The Program for Defense.

The administration's defense plans have been embodied in a program presented by the secretaries of war and the navy for discussion by the congressional committees in advance of the regular session of Congress. The campaign for the adoption of the program was opened by President Wilson in a speech before the Manhattan Club in New York a couple of weeks ago.

The program for the first year of a five-year period of naval construction calls for two dreadnaughts, two battle cruisers, twenty-five coast submarines, five sea-going submarines, twelve destroyers, an increase of 8,000 in personnel and an augmentation by 250 of the naval academy student body.

Secretary of War Garrison's program calls for the recruiting, training and equipment before 1922 of the following forces: Regular or standing army, 125,000; standing army reserve, 150,000; irregular or "continental" army of volunteers of six months' training, 400,000; continental army reserve, 400,000; state national guard organizations, 125,000. Total, 1,200,000 men.

The estimated increases will cost about $150,000,000 more than was expended last year, and that with the cost of new tasks imposed on the state governments and other branches of the government by reason of the European war, the amount of expenditures will be augmented to $1,240,000,000.

The People frequently receives lengthy articles of an advertising nature from the United States Government, with the request that they be published provided no charge is made, and we have often wondered why some patriotic congressman with a little national pride doesn't take our wealthy Uncle Sam out of the category of a beggar and provide him with an appropriation out of which to pay the newspapers for publishing his advertisements. No contractor would be expected to erect a public building free of charge nor do the manufacturers of iron and steel give their products to the government free. In fact, Uncle Sam pays a great deal more than the individual, if all reports are true.

We pass this suggestion on to Congressman "Jimmie" Byrnes, who is a former newspaper man. Surely he realizes that free space doesn't "make the ghost walk" on Saturday nights.

Stop the Sale.

Medical authorities are agreed that the toy cap pistol is a deadly weapon to a low child to play with, being a prolific source of that most terrible of diseases—tetanus. There is a law in this State which prohibits the sale of such pistols and caps, but last week the writer saw several boys using them on the streets. The officers—town and county—who are charged with the enforcement of the laws, should promptly put a stop to their sale. One little life is worth all of the profit to be made on every one that can be manufactured.

We notice that one or two of our exchanges have reproduced an article by W. P. Beard, the Bull Moose editor of The Scimitar, a little two-by-two paper published in the Piedmont section, which virtually accuses Governor Manning of trying to filch $2,000 from the State treasury with which to pay his campaign manager. Governor Manning is too big a man to notice such unwarranted attacks, which do about as much damage and cause as much concern as a gnat on a cow's horn.

HUSBAND RESCUED
DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair. At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without tiring me, and am doing all my work."

Patron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.
