

WHAT SHE SEES

Paris Which Says Nations Be Upheaved During Next Year

MUCH TROUBLE AHEAD

Predicts Defeat of the Republican Party in the United States Next Year, that the German Emperor Will Loose His Crown, and That France Will See Blood and Fire.

Mme. De Thebes, of Paris, "the witch of the Etolie quartet," the world's greatest seeress, has issued her forecast for 1912. The famous pythoness to whom nearly every well-known man in France has journeyed "to have their fortunes told," predicts have all over the world.

Next year is to be the "Black Year." Nations will be upheaved; a great European war is to be fought; the high cost of living is to go higher; Paris will probably topple into ruins; babies won't have enough milk; Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany will lose his crown, etc.

You, perhaps, laugh at "fortune tellers." Mme. Lantelme, the beautiful French actress, felt that way about it, and when Mme De Thebes told her "to beware of the water," she only smiled. Mme. Lantelme was drowned off her houseboat on the Rhine last summer.

Anyway, Mme. De Thebes "prophecies" are strangely interesting. Even if she be not inspired, the fact remains that wherever she gets her information, however, it is that she sees the future, she often hits the bull's eye. If she isn't a real prophetess she's a good guesser, she says, in part:

"Last year I called 'the twilight year'; next year—as night succeeds the twilight—will be the 'black year.' But there will be streak if light. Not a single star will rise over Paris. All will be dark, save now and then vivid streak of lightning will cut the shadows preceding the resounding booms of thunder.

"Mercury and Mars will dominate the heavens." Men of affairs, diplomats, will try their ordinary affairs, but they will have to leave the last word to the military force; force and cannon will speak when the business men and diplomats get muddled.

"For France everything points to war, but I believe this will come not before the latter part of the year—unless, that is, things are not compromised beforehand. Falling of war in 1912, 1913 will be the last year of grace; then it will be inevitable. Between now and then the chances of peace and war are about equal. The cataclysm foreseen is so great, so widespread, that it is dangerous even to speak of it lest it be precipitated. Not only will it turn Europe upside down, but other continents as well, notably Asia. We will be forewarned by a trembling of the earth and we shall know that the end of our trouble is in sight when most of the necessities of life are wanting; especially will milk be scarce.

"A hard winter is ahead, a sullen springtime, heavy summer and bitter fall."

Blood and fire will surround France throughout the year, according to the future-reader. Brest, Toul and Paris will be especially cursed. Paris will have epidemics, floods, attempts against the lives of well-known people, and, "if those men, whose intentions are good enough, cannot get together Paris will be in ruins."

This is taken to mean that since the government has done little toward deepening the bed of the Seine the floods, Mme. De Thebes foretells, will leave Paris in a sad plight. There is to be an uprising of some nature or other in Paris, the particular quarter not being indicated by Mme. De Thebes. "There will be," she says, "numerous deaths, as if a volcano suddenly opened. But in the midst of this torment Paris will not interrupt the trend of her daily life. It will continue to have its full share of crimes of passion, its society dramas and singular adventures. I see a famous stage beauty, at a boulevard theatre, who will kill herself after she has killed someone.

Spain will have lively doings; here will be plots, but Alphonso will save his crown. Emperor William of Germany will not be so lucky, it would seem.

"There will be across the Rhine no dominating Hohenzollern nor any other Prussian; that is what Berlin will get for her violent and political barbarisms. I have said, and I repeat, that the days of the emperor are numbered and after him all will change in Germany. I speak of his reign, not his life."

England has a bad destiny in store for her; there are to be deaths, fires, etc. But it is in the Empire wherever it will be the "Black Year."

The United States is no exception of the rule. The present government, it seems, will be knocked down and rolled in the dust of defeat. A new set will take up the reins. Mme. De Thebes did not say so, but wise ones here simply substitute for "a new set" another word—"progressives" or "insurgents."

"Can I be mistaken?" the south-sayer of the Etolie asked musingly, gazing at a peculiarly chiseled stone, elephant standing in the middle of a table encumbered with books, retorts and papers. "No, I am not wrong," she said. And the device, in small letters in the base of the elephant read:

"No more business; 'j'arrivai' (I do not know) (I am not) (I warn)!"

FORTY-ONE INJURED

SEABOARD FLYER DITCHED AT GLOSTER, GEORGIA.

Wreck Was Caused by a Broken Rail.—Several From This State Are Among the Hurt.

Forty-one persons were injured Saturday night in the wreck of train No. 38 of the Seaboard Air line, near Gloster, Ga. The wires to the scene were torn down and it was not until Sunday morning that details of the derailment became known. None of the injured will die, according to railroad officials. Gloster is 25 miles northeast of Atlanta.

The train left Atlanta at 8:35 o'clock for Washington. It was going 40 miles an hour when near the Gloster station it struck a broken rail. The engine and several cars went over safely but a Pullman and one first-class passenger car left the roadbed and went into a ditch.

The injured were in these two cars. Their hurts consist of cuts and bruises. If there had been more serious consequences the railroad would have had difficulty in caring for the victims, as the surrounding country is sparsely settled and few if any doctors were at hand.

A train with physicians and wrecking apparatus was dispatched from Howell's station. The tracks were cleared by daylight. Most of the injured live in Georgia and the Carolinas. They include:

- P. M. Cain, Washington, D. C.
- G. W. Brewer and Miss Brewer, Elberton, Ga.
- C. M. Parish, Raleigh, N. C.
- C. F. Leffler, Rutherfordton, N. C.
- Mrs. Ella Moon, Comer, Ga.
- Miss Bert Watson, Comer, Ga.
- F. F. McNaughton, wife and five children, Burgaw, N. C.
- Mrs. Floy Tally, Sanford, N. C.
- Mrs. J. F. Thornton, Abbeville, S. C.
- J. W. Bolt, Laurens, S. C.
- Arch McCormick, Wilmington, N. C.
- G. P. Waddell, Wilmington, N. C.
- J. B. Ailman, Mullins, S. C.
- C. A. Haigler, Abbeville, S. C.
- W. Bright, Mullins, S. C.

MANY CRIMES MAR HOLIDAY.

Worst Christmas in Fourteen Years, Says Police Chief.

"The worst Christmas in my fourteen years of experience," was Chief Hoyle's summing up of Monday in Charleston. All the officers, says The News and Courier, commented on the long list of arrests and all were of the opinion that they had never seen a Christmas to equal that of 1911. Seventy-five arrests were made up to 11 P. M. This is probably a record for the department for one day's work.

Almost every crime that one calls to mind is on the police docket. Beginning with men who merely detained for safe keeping, the catalogue of wrongdoing runs all the way to murder. Shooting scrapes galore were pulled off in fine style. The Hospital got its share. Very few, however, were injured by fireworks during the day, none serious.

Lawlessness seemed to reign on the streets and the double details of policemen had everything they could do to stop fights as soon as they started.

In utter disregard of the safety of people walking on the streets, pistols were fired at random and fireworks set off on the principal thoroughfares. Thirteen arrests were made on this charge alone.

It is reported that several "blind tigers" were compelled to close their places early yesterday afternoon because of the three days of Christmas celebration had cleaned out their stock and it was impossible to secure more.

Many people said that they had never seen so much drunkenness on the streets of Charleston at any time before. Ordinary cases of drunkenness were not interfered with, no one being arrested who was able to take care of himself and was not making trouble for anybody else.

THEY SHOULD BE PENSIONED.

Remarkable Anti-Race Suicide Record of Oklahoma Couple.

Complaining that the railway station waiting room at Boynton, Okla., was without fire on a bitterly cold day, J. M. Jackson filed a protest with the corporation commission and scrutiny of his allegations Saturday brought the discovery that the Jacksons are parents of thirteen children born in three years. Their eldest, a son is now fourteen years of age, making the personnel of their progeny list fourteen in number. Five years ago in the increase in the Jackson family became marked. Twins are now five years old. Triplets succeeded twins in twelve months, and in another year triplets, came five children on the same day. The five are still alive, but the health of the whole family, declares Jackson, was impaired by the absence of warmth in the Boynton station waiting room.

Hangs Five Days by Arms.

After falling into a crevice between two logs near Southbridge, Mass., James Leek hung for five days and nights by his arms and with one leg suspended backward. He was unconscious when found, but will recover.

The man who goes through life with uncertain aim will never gain anything worth having.

KILLER SOON LYNCHEd

GEORGIA COMMUNITY SHOCKED BY DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

Enraged at Slaying of Policeman, Mob Wrecks Vengeance, Pouring Bullets Into Victim's Body.

C. A. Roberts, chief town marshal of Donaldsville, Ga., was killed by a half drunken negro there Saturday afternoon and the latter was shot to death by a mob that sought revenge immediately afterward. The trouble started in town at 4:15 o'clock. John D. Warren, the negro, came to town and after partaking of too much Christmas liquor, quarrelled with Gus Newberry and finally drew a revolver and threatened to kill Newberry. The negro was finally chased out of town by persons who had seen him flourish a revolver.

Marshal Roberts heard of the affair and he, with J. D. Mosely and J. W. McMullin, jumped into and automobile and started in pursuit. The marshal jumped from the automobile and grasped the negro and dragged him from the seat. Roberts fell dead from the wounds that he had sustained as the negro dropped to the ground.

The negro was taken in charge by Mosely and McMullin and they attempted to take him back to town. But the mob that had been closely following overtook the party and drove Mosely and McMullin away from the negro. Then the members of the crowd shot the negro full of bullets. He was too weak from wounds previously received in his duel with the marshal and too full of liquor to make any headway at getting away.

The town was full of Christ shoppers. All business was paralyzed because of the lynching. Marshal Roberts leaves a wife and family. The negro, Warren, had been in trouble once before, but his father is one of the best known and most prominent negroes in Southeast Georgia.

MESSAGE TELLS OF MASSACRE.

Said Party Captured by Indians Expected Soon to Die.

What is believed to be evidence of an Indian massacre which took place in the earliest pioneer day of Oregon has been uncovered by the little daughter of L. C. Denison, at Salem, Ore. While playing in the basement of the home, she picked up a bottle which had been placed in clay containing the following message, written on a soiled piece of paper:

"10-1840—We are captured by Indians—expect to die any minute. You will find Purk's body under the tree north, and."

What more the writer intended to say will never be known, as the message stopped after describing the burial place of the man Purk.

The bottle is a four-ounce container and shows evidence of having been buried or washed under the ground many years. The paper within bore the message of pending death and injury at the hands of the Indians in lead pencil writing.

Mr. Denison states that he will take the message and bottle to Portland and present it to the Historical Society and will make an effort to locate the grave of the man referred to in the note.

TOBBERY BY CHINESE BRIGANDS

Highwaymen and Murderers Terrorize Inhabitants.

A Warbin, Manchuria, message says a band of Chinese brigands attacked an imperial convoy which was on the way to Kirin with a large amount of bullion. The robbers carried off a sum of $850,000. The number of brigands in the province of Kirin has increased rapidly since the beginning of the political disturbances throughout the kingdom. Many soldiers have deserted from the army and have joined the ranks of the brigands and now live openly by plunder. Murders occur frequently among the highroads and the brigands even attack settlements of considerable size, in which they loot the stores and do not hesitate to murder the inhabitants if they offer any resistance.

YEGGMEN MAKE GOOD HAUL.

Secure $10,000 in Stamps and Papers in Postoffice Robbery.

At Hardin, Ky., a band of yeggmens got $600 worth of stamps and $10,000 worth of notes and stocks, when they blew the safe of the postoffice early Sunday. The explosion of the heavy charge of nitro-glycerine, used in blasting open the safe, shook the entire town and caused a panic among the residents, many of whom rushed half-clad from their beds. Although a posse was formed, no trace of the robbers could be found, and bloodhounds will be put on the trail as soon as possible. The paper taken by the yeggmens were the personal property of Postmaster Stark, and some of them are negotiable.

Old Woman Dropped Dead.

Much excitement was caused at Gaffney Saturday afternoon by the death of a respectable old colored woman, named Prudie Wright, who dropped dead among a great crowd of Christmas shoppers about one o'clock in front of the National Bank of Gaffney. The cause of her death was acute indigestion.

MANY SET FREE

Governor Blease Turns Thirty Convicts Loose on Christmas Eve

ELEVEN LIFE TERMERS

Biggest Batch of Convicts Liberated in South Carolina in Years.—Some From Penitentiary, Others From County Works.—Offences From Non-Support of Family to Murder.

Thirty persons held in the South Carolina penitentiary and in the county jail received their liberty Saturday at the hands of the governor of South Carolina when a record for pardons and paroles was made, says the State.

Briefly stated, there were 11 lifetime prisoners freed. Nine of these prisoners were convicted on a charge of murder. One was convicted on the charge of burglary and larceny, and the other on a charge of arson. Seven were convicted on a charge of manslaughter, the sentences ranging from five to 25 years. Several had been convicted on minor charges, and one was pardoned to restored citizenship.

Viewing the act of the governor from an economic standpoint, and considering the pardon record for a day made possible by the constitution of the State, it means that this State was deprived of the service of convicts aggregating 23 years. This is for unexpired terms. The estimate is made upon an average of 20 years for a lifetime prisoner. The average length of service is probably longer. A liberal estimate of the value received by the State for the service of a convict for one year is $100, which would make a total of $23,000 lost in labor.

There was clemency granted in 30 cases. Legal statisticians have estimated that it costs about $500 to convict a prisoner in this State. This would mean an additional $15,000 court expenses incurred. Taking the sum total of the expenses and value to State, the governor expended $38,900.

Of the 11 lifetime prisoners to receive clemency at the hands of the governor, Samuel Ree, the Chester county wife slayer, is probably the most known than many others. He was convicted in November, 1899, for killing his wife while she slept in his home. The case at the time attracted a great deal of attention, and public sentiment was against the man. He has served 12 years of a life term. The parole was granted during good behavior.

The papers granting the clemency to the prisoners were made up in the governor's office Saturday morning and sent to the secretary of state's office, where it required more than one hour to affix the great seal of the State. The papers were then sent to the penitentiary and there was a general exodus of prisoners.

The governor of South Carolina assumed office on January 17, and since that time he has granted clemency in 317 cases, which are as follows:

Pardons	1137
Paroles	1180
Total	2317

Taking the estimate of statisticians of $500 for a conviction, this means that this feature of the clemency record has cost South Carolina $158,500.

The governor, soon after entering office, dispensed with the State board of pardons, and announced that in the future he would decide all cases presented for clemency.

ANTICS OF THE HOLY ROLLERS.

Woman Thought She Could Walk on Water and Was Drowned.

There is a controversy on between the officials of the First Presbyterian church at Macon, Ga., and the local sect of "Holy Rollers," or, as they prefer to be known "Children of God." For two Sundays the "Holy Rollers," led by two prominent young Macon women and Prof. J. R. Moseley, who recently left Christian Science for this new faith, have worshipped at the First Presbyterian church, and this congregation, declares it has been annoyed and offended by the "Holy Roller" peculiar utterances, frantic and violent gesticulations and excitable demonstrations.

Another unusual feature occurred Sunday morning when the "Holy Rollers" sought to restore life to a woman "Holy Roller" who drowned herself in the river Saturday in the belief that she could walk on the water. The services lasted four hours, and at the end of the time the woman was still dead. Some prominent men and women of Macon are identified with the "Holy Rollers" sect there.

A COUNTRY OF SUICIDES.

Over Fifteen Hundred Committed in Saxony in One Year.

The kingdom of Saxony, which, for many years, has shown a disproportionate number of suicides over most other countries, comes again to the front of the German states in the statistics of 1909, for which year the kingdom's year-book has just been issued. In that year there were 1,521 suicides reported, of which 353 were women. The cause given in 474 cases is despondency of "general weariness of life." Suffering from disease resulted in 262 suicides, while in "injured sense of honor" led 28 persons to make away with themselves.

CHINESE TROUBLES

MANY FLEE FROM THE RURAL DISTRICTS TO CITIES.

English Missionary and Wife Assaulted by Brigands and Left for Dead, but Escaped.

Eighty missionaries, a majority of whom are Scandinavians and Americans, have arrived at Kankow from the Lachow and Fan Cheng districts in the province of Hu Pei. The missionaries were escorted from their stations by revolutionary troops and afterward by Imperial soldiers. They report that the cities in the province are peaceful but the country is infested with robbers.

The Rev. C. W. Landolt, a missionary of the Hague's Synod mission in Tai Ping Tien, at the request of villagers, took command of an improvised militia for protection against robbers and with the assistance of the people captured a robber spy. The people in spite of Mr. Landolt's efforts killed the spy, after which men, women and children dipped their bread in his blood with the idea that by doing so they would become brave. The revolutionists sent out a small cavalry force and killed many of the robbers. The remainder of the band then submitted and Mr. Landolt departed for Hankow.

Consular reports from Cheng Tu, Capital of the province of Che Chuen, dated December 5, say complete anarchy prevails in the surrounding country. There has been much robbery and the people have buried their money.

The British consul at Ichang, province of Hu Pei, writing on December 21, says that there is serious danger of an anti-foreign outbreak there.

A letter from Sain Fu says that the Rev. Donald Smith, a missionary of the English Baptist mission, and his wife attempted to take the Chinese schoolgirls to their homes in the north of Sian Fu. A band of robbers attacked them, seized Mr. Smith, broke both his arms and stunned him. They then gashed his wife on the leg and left them both for dead, but they revived and were conveyed back to Sian Fu.

Wang Tien Chung, a notorious brigand, who has committed many robberies in the western districts of the province of Hunan, is reported to have collected a band of 2,000 or 3,000 followers.

FELDER TO TAKE THE STUMP.

The Atlanta Lawyer to Make Speeches in Carolina.

The Spartanburg Journal asks will Tom Felder take the stump against Coleman Livingston Blease in the water's race for re-election next summer? That's an interesting question and it remains to be seen what will come of it. A gentleman who has just returned from a western trip spent several days in Atlanta, Ga., and while there secured some interesting information on this score. He was informed by the best kind of authority that, in addition to the book Felder is writing on Blease, the Atlanta lawyer states that he will make three or four speeches from the stump in South Carolina during the race for governor next summer. Felder is anxious to meet Blease face to face while making these speeches, is the trend of the news this Spartanburg man brings back with him. In speaking of the book Felder is compiling this gentleman said: "You can put it down for fair that Felder has 'got the goods.' His book will cause the governor to say, 'O, that mine enemy had not written a book.'"

KILLING AT SUMMERVILLE.

Two Officers Tried to Arrest Him and He Shot at Them.

Monday afternoon at Summerville Special Officer J. Stevens, assisted by Constable Sam Miller, while attempting to arrest one Arthur McCants were forced to shoot him as he fired upon them at close range. McCants died instantly.

McCants had been terrorizing the neighborhood around Taylor's brick yard, in the eastern part of town, all day, with threats and firing off a shotgun. Officer Stevens was sent for and taking Constable Miller with him to assist in the arrest, they found McCants near the corner of Gum and Third South streets, flourishing a shotgun in a drunken and disorderly manner, threatening to kill any one who interfered. The constables were approaching him from the rear, when his wife warned him from a distance. He turned suddenly and fired, both officers returning the fire. McCants being killed instantly by a bullet entering the right side of his face and penetrating the brain.

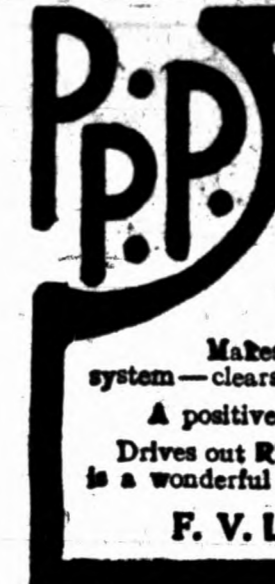

RUSSIANS AND PERSIANS CLASH.

Fifty Persons Are Killed at Tabriz in Street Fight.

Fifty persons were killed during street fighting between Russian troops and the Persians in the city of Tabriz, according to official telegrams from Teheran reaching London. The Russians occupied all the government offices as well as the telegraph station. They bombarded the governor's palace and demolished many private buildings with their artillery. Several Persian officials also were killed during the fighting at Reah.

Fatal Clash in Morocco.

An official dispatch from Mellis, Morocco, reports an extended engagement with tribesmen on December 22. The Spaniards lost 9 killed and 22 wounded.

HE TOOK THEM ALL IN. Pretended Deaf and Dumb Man Imposed on Good People.

"Some roast duck, please; some cold sliced turkey, brown potatoes, some coffee, and, oh, just bring me a good meal. You know I am hungry and tired."

The State says this order was drolled out to a waiter on a dining car entering Columbia Tuesday night from Charleston by a young man. The waiter complied with the order.

Some passengers strolled in from the day coaches to get something to eat, and they found this young man eating and chatting and they were astounded, for they had just contributed to what they thought to be a worthy cause. The young man in question had just made a round of the train, pretending to be deaf and dumb. He had collected over $7 from the unsuspecting ones. The passengers were indignant and protested. An officer was called when Columbia was reached.

Being questioned by the officer the young man said that his name was Henry Hymens, and that he called Memphis his home. He declared that he had boarded the train at Westa, near Charleston, where the race track is being constructed, and that he was a follower of the races. He was not arrested.

SCIENTIFIC POINT CLEARED UP

Size of Water Particles Now Known to Change With the Age of Clouds.

It seems rather singular to speak of the "age of clouds"—of "old clouds" and "young clouds," yet it really appears that such a distinction can be made, and that the discovery, as so frequently happens in matters scientific, was based upon a preceding mistake.

The conclusion was reached years ago in scientific quarters that the density of a cloud was proportioned to the number of water particles it contained, the water particles, in turn, depending upon the particles of dust present. Later, however, these same authorities ascertained that their first conclusion was wrong, and that in many clouds the density falls far short of proportionality with the number of water particles. Further investigation points to the fact that the size of the water particles changes with the "age" of the cloud. The clouds upon which the first observations were made must, it is thought, have been old clouds, and in them the water particles, being comparatively large, appeared to be proportional to the density. But the later observations were made upon newly-formed or young clouds, in which the particles were small in size.
