Calhoun has been advocating such a play-ground, on a smaller scale, of course, for the young folks of Barnwell, but the idea has not awakened the enthusiasm that it deserves. It has occurred to us that Calhoun Park could easily be converted into a public play-ground at a small cost, provided, of course, that the nearness of the dispensary would not be too much of a drawback. As it now stands it receives very little attention and is far from being "a thing of beauty and a joy forever." Why not make it useful as ornamental? If, however, it is practicable to make the location more suitable, it should be secured at a very low cost.

Such a play-ground would keep the children out of mischief, and the parents that their children play on would be pleased to see them safe and sound.

It is now its duty to you come

RESTORED TO HEALTH BY HEALING SPRINGS
COTTON CAN BE GROWN AFTER CRIMSON CLOVER
Barnwell County Man Is Cured of Long-standing Case of Eczema. Crimson Clover is a Soil Restorer—Makes 3-4 of a Cotton Crop After.
That Healing Springs is worthy of its name is strongly attested by a Barnwell County man, whose name we are not at liberty to publish. For some time he has been troubled with eczema and the prescriptions of various doctors, although expensive, failed to effect a cure. He was advised by a friend to try the water at Healing Springs. This he did, bathing in it frequently and also using it for drinking purposes. In a short time the irritation entirely disappeared and ceased to be troublesome.
This incident makes one wonder why the Springs property is not developed and made a health resort. With water containing the wonderful qualities that this must have, it seems like foolishness for the people of this section to go off "to the Springs" when this water is so near. The gentleman who told of the above incident said that there is a partly completed hotel building at the Springs, but for some reason the work had been stopped. If some capitalists could be interested in the proposition it would mean much to the health-seekers of Barnwell and adjoining counties. It is hoped that some one in a position to push the project will recognize the advantages and make it a success.
LIKE THE NEW METHOD.
Subscribers Commend the Present Way of Keeping Accounts.
A number of subscribers have commended The People lately on the new method of keeping subscription accounts. The stamping of a label on their paper each week serves a twofold purpose—it is a receipt for what they have paid on subscription and it serves as a reminder when their subscription has expired. Some of them say that they never knew before how they stood with the paper and are glad of the opportunity to get a "clean bill of health."
And that blue ring around the label—say, is there one on your paper? Well, if there is you should not lose a minute in having it removed. Those who know say that the paper looks so much better without it. Why not try it?
Jessie Collins, of Barnwell Route No. 1, one of The People's colored subscribers, called at this office Wednesday to renew his subscription.

I fully believe that if every farmer knew the merits of crimson clover as a soil restorer and realized that cotton can be successfully grown after clover is harvested, that instead of spending 20 cents per pound for nitrogen to produce cotton, he would sow one peck of seed, or 14 pounds per acre broadcast in his cotton fields, from September 1 to November 1, in South and North Carolina, and harvest a crop of hay in Spring, say May 1, and then produce a cotton two-thirds to three-fourths of a full crop of cotton.
Seed being exceedingly cheap this year, I trust, will be the means of inducing the farmers to seed a greater acreage to clover than in former years.
I don't say to sow clover on any and all kinds of soil, but it will grow on any soil well drained and free from acid or sourness. Clay soils, or clay looms, will as a rule, with a light covering of stable manure produce clover without any inoculation, but I don't advise this, as I consider it a far wiser plan to use inoculated soil or commercial inoculation, and then be certain to carry out instructions to the letter or a failure is certain to follow in many instances.
Soils that will not produce over a half or three fourths of a bale per acre, should have a good coat of crimson clover turned under in early April for a period of two or more years—cotton being planted if you wish every year—and more phosphoric acid used as clover is turned. On clay soils potash is seldom needed, but on sandy soils the application of potash should also be increased according to fruiting of plants after organic matter is added.
The past year I harvested 2,200 pounds of cured crimson clover hay per acre on a five acre field and made four bales of cotton, using only 250 pounds of fertilizer per acre.
I have 25 acres after a hay crop this year, which is very promising. By all means grow clover to enrich your soil, and increase your bank account by cutting your nitrogen bill, and using phosphate rock instead of phosphoric acid at less than half the cost.
