His body was laid to the last rest in the Baptist church yard yesterday morning. There it shall sleep in perfect peace until the end of time shall wake it to eternal life.
