

PROVE FALSE

Mrs. and Miss Hull Accused of Smuggling Valuable Necklace.

BAGGAGE IS SEARCHED

The Tip Given Custom House Officials Turns Out to be Untrue—Over Zealous Customs Authorities Find Minor Undervaluation of Clothing.

The Victims are Very Indignant. The wife and daughter of Joseph Hull of Savannah, Ga., one of the wealthiest and most influential men in the South, were required to disrobe in their stateroom aboard the steamship Lusitania at New York on Friday while a zealous customs inspector, acting on a mysterious tip, subsequently found to be false, made a vain search for a diamond necklace thought to have been purchased abroad.

The search proving futile, Mrs. Hull and the daughter, Miss Eliza Lamar Hull, were allowed to proceed to their hotel, where another daughter, Miss Nina Hull, convalescing from an attack of typhoid fever, had preceded them without having been subjected to search.

The necklace rumor dismissed, customs inspectors searched the family baggage, and, charging undervaluation in the case of Mrs. Hull and Miss Eliza Hull, seized the articles in question. Mother and daughter claimed they had acted in good faith, but their explanations were not considered satisfactory to Collector Leach and the articles were seized.

They consist entirely of wearing apparel and will be held until "the home value," that is the for-ten cost, plus duty, is paid.

Joseph Hull, the husband and father, was on the pier to greet his wife and daughter, as was a son, Daniel, a cotton broker in this city. All were indignant at the proceedings and threatened to carry the matter to the courts if necessary.

"We were made to take off even our stockings," said Mrs. Hull. "Every stitch of our clothing was searched and even our hair did not escape. I consider this treatment an outrage and I had no idea such a thing could happen on American soil."

It was explained for the family that the report concerning the necklace had probably come from Savannah, where there was jealousy over the fact that the Hulls were fortunate enough to afford luxuries and finery. As to the undervaluation charges, Daniel Hull said:

"My sister Eliza was the only one of the three who had previously been abroad, so I and my father sent wordless to be very cautious and particular in making their declarations. As to the alleged undervaluation, the total can be no more than $100 and that was due to ignorance of my mother and sister and was done with no malicious intent."

"My sister Eliza has a diamond necklace which she purchased five years ago in Savannah. A customs inspector there heard of this and got the mistaken impression that she bought the trinket in Paris and was bringing it with her on this trip. Of course she had no such jewels."

It was pointed out at the law department of the custom house to night that federal authorities have full power to search passengers suspected of having dutiable articles concealed about them, and it was added that there has never been a suit brought as the result of such a search.

Joseph Hull came on here from Savannah to meet his returning wife and daughter. He is president of the Merchants' National bank of that city, chairman of the board of directors of the Savannah Trust company, a director of the Central rail road and president of the Pacific Phosphate company. He is credited with having made many millions out of phosphate properties.

The Implements the Farmer Needs. Few farmers need all farm implements. The man who has his cows does not need a separator; the man without live stock has no use for a manure spreader; the man who raises only cotton does not need a best huller; the man with only one horse could not afford to buy a two-horse plow. We admit all this. What we wish to impress upon our readers is that it will pay a man to grow pigs and save them for seed, that he should set two horses and then a two-horse plow will follow; that he can make money by keeping live stock, and that when he gets the live stock he can afford to buy manure spreaders and cream separators and build silos. In short, we wish to inspire him with high ideals, to make him ambitious to do better farming, to get more work staked and more machinery, and thus to make him more money and live more comfortably than he possibly can while he works only one horse and uses only a few of the more inefficient tools. If we could only convince our one-horse farmers, however, of the value to them of three tools, we should be doing them a wonderful service. These, too, any energetic farmer can have; and if he will manage to have his land broken and harrowed with good two-horse machinery, he can do just as good cultivating with them as anyone can do, although it will inevitably cost him more than it will with more team power. The implements we refer to are: (1) a good planter, (2) a good weeder, (3) a good cultivator. The one-horse farmer who has these will soon be able to get two horses; the man who is without them should not rest until he gets them.—Raleigh (N. C.) Progressive Farmer.

REMEDY MAY BE FOUND

SCIENCE WILL YET DEFEAT INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

Dread Disease, Caused by Germ, May Be Prevented, Thinks Dr. Flexner of Rockefeller Institute.

Dr. Simon Flexner of the Rockefeller Institute declared yesterday that it has now been thoroughly established that infantile paralysis, the disease which has brought so much harm among children in the last few years, is a germ disease. The germ, it is true, is too small to be detected by any microscope, but its presence and nature have been established in other ways through animal experimentation.

Dr. Flexner, who is, as a rule, silent as to the discoveries made at the institute of which he is a director, consented to make this statement yesterday to the New York Times in explanation of one of the arguments he brought forward at a hearing at Albany last week in defense of the use of animals in medical research. He then stated that the means of the prevention of infantile paralysis has already been established, and that it might conservatively be said that the achievement of a cure is not far distant.

"Infantile paralysis," said Dr. Flexner, "is a germ disease that attacks the spinal marrow and brain, and by merely injuring or by totally destroying the delicate tissues causes either a temporary or permanent paralysis of the muscles."

"The germ of the disease has been known for a little more than a year. It is so excessively minute that the most powerful microscope fails to reveal it, and yet there are accurate methods through the employment of which the nature and presence of the germ have been determined with certainty."

The proof that infantile paralysis is a germ disease, and almost all our accurate knowledge concerning the nature of the disease," Dr. Flexner went on, "has been secured through experiments on animals, and could probably have been obtained in no other way."

"Where does the germ reside?" the doctor was asked. "It is not known to reside anywhere in nature," he replied, "except in connection with human beings, who either have had or have been in contact with some one who has had infantile paralysis, or in relation with some object in close association with patients suffering from the disease."

"How is the disease spread?" was the next question. "By persons sick with the disease or by some one who has been in contact with a patient suffering from the disease." The evidence at present available points to the fact that the germ of the disease can be carried by healthy persons who have come in contact with the sick and themselves will not contract infantile paralysis, but who may transfer the germ to other healthy persons, who will develop the disease."

Dr. Flexner went on to explain that the germ of infantile paralysis enters the brain and spinal cord chiefly, if not exclusively, by way of the nasal passages. In the course of the disease, he said, the germ is also thrown off from the brain through the nose and mouth.

Hence, protection can be best secured by disinfecting or destroying the secretions of the nose and mouth of those ill of the disease, and by preventing the contamination of persons or objects with these secretions. Especial pains should be taken to maintain in a state of cleanliness the hands, nose and mouth of all children exposed to the disease, either directly or indirectly.

For how long a time is a patient in danger of spreading the infection?" Dr. Flexner was asked.

"This question can not be answered with absolute precision at present," he replied, "but it is believed that during the first three or four weeks of the disease the danger of transfer is greatest, and hence patients should be carefully isolated during this period and the discharges from the nose and mouth carefully disinfected or destroyed for the period, and if possible, for many weeks afterward."

"There is reason for believing that even after the acute symptoms of the disease have passed, the infection may in some instances be still transmitted by the patient by means of the nasal secretions. It is for this reason that the secretions should be carried for over a longer period than is embraced in the acute stages of the malady."

"What are the main sources of infection?"

"Infantile paralysis is chiefly a disease of children, but it sometimes attacks adults," Dr. Flexner said. Since the germ causing it is carried by those who have been ill, as well as by persons who have been in immediate contact with the patients, it is not surprising to find that the beginning of many epidemics have been traced to schools where many children are assembled; but any considerable gathering of persons, which includes many children who are brought together during the prevalence of the disease, may be the means of spreading it widely."

"Thus it has been observed that country fairs, Fourth of July celebrations and like events have all proved to be such centers of distribution of the infection."

The period of greatest prevalence of the disease, Dr. Flexner explained, is in the summer. As an epidemic is a summer disease; that is, almost all cases arise in the summer months, and by far the greatest number in July, August and September. However, the disease does not wholly disappear at other seasons, but a small number of cases arise in the spring and fall months, and even

COCA-COLA CASE

DR. KEBLER GIVES EVIDENCE AGAINST THE DRINK.

Serious Witness in Government Suit Makes Charges Against Beverage and Its Manufacture.

In the hearing of the case of the United States against a certain number of barrels and kegs of coca-cola in the federal court at Chattanooga, Tenn., Wednesday, some of the most interesting testimony yet brought out was given by Dr. Lyman F. Kebler, chief of the drug department of the bureau of chemistry, Washington, D. C.

Dr. Kebler is the chemist who made a test of coca-cola and he testified that coca-cola contains caffeine, declaring that to each eight ounce glass there were one and one-fourth grains of caffeine, which he says is poison.

Dr. Kebler cited many authorities in proof of his statement that caffeine is a poison and cited a number of deaths reported as being caused by its use. One of these writers had reported a case where four and one-half grains of the drug had produced death and he declared that about three classes of coca-cola contained this amount of caffeine. Dr. Kebler testified as to the finding of vermin and bugs in the vats as the result of his inspection of the coca-cola plant in Atlanta.

He also testified that caramel and brown sugar were added because of their opaqueness tended to conceal impurities in the coca-cola syrup.

Dr. Rusby, for the government, testified along the line of the name of the drink coca-cola and stated that no other product bore the name of either "coca" or "kola."

Government chemists stated that coca-cola contained neither coca nor kola and the effort of the government will be to prove that the drink is misbranded.

Electric Lamps Cheaper.

As the first direct result of the Government's anti-trust suit against the so-called "Electric Lamp Trust," the department of justice has received intimations that the price of all electric bulbs will be reduced 12 to 15 per cent all over the United States.

By such a cut in present prices, folks who buy the electric lamps will have more than $6,000,000 a year. The department continues to receive word that the various trusts in the so-called trust are breaking up, in anticipation of suits.

Workmen Find Skeleton.

Workmen installing a heating system at Alvan S. Brainerd's house near Hazardville, Mass., found a skeleton in an old-fashioned chimney containing a human skeleton. The remains were those of a child. Nothing was left but the bones and a few ashes. The Brainerd family is at a loss to explain the mystery.

Suicides After Five Trials.

At Hartford, Conn., Mrs. Sarah E. Ashbell tried four times to kill herself, and on her fifth trial was successful. Thursday she tried hanging and her husband sat up all night to keep watch over her. While dozing Mrs. Ashbell drank carbolic acid, and the husband woke to find her dead.

In the winter months. Whenever a case arises, whether in summer or winter, it should be isolated and treated with great care and promptitude to avoid the infection of others.

The infantile paralysis, a new disease, is not a new disease, Dr. Flexner said, but the epidemic of it is new to this country. The disease has arisen in this country from time to time for almost half a century, but in very rare instances have any considerable number of cases been grouped together until the last three or four years.

The present epidemic first appeared around Boston and New York about three years ago, and has gradually, continuously and insidiously extended over North America from ocean to ocean and from Canada to Cuba. Prior to this period the epidemic were limited to Norway and Sweden, where they have been prevailing regularly for more than a quarter of a century. The present epidemic in America is part of the general epidemic, or pandemic, so-called, of the disease affecting a large part of the civilized world. The disease is prevailing in many European countries at the present time, as in the United States and Canada.

Then Dr. Flexner went on to describe the available means of combating the disease.

"At the present time," he said, "there is no specific remedy or cure for infantile paralysis. The disease once established can not, therefore, be controlled by the application of any remedy known to medical science. Luckily, the disease is not a highly fatal one, although it is one of the saddest of diseases because of the large amount of crippling it causes. On the other hand, the outbreak has been greatly brightened by reason of the recent knowledge which has been acquired concerning the nature of the cause of the disease and the mode of its transmission."

LIST YOUR LAND

IF YOU HAVE ANY YOU WISH TO SELL TO SETTLERS.

Many Letters From the North and West are Flooding the Office of Secretary Watson for Information.

The department of agriculture is receiving hundreds of letters from investors and business men in the west and north relative to the farm lands of this state and as a result a revise list of lands for sale will be issued.

Commissioner Watson has made the following statement which shows the tide of immigration is turning southward.

Watson's Statement. "In view of the provisions of Section 6, of the act creating this department and in view of the hundreds of inquiring prospective purchasers of agricultural lands from people in other states of the south, in the east, middle west, and even in the northwest, the department has determined to immediately issue a complete revised list of available properties as can be collected. We are now prepared to furnish to all land owners, real estate concerns and real estate agents, blanks upon which to list properties with the department for publication in the 1911 land list and enter upon the land list books of the department, the names of such books being required by law. The blanks referred to should designate the information desired and should be promptly filled and sent to the commissioner of agriculture without delay. It is my purpose to issue the published land list immediately and a post card from any one asking for blanks, indicating the number of pieces of property desired to list, will bring to him necessary number of blanks."

It has been utterly impossible to adequately answer all of the inquiries during the past few months without a great deal of extra work and hence this list is to be issued at the earliest possible moment.

In accordance with the provisions of Section 6 of the act creating this department, information is hereby given that a list of available properties for sale in the south, middle west, and even in the northwest, is being prepared by the department of agriculture, and that the number of pieces of property desired to list, will bring to him necessary number of blanks.
