Gov. Blease Doubts the Truthfulness of Senator Tillman's

LETTER TO BOSE CREWS

Governor Blease Says He Believes Senator Tillman Was in a Combination With Richards to Bring Out Chief Justice Jones for Governor in the Next Election.

The Spartanburg Herald says surrounded by a constantly argued throng of admirers at the Argyle hotel Friday night, Governor Cole L. Blease freely expressed his views on different subjects to a reporter for the Herald and disclosed something of his plans.

He made it plain that notwithstanding Senator B. R. Tillman's denial, he believed there was truth in the story published by W. T. Crews, editor of the Greenville News-Scimitar, to the effect that Senator Tillman and Maj. John G. Richards, Jr., had plotted to bring out Chief Justice Ira B. Jones, of the supreme court, as a candidate to defeat him for governor.

He said he believed the program had been to elect Maj. Richards lieutenant governor. Then, if Senator Tillman was compelled for any reason to give up his seat in the Senate, Justice Jones would take his place and Maj. Richards would step into the shoes of the late Governor.

Another interesting statement of the governor was that he intended to send a committee to the Eastern States to investigate the possibility through legislation of the approaching session, to the effect that the legislature should be empowered to elect the governor for a term of one year.

He said he believed the program had been to elect Maj. Richards lieutenant governor. Then, if Senator Tillman was compelled for any reason to give up his seat in the Senate, Justice Jones would take his place and Maj. Richards would step into the shoes of the late Governor.

FIEND LYNCHED

The Brutal Assault on a Young White Girl at Honea Path Avenge.

BRUTE HUNG AND SHOT

Taken from Officers After Exciting Chase Through Several Counties, the Fiend Was Taken to the Scene of His Crime, Hung and Riddled With Bullets.

A negro boy, about seventeen years old, committed a criminal assault on a twelve year old white girl at Honea Path on Tuesday morning. The brutal assault occurred about half-past seven o'clock some three hundred yards from the limits of the town, where the little girl had gone to put a cow in a pasture.

According to the little girl, she was attacked from the rear, while she was going to a pasture with cows, the attack being made within three hundred yards of the incorporated limits of Honea Path, and after dragging his little victim about seventy-five yards into a patch of woods he accomplished his dastardly purpose behind a dead log. The little girl emerged from the woods, attracted the attention of a passerby and gave the alarm.

The negro then passed through the town to a butcher shop where he worked. He was found later at the shop by Constable Haynes, who took him before the girl, and after she had positively identified him, the constable, with two other citizens, hurried the negro to the jail at Anderson in an automobile. The infuriated citizens were searching the woods during the while and did not learn that the negro had been apprehended until he was on his way to the jail.

As soon as the dastardly outrage became known the people of Honea Path gathered and began a rigid search as above stated for the fiend. As soon as it was learned that the negro had been caught and taken to Anderson, a crowd left Honea Path for that place, bent on lynching the fiend if they could get him in their hands.

A dispatch from Anderson says more than a hundred heavily armed men arrived there at eleven o'clock from Honea Path. Some came on trolley cars, others on the train, and the remainder in automobiles. Fifteen minutes before the crowd arrived at Anderson the negro had been taken in a fast automobile and was speeding to the Greenville jail, thirty six miles away.

The Honea Path citizens followed in pursuit. They left Anderson in about ten automobiles. The men with the prisoner arrived in Greenville at ten minutes to two o'clock. The car they left in was a fast one, but when it departed from Anderson it had no chains on the wheels. It had been raining all night and the roads were muddy, heavy and slippery.

At 1:50 o'clock the Anderson automobile dashed through the streets of Greenville and up to the county jail door. At the jail the sheriff had received a telephone message from Sheriff King, at Anderson to spirit the negro off to Spartanburg. A change of automobiles was made at the jail and the flight to Spartanburg taken up.

Within ten minutes after the automobile bearing the negro had departed, a big Anderson touring car, containing Josh Ashley, four other men, steamed through Main street. "Citizen" Josh clutched a Winchester rifle in his hands and eagerly inquired where the negro had been taken. Upon being told that the party had proceeded to Spartanburg, the word of command was given and the big auto dashed on up the street.

Within five minutes another Anderson car steamed into the city, closely followed by still another machine. The mud-bespattered occupants, upon being readily informed by Greenville citizens which way the negro had been carried, applied the power to their machines and dashed on. At Greenville the pursuers divided, some going one road and some another.

In the depths of a forest six miles north of Greenville, an armed mob of twenty-five men, headed by "Citizen" John Ashley, of Honea Path, a member of Anderson County's legislative delegation overpowered Deputy Sheriff Van B. Martin, of Anderson County, and Sheriff J. Perry Pool, of Greenville County, and took the fiend from their custody.

The trembling negro was placed in the car in which Ashley and four other men rode and followed by a train of several automobiles from Anderson and Greenville counties, loaded with determined men and bristling with shotguns and rifles, the ringleaders turned in their fury and started toward Honea Path. Promises were made the sheriffs that the negro would be carried back to the scene of his crime and the "older heads" of the town consulted as to what should be done with him.

The negro was carried to the identical spot where the crime was committed and from there was taken to the nearest telephone pole and swung up by one foot. Four hundred shots, as near as can be estimated were fired into his body. Winchester rifles, magazine pistols, revolvers and shotguns being the weapons of death used. Thus ended one of the most sensational man chases that section of the State has ever known.

Three negro men were carried before the little girl who lived with her stepmother. She identified the last one, Willis Jackson, as the fiend who had attacked her. She said she

PUNCTURES A BUBBLE

CURRENT EVENTS SET RIGHT BY NEWBERRY OBSERVER.

Shows That a Majority of the Farms in South Carolina are Owned by White People.

We have seen it stated in several newspapers that a majority of the farms in South Carolina were owned by negroes, and that they were still buying land in large quantities. We could not understand how this could be true and intended to hunt the matter up, but the Newberry Observer has fore stilled us by getting the facts much better than we could have done. Here is what the Observer says on the matter:

"Current Events"—described in its title as "a condensed newspaper, weekly, for use in public and private schools"—published at Springfield, Mass., and Chicago, Ill., contains some very startling information for the boys and girls of this great country. "Current Events" has been in existence for 11 years and, according to its own statement, "has a larger circulation than any other school paper in the world"; and in an excellent school journal, though it does blunder sometimes, as in this instance, when it says, in its issue of Sept. 29:

"Negroes are buying many farms throughout the South and especially in South Carolina. From 1900 to 1910 the farms owned by negroes increased by 11,295. There are now 176,180 farms in that state. More than half of them, or 96,696, are owned by the colored people."

This big blunder is no doubt occasioned by mistaking the meaning of "farms operated" as reported in the census.

The Observer has not seen the agricultural census for 1910 but has the census of 1900; from which we take the following statistics as to per cent of "farms operated" by whites and colored in the Southern states at that time:

Table with 3 columns: State, White, Colored. Virginia 73 27. North Carolina 76 24. South Carolina 45 55. Georgia 63 37. Florida 67 33. Alabama 58 42.

We do not say this to depreciate the achievements of the colored race, for many of them have done well in accumulating property by industry and economy. But a newspaper published for "use in public and private schools" and having "a larger circulation than any other school paper in the world", ought to be better informed than to publish such "facts" as those embraced in the above clipping.

FIGHTING IN PORTUGAL.

Catholic Priests and Others Trying to Re-enthron the King.

A cablegram from Lisbon, Portugal, says Portuguese Royalists, after their defeat at Vinhaes, where they lost fifty men, entrenched themselves in the rough country and are awaiting the arrival of another column under Capt. Couclicre. It is reported they have eight field pieces and four Maxim guns.

A party of Monarchists commanded by a priest attacked an express train carrying troops to the north near Monsanto. They placed an obstruction on the tracks which was discovered by the engineer, who stopped his train when it was within fifty yards of the pile of stones and railway ties. The troops responded and drove off the Royalists.

Priests are taking an active part in the organization of guerrilla bands and are leading them in the combat with uplifted crucifixes. Monarchist flags are flying over churches at Castello Branco, and Santo Thrys, the government is finding difficulty in handling the cavalry and infantry in the mountainous districts.

SAYS HE WILL BEAT JONES.

Repeats Statement About the Statesman Without a Job.

The Daily Piedmont says Governor Blease, who spent the greater part of Friday in Greenville announced that he had accepted the resignation of Chief Justice Jones, tendered by that official several weeks ago and followed the next day by the Chief Justice's announcement that he would be in the race for Governor next year. The public has been of the opinion that the governor would accept the resignation, but no official announcement to this effect has been made until now. The resignation takes place January 9th. The governor, on talking of the gubernatorial race and the proposed candidacy of Chief Justice Jones, said he would repeat his statement made recently in Charleston, that "Mr. Jones would after January 9th be a statesman without a job. He said he was more hopeful of his enemies than ever and that he would beat Jones and all other candidates run in opposition to him."

FELL ASLEEP IN SHIP'S HOLD.

And Narrowly Missed Being Carried to Liverpool.

Nothing but the courtesy of Capt. Steinbridge, master of the English cotton steamer Berwinmoor, prevented Alfred Stiles, colored, of Savannah, from becoming a temporary subject of King George, of England. Stiles fell asleep in the hold of the steamer Pathan, which sailed from Savannah for Liverpool on October 1 and did not awak until the following day when the steamer was 200 miles at sea. After hard work he forced his way out of the vessel's hold through the battened hatches and told his story to the captain.

The Berwinmoor was signalled in passing; a small boat put out from the Pathan containing Stiles to the Berwinmoor. There was some difficulty in making the transfer on account of the rough seas. But Stiles was landed at Newport News, Va., where he wired Savannah for funds to return. The Pathan continued to Liverpool.

Gov. Blease Says He Has No Apologies to Make For Them.

The Spartanburg correspondent of The News and Courier says Gov. Blease in speaking of the pardons that he had granted, said that he had no apologies to make in that respect, for when he looked into it and found, in his judgment, the party was worthy of being pardoned he would turn them loose. He also told of an interesting case of a little girl who wanted him to free her brother from the Reformatory to help provide a living for her mother, who was an invalid. Gov. Blease said rather than to have turned that girl down he would have resigned from the Governor's chair. He stated that he was not through pardoning convicts yet; that there were many others in the Penitentiary that he intended to free.

CAUSE OF LOW PRICES.

Winners' Report and Receipts Indicate Bumper Crop.
A New York dispatch under date of October 6th says cotton prices declined owing to favorable crop weather and ginning reports, together with heavy receipts and large selling. The South has been a persistent and liberal seller on hedges. This is explained by the fullness of the markets for actual cotton at the South. On the basis of the crop report of last Monday many estimate the crop at from 14,000,000 to 16,000,000 bales, though others put it under 14,000,000. There is a prevalent belief that the crop is the largest ever raised. It is also considered one of the earliest in point of development. With the ginning up to September 25 reaching the unprecedented total of 2,863,000 bales, bears have been greatly encouraged.
