m at all. In fact, the modventriloguism at all. In fact, the mou-ern wonder in this line of pleasant and deceptive art needs to have none of the old time ventriloguists' ability at all. He may-and often does stand on the opposite side of the stage from his manikin and pull a cigar quite con-tentedly, to the amazement of the audience. The dummy answers with a ready line of repartee, delivered in stationan tones. Nor is that all, for he turns and twists his head, waves his arms, kicks up his feet and otherwise acts in a very lifelike manner.

The secret of the dummy's voice is the loud speaking telephone and of his actions various electro magnets. As may be guessed, both are operated by some one off the stage. In order to produce all the desired effects the dummy figure is fifted inside with a loud speaking tolephone receiver, with the horn or large mouthplece pointing toward the audience. The receiver is connected with a special transmitter in an anteroom some distance away. An ordinary operator's breast transmitter is also concealed in the body of the dummy, so that whatever is said by the ventriloquist on the stage is transmitted to the operator in the anteroom, enabling him to speak for the dummy at the proper time.-Argonaut.

Then at last commenced a meat uplifting: the struggling subterranean forces raised a huge load. For ages this went on until the rocks, crumbled. crushed, contorted, rose above the waters and continued to rise, forming lines

STATES AND A STATES AND A STATES		34.16	S. Str.

An Incident That Chief Justice Chase Wanted to Forget.

Salmon P. Chase, governor of Ohio, enstor of the United States, secretary State of Barn we of the United States treasury and chief justice of the supreme court of the United States, once had in encounter with a pig that is worth telling. When a boy he attended a private boarding school kept by his uncle, the Episcopal bishop of Ohio. He did the chores for his uncle during the school term and worked on the farm during the summer. One day his uncle told his nephew that he should kill and dress a pig at the close of the school that day.

With no little difficulty the boy caught the pig and killed it. And now the question was how to get the bristles off. He had heard of farmers scalding bogs, so he soused the pig into a barrel of hot water. He either held the pig in the water too long, or did not have it hot enough, for in spite of all his scraping the bristles would not come off. He then thought of his uncle's ruzors, and getting them he shaved the pig from nose to tail.

When the bishop returned he congratulated his nephew on the splendid appearance of the pork. But when he tried to shave the next day he discovered that the razors would not "work." What he said and did we may imagine, but we do not know.

Chief Justice Chase was a very dignified man. His private secretary, Mr. Didler, says that he had little humor in his composition. President Lincoln once related the foregoing story at a meeting of the cabinet, but Mr. Chase did not like it very well, and the president never referred to it again.

SWAMPED WITH PROFITS.

Story of the Patent on the Screw With the Gimlet Point.

Perhaps the shortest patent application extant is the one on file in the patent office at Washington, which reads, "I claim a patent on a screw with a gimlet point."

Previous to that all screws used in woodwork had been of the blunt end variety, and the carpenter had to carefully bore a bole with a gimlet or auger before inserting his screw and forcing it bome. The advent of the screw with a gimlet point which would

The Old Turnpikes.

The first great American highway. that between New York and Philadelphia, was long known as "the old York road." Its construction in 1711 was an example which led the colonists at other points along the Atlantic seaboard to construct similar roads where there were no water routes. They were usually built by chartered companies and were called turnpikes or toll roads. Pennsylvania, Connecticut and New Jersey had many roads of the kind. The nest macadam road in America uil't in 1792 between Philadelphia Lancaster. In 1811 there were said to be 4.500 miles of chartered turn pikes in New England and New York. During the next twenty years the national government spent many millions of dollars in constructing great highways, but the panic of 1837 and the building of railroads and canals put an end to that branch of government work.

A Financier.

"Look here, Jimpson," said Brocklebank, "I'm terribly mortified about not having paid back that dollar I borrowed of you last June, but honestly, old man"-

"Oh, that's all right, Brock." said Jimpson. "Don't speak of it."

"Oh, but I must speak of it, old man." said Brocklebank. "I can't treat a friend that way, you know, and I-I want to pay you, and I will, Jimpsure thing. If you'll lend me $2 I'll pay off that dollar right now, and we can start fresh again." - New York Times.

A Swimming Grindstone.

Some of the fishermen on the river Tyne, in England, are not only ignorant, but stupid. On one occasion two of these fishermen were caught by a heavy freshet and driven out of the river to sea. As the story goes, one of the men saw in the dusk a hoop floating by. The hoop was full of foam. "We are saved!" exclaimed the man.

"Here's a grindstone swimming!"-St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

it was impossible for others to manufacture it without damage suits this company made tremendous profits. The demand for the gimlet pointed screw was, of course, immense, and the company did not know what to do with its profits.

All of its dray horses were carefully selected blacks, and tremendous prices were paid for good stock. The harness was of patent leather trimmed with red, while the wagons plying back and forth between the factory and the docks or the railroad had red under gear to match the harness trimmings. and the wheels were decorated with gold leaf, 14 carat fine. But this is all past. Today the pointed screw can be purchased at any corner store for a few cents a package,-Wall Street Journal.

Cape of Good Hope.

The Cape of Good Hope lies at a considerable distance from the end of South Africa and is, in fact, the middle of the three promontories, severally inconspicuous, which jointly terminate a slender peninsula some twenty miles in length forming the barrier between False bay and the Atlantic ocean on" the west. These three headlands, lying near together and commonly undivided on a map of moderate scale, are locally designated Cape Point. It was here that Bartholomew Diaz first encountered in full force the prevalent southeasterly gales and denounced the rugged, threatening, threefold promontory under the sounding appellation of the Cape of Storms, to be afterward rechristened by plous, trustful hearts the Cape of Good Hope.

Pairing In Legislatures.

The custom of pairing in the house of commons originated in Cromwell's time. "Pair off" is the phrase used to signify that two members of a legislative body of opposite political opinions agree to absent themselves from voting for a certain period. By "pair-ing" in this way they neutralize each other's absence. The whips of the house generally manage to find "pairs" when, for any reason, members desire to be absent temporarily.
