VERY BAD BOYS

Two Young Bandits Under Arrest Shout and Kill a Policeman.

HOLD UP HOTEL CLERK

They Are Captured, and While Being Taken to Prison on a Street Car, Murder the Officer Who Arrested Them and Make Good Their Escape.

William Muzzari, twenty years old, and Alton Jackson, discharged bell boy and night porter respectively of the Hotel McKay at Duluth, Miss., early Friday night, robbed and shot the hotel clerk, both were arrested and placed on a street car after a chase through the Interstate bridge district and while being taken back to the city jail they were allowed to remain in the car.

The report was given. One of the young bandits, Alton Jackson, had a revolver in his pocket that he had secured from a party that had escaped from the hotel. Harry Christy, who had made the arrest, ordered the officer and killed him. He was shot twice in the chest and once in the forehead. The report was given by the sergeant in charge of the street car and at 6:30 a. m. he took the officer over to the Northern railroad bridge.

The two men, Muzzari and Jackson, were taken to the hotel about 8:30 a. m. The clerk, Harry Christy, was shot in the chest and forehead. The two men were taken to the hospital and the clerk was taken to the hospital.

SAVED FROM DEATH

SEAMEN CLINGING TO OVERTURNED BOAT RESCUED.

Jimmie Deal and Eugene Cross Arrive Just in Time to Save the Lives of Seven Sailors.

Clinging to the bottom of their boat, which had capsized and turned turtle, seven seamen of the British steamship Navarra were rescued in the harbor of Charleston Wednesday afternoon, says The News and Courier, by Jimmie Deal and Eugene Cross, two apprentices of the Charleston Pilot Association. The rescued sailors were drenched with cold, having been exposed on the bottom of their little craft to wind and water for over an hour. It is doubtful if they could have held out much longer in the perilous position in which they were found when taken aboard the pilot launch and carried back to their ship.

Messrs. Deal and Cross were out in the launch "Uncle Simeon," being out on a special mission. While going down the channel they heard four whistles, the distress signal, blown by the steamship Navarra, which got out of the channel Tuesday morning in a fog and grounded near Buoy No. 7. Young Deal, who was in charge of the pilot launch, looked about to see what was the trouble. Nearly half a mile away from the ship he saw a small object drifting with the tide, which appeared to be a boat bottoming with several men clinging to it. A second glance showed plainly that the men were waving a handkerchief and beckoning for aid. With all possible dispatch Messrs. Deal and Cross made for the scene of trouble.

When the pilot launch was within a few feet of the men, Deal and Cross saw that they were clinging to the bottom of the overturned boat. Deal and Cross immediately threw out a rope and the men were able to get on board. The pilot launch then returned to the ship and the men were taken aboard.

The men were taken to the hospital and the pilot launch was taken to the ship. The men were taken to the hospital and the pilot launch was taken to the ship.

WILL NOT HANG

Pink Franklin, the Murderer, Finds a Good Friend in Gov. Ansel.

GOES UP FOR LIFE

The Death Sentence of Pink Franklin Has Been Commuted to Imprisonment for Life by the Tender-Hearted Gentleman Who Happens to be Governor.

Pink Franklin will spend the remainder of his days in the State penitentiary. This is what we are told by the State in announcing that the sentence of death imposed upon the negro in the Orangeburg county court in 1907 was Thursday commuted to life imprisonment by Gov. Ansel.

This action follows the filing of a great many petitions asking executive clemency. These came from more than a score of counties and were signed by several hundred persons. There were a number of petitions protesting against a pardon or commutation.

Franklin was convicted of the murder of H. E. Valentine, a constable, and he was to have been hanged on December 23. Recently Gov. Ansel granted a respite to the negro until January 27. The case was decided by Gov. Ansel in favor of a review by the State board of pardons.

Following the conviction of the negro, the State board of pardons was asked to grant a pardon or commutation. The board refused to do so and the case was referred to the State penitentiary.

WERE BOLD BAND

Authorities Hunting Down the Bandits Who Robbed Mail Train.

ALSO KILLED A PORTER

Because of the Skill of the Robbers in Directing the Train Crew in Handling the Train, Railroad Officials Say the Bandits Are Former Railroad Men.

Working on the theory that the two masked bandits who held up the Southern Pacific O. and N. limited at Rees, are hiding in O. and N. every rooming house in the city is being searched and all suspects are being brought into custody.

There are now working on the case all the detectives of the Harrison lines and private detectives, in addition to the sheriffs and police of Salt Lake, Weber and Box-Elder counties.

Five suspects, answering to the description of the bandits, were arrested Wednesday night. Because of the skill of the bandits in directing the train crew in handling the train, railroad officials say the robbers are former railroad men.

The bandits not only displayed a knowledge of automatic black steno apparatus, but also showed that they were informed in the method of the operation of trains on the Southern Pacific.

The semaphore which halted the train was intentionally tampered with. The lock had been broken and a switch inserted so as to prevent the copper contacts from touching, thereby throwing the signal in the red and stopping the train.

H. H. Haddock, fireman on the O. and N. limited, who was compelled to carry the sack in which the money was hidden, gave the following account of the robbery:

About 11:30 the train was stopped a mile and a half west of Rees station by an intermediate stop signal. Brokenmen Cross went to the rear of the train. I went to the front of the train. I had gone about a third of a mile when I was signaled by the engine to return. Just as I was about to get to the rear platform I heard a man shout to get on the platform. I climbed on and two men and a dog came out of the train.

When we came to the drawing room of the car, William Davis, the porter, told me to keep them from entering. The short man deliberately shot me and Fred Taylor, the porter, and I was shot in the back. The bandit pulled his revolver and shot Taylor. Taylor dropped to the ground.

SCORES LODGE

FOSS SAYS SENATOR IS NOT IN TUNE WITH TIMES.

Governor-elect Says Veteran Politician Stands Pat on Every Issue and Can Not Win.

In answer to Senator Lodge's speech in Symphony hall Tuesday night, Gov.-elect Eugene N. Foss issued a statement, saying in part: "Senator Lodge's speech of last night was an eloquent personal reminiscence. It told of the past, but not a word of the present and the future. If there was any doubt as to the fact that the senator was defeated, this speech has completely dispelled that illusion. For his own utterances have defeated him."

"He stands pat on the tariff, on reciprocity with Canada, on the income tax, on the direct primary, on the election of United States senators by popular vote, on the referendum on the initiative and on the referendum."

The governor-elect says that upon these issues the election was fought and won in Massachusetts last fall and declares that Senator Lodge evaded all these issues. It is seen, he adds, that Mr. Lodge is opposed to every one of them. After declaring that Senator Lodge is a discredited man in the eyes of the public, Mr. Foss continues:

He does not stand for the new order of things. He does not believe in the capacity and the right of the people to govern themselves. He has said unmistakably that he does not think the people competent to advise their public servants. He is a reactionary. He faces to the rear and he belongs to an era which is already dead.

Massachusetts demands something besides oratory. She wants a man in the senate who, in the first place, stands for the will of the people, who believes in the people's honest heart and conscience and of whom it is said that "his feet are with the people."

BREAK SAFE IN HOTEL.

The Bold and Daring Work of Two Masked Bandits.

Two masked bandits entered the office of the Angelus hotel at El Paso, Texas, Thursday and robbed the safe of about $5,000 in cash and jewelry. The clerk and porter were seized into the basement at the point of revolvers. Thirteen safety deposit boxes were extracted and carried away.

The boxes were found later in the basement of the Angelus theatre adjoining the hotel. All had been broken open. The bandits forced the night clerk to deliver the key to the inner door of the safe before driving him into the basement. One man then stood guard in the basement, while the other opened and looted the safe.

About 25 boxes containing several thousand dollars in cash and diamonds were left untouched. The hotel cash box yielded $600. One box left behind is said to have contained $5,000 in gold. No arrests have been made.

LIVE WIRE COIL

Kills a Man and His Two Dogs Which Try to Rescue Him From It.

THE DEADLY CURRENT

A Crowd of One Thousand People Stand Around Powerless to Aid the Unfortunate Victim, Whose Body is Recovered by an Undertaker Wearing Rubber Gloves.

When Giovanni D'Amelio, a beef master, of No. 127 Main street, Union Hill, N. J., finished his day's work on a house at Thirteenth street and West New York avenue, that township, at 6 o'clock last night, he was struck by a live wire, and he was killed. He was struck by a live wire, and he was killed. He was struck by a live wire, and he was killed.

As it was a passed under an electric light at Ninth street and Berenline avenue, a secondary feed wire snapped and fell. When the end came in contact with the sidewalk, yellowish sparks shot out. D'Amelio turned at the sound and he was struck by the wire, and he was killed. He was struck by a live wire, and he was killed.

A word of encouragement to the rouching animals was on the man's lips when the wire swung toward D'Amelio, who raised his arms to guard himself. The next instant the severely charged wire began coiling itself around his body.

As the wire wound D'Amelio in its coil, the end whipping in a never ceasing circle, hissed and forth sparks and a never ending stream of fire, whose colors were changing continually from greenish to blue, yellow to purple. The man was hoarse, panting and fuming. He was struck by a live wire, and he was killed.

All this had taken about ten minutes, and when the dogs saw their master twisting and turning on the sidewalk, one of them, with a sharp bark, rushed toward him. The animal seized one of the coils in its teeth as if to rend it. Then, with a cry of pain, it dropped dead. D'Amelio's fate of its mate the other dog, which was also struck by the wire, was also killed. He was struck by a live wire, and he was killed.

Some one telephoned the police and Capt. Veltmann, with Sergt. Bauer and Wallace and Patrolman Vallance, soon appeared. They were powerless to lend aid as the other men. Then an ambulance was called from Sherr's undertaking shop and the driver, Charles Darke, was told to fetch rubber gloves and a pair of wire cutters. When he arrived he cut on the gloves and cut the wire, which flew into the air, its fiery tail still glowing sparks.

D'Amelio was hurried to the North Hudson Hospital. The doctors said he had died within a few minutes after the wire coiled itself around him. He leaves a widow and three children, the oldest five years of age.

Sent to the Asylum.

Irving I. Fleming, colored, postmaster at Lynchburg, was adjudged insane on Wednesday and sent to the asylum. Fleming has lately been a very enthusiastic member of a Holiness sect of his neighborhood and it is supposed that the constant excitement manifested in the religious life has unbalanced his mind.
