

MANY WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

Through the Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Two Interesting Cases

Some female troubles may through neglect reach a stage when an operation is necessary. But most of the common ailments are not the surgical ones; they are not caused by serious displacements, tumors or growths, although the symptoms may appear the same. When disturbing ailments first appear, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve the present distress and prevent more serious troubles. Many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised by attending physicians.

Wilson, N. C.—"For about a year I was not able to do anything, not even my housework, because of the pains in my sides and the bearing-down pains. I could only lie around the house. The doctor said nothing but an operation would help me, but I tried different medicines which did no good, until my sister insisted on my trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She said there was nothing like it. I know that she was right, for I began to improve with the first bottle and it has done me more good than anything else. I am able now to do anything on the farm or in my home and I recommend it to my friends."—LILLIE EDWARDS, R. F. D. 3, Box 44, Wilson, N. C.

Another Operation Avoided
Akron, Ohio.—"I can never praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly for what it has done for me. I had such pains and weakness that the doctor told me nothing but an operation would help me. But my mother had taken the Vegetable Compound and she told me what it had done for her, and so I took it and I am glad to tell every one that it made me a strong woman, and I have had two children since then."—Mrs. R. G. WESTOVER, 325 Grant Street, Akron, Ohio.

DIVERSITY IN HAT STYLES; AUTUMN COATS AND FROCKS

A PARISIAN designer, speaking of the fall fashions in hats, said: "There has been a transaction made between the large hats and the small so that we will have only hats of medium size for this season," but apparently her observation was only true in part, as we have both medium and small hats, with the latter predominating. Hats, though, do not reach the extreme in size that appeared early in the summer season.

Four representative models from recent showings appear in the group pictured here. The hat at the top shows an entirely new idea in a wide, slightly up-turned brim covered with black briefly summed up—it is too long, but the good style of embroideries, flat applique effects and many fancy feathers, is assured.

In a season when the style is determined with a plumb-line and coats and suits are fashionable to just the extent that they are straight, any adornment that individualizes a particular garment comes in for much attention. Consequently, in the fall fashions a great deal of thought is given to fur trimmings, embroideries, buckles, buttons and braids that elaborate the straightline garments which are now an established mode.

How ornate these trimmings may be and trimmed with plumed feathers. The crown is a soft, rounded affair of the same material. Flowers of silver lined ribbon, with outlined centers, make the trimming of the little black velvet cap shown at the right. Silver and gold trimmings in one of the outstanding features of the mode and it appears in luscious materials, ribbons, ornaments and even in detailed feathers and flowers.

The large jube shape of felt at the left of the group draws from two sources inspiration for its embellishment. An embellished design in wool and metallic thread covers the crown and brim and an intricate fancy is posed and still remains tasteful in shown in the two coats and the suit pictured here. The coat at the right is of heavy broadcloth material with square collar and cuffs. The fur collar is extended to form a wide facing which reaches to the low waistline. The skirt shown is fastened to the coat at the left hip and pulls through an elaborate subsidiary design, in rust and blue, following the severe lines of the brown duster. Squared is also used for the collar on this model, but it is dyed to match the material.

Below is a picture hat of Lyons velvet with a draped crown and large feather pompon trimming. The brim is slashed at each side and lace is used in the slashes to give a semi-transparent effect.

Endlessly varied as it is, it is possible to generalize about millinery in the matters of shapes and materials. As to shapes the turban and cloche have a determined and steadfast army on their side and are going ahead triumphantly. They are flattering and comfortable and it is the mission of millinery to foster. Many shapes of all kinds have soft, sectional crowns. As to materials—velvet is anticipated and it is prominent in color and show. Besides that an important place is a source of luxurious millinery, downy hat much the same character as velvet but better suited to winter wear.

that are extremely interesting. First, there is an applique design of the same material, heavily braided and embroidered, which adroitly manages to give a blouse effect, and second, there is the moyen-age sleeve, which has recently reappeared after an absence of several seasons. The costume is of blue serge with tan and blue used in the embroidery and tan cuff facings.

These garments may be considered finger posts pointing the direction taken by the present modes, which is toward luxurious and dressy styles even for all-round wear.

Alabama Mayor Out With Strong Facts

Judge G. W. Thomason, Mayor of Tarrant City, Alabama, widely known and highly esteemed pioneer citizen, recently gave his unqualified endorsement to the Tanlac treatment.

"Chronic indigestion brought me to the verge of a general breakdown three years ago," said Judge Thomason, "and nothing seemed to afford much relief. I was eating scarcely enough to keep going on, and food stayed in my stomach like a rock, causing pain and extreme nervousness.

Sleep was often impossible, and I gradually weakened so I could hardly attend to my office duties.

"The first bottle of Tanlac improved me wonderfully, and each successive bottle gave added impetus to my returning strength. I felt ten years younger when I finished the sixth bottle a short time later. Tanlac gave me new zest in life that still remains with me."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists.
