Louisiana Lady Says That She Was in a Condition of Serious Debility, But Now Feels Good as Ever.

Shreveport, La.—Mrs. William C. Ranft, of 303 Baker St., this city, had never known what ill health was until last year. Then she began having mothering spells.
"I would awake in the mornings," relates Mrs. Ranft, "feeling weak and just no account. I couldn't get up and stir about like I had always done. I was nervous, too, for I didn't understand the shortness of breath. I would try to do my work but would have to sit or lie down."
Mr. Ranft then took matters into his own hands and, on the suggestion of his druggist, brought home some Cardui for his wife.
"After taking one bottle," continues Mrs. Ranft, "I felt stronger. Each morning my husband would say, 'Take your medicine.' I did, and after my second bottle I felt good as ever. I know Cardui did me worlds of good and I sure am glad I tried it."
Mrs. Ranft found, as have many other women, that Cardui, with its gentle, building-up, tonic qualities, was just what she needed to put her on her feet again. Cardui is purely vegetable, mild and harmless.
Cardui may be bought at any druggist's. Get a bottle today.

LEGION MEN O. K.
SCOUT MOVEMENT

A few months ago, leaders of the American Legion in southern California despaired of being able to keep membership in the Eagle Rock post interested. Today that post has been completely revived because of interest in sponsorship of the boy scout movement in the community.

The whole membership is now at work outlining plans, teaching the youngsters and doing actual scout duty themselves because of this interest. The post has furnished three scoutmasters in the community regardless of the fact that it has troops of its own.

According to a survey made of posts of the Legion, sponsorship of the boy scout movement has been one of the particular community activities. Reports of nearly a thousand posts indicated that in some way the Legion men are at work in aid of this movement, not to encourage militaristic tendencies, but rather to make a harder and more self-reliant race.

In some posts, this movement is particularly a post affair, with certain regulations imposed on the lads regarding membership in the sponsored scout units. These require that the boys be blood relatives of ex-service men. Other posts have adopted a troop of scouts or several troops in their own cities and are carrying on the work through their organization. In Toledo, O., because most of the posts in the county council had supplied a high type of men for scoutmasters, the leaders of the movement inaugurated a school, and Legionnaires numbered the principal portion of the class.

The recent "scout week," coinciding as it did with the drives of most Legion posts in interest of 1924 membership, proved a great incentive to the scout movement. The former service men in several communities throughout the country took it upon themselves to "sell" the scout idea at the same time that they talked for the Legion and its membership. As a consequence the scout movement in many cities, particularly in Connecticut and New Jersey had added a great many friends. National officials of the Legion have always contended that every former soldier would find something to interest him in the organization. To some this has been the care of the disabled; others in the reunion with former comrades; to certain ones has come a sense of realization of community spirit; and this is exemplified in the case of the Eagle Rock post in California and scores of others now directing and sponsoring the scout movement.

Disabled Men to Have Wisconsin Summer Camp

A summer camp for disabled men in Wisconsin will be opened by the American Legion in that state as a part of the Legion's service program. This camp will be on state lands in the northern section of the state, where the boasts of the tourist books "abounds the muskie and the trout, the bass and the pickerel."
No attempt will be made to keep the camp military, though the sanitation will be carefully watched by experts. Shacks constructed will provide housing facilities for a veteran and his family and he is expected to prepare his own meals. Only disabled men will be accepted as guests, according to the present plans. Many applications have been received at department headquarters for allotment of space.

Louisiana Legion Men Get After Loan Sharks

Usurious rates of interest charged by "loan sharks" and sharp business tactics used by such persons in Shreveport, La., has come to the attention of the Lowe McFarlane post of the American Legion. As a consequence the Legion men have gone on record favoring steps by the public for protective measures for persons unfamiliar with sound business practice.
A resolution was passed by the post membership expressing the fear that continuance of such evil will result in sowing of the seeds of crime among the victims of the usurers and that these persons are enslaving men and women, both white and black, in the city. By the terms of the resolution the Legion is pledged to abolishment of the evil.

ENTHUSIASM NEEDED

Rev. Fr. J. F. Cox of St. Patrick's Catholic church in Pittsburgh, Pa., believes that the enthusiasm of the American Legion, permeating national life will bring about increased efficiency in business and idealism. In speaking to the business men's branch of the American Legion in the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, recently, he said:

"If you soldiers of the American Legion would get into civic life with as much ambition and enthusiasm as you did in the World war, the spirit of cooperation, business and idealism would rise in great percentage."

CHIEF INTEREST IN DISABLED VETERANS

To make disabled men in hospitals satisfied the utmost in service should be theirs. This is the attitude assumed by the American Legion auxiliary, under direction of the national chairman of the rehabilitation committee, Dr. Helen Hughes Hielscher of Minnesota.

Doctor Hielscher's interest in disabled veterans began long before the war ended, when men began to drift back to the United States shattered in body and mind, to be cared for by the government until the Veterans' Bureau hospitals opened. She began her visits to these institutions early in 1920 and soon after closed her office in order to devote her whole time to these men.

J. A. Hielscher, her husband, had been called into service with the medical corps, and during this time, Mrs. Hielscher, herself a practicing physician, took charge of all his practice, which was heavy, particularly during the winter of 1917 and 1918 when the influenza epidemic was at its height. Mankato's physicians, where the Hielschers resided, were reduced one-third, and on Mrs. Hielscher fell a double share of duty.

During this time she organized a bureau of information for the families of service men of the community and served many hundreds of families in ways relating to war service.

On the return of her husband from service, and his resumption of practice, Doctor Hielscher resolved to devote all energy to the disabled men in the hospitals. In choosing the most efficient outlet for this effort, she joined the American Legion Auxiliary, organized a unit, and was instrumental in bringing about organization of the Minnesota department. She was elected to the presidency of this department as soon as it received its charter, and is now a member of the "Aloha Presidents," an inner circle in the auxiliary, which counts as its members all first department presidents.

During the year that Doctor Hielscher served as department president and the subsequent year as member of the national executive committee, she traveled about the state telling about the work of the auxiliary and endeavoring to increase the membership on an educational basis. During 1923 she was chairman of the department rehabilitation committee, and carried through many plans for relief of disabled veterans.

Doctor Hielscher is a firm believer in placing the veterans on their own responsibility and has provided many of the patients with interesting work which is bringing about rehabilitation. Under her direction a revolving fund has been established from which disabled men, now on farm tracts, can borrow money for the purpose of stocking their farms, the same to be repaid without interest, and in payments extended over several years. Her principal conviction is that the disabled will never be properly rehabilitated until the state asserts its right over the federal government and appropriations are made to the states for the care of disabled. This, however, is not in accord with present recommendations of the Legion and the auxiliary.

THEODORE BARTON HONORED

Native Orangeburg County and Clemson Graduate Improved Motor Generator Sets.

Clemson College.—News has reached Clemson college through the General Electric company, Schenectady, N. Y., that Theodore F. Barton of Rowesville, Orangeburg county, a graduate of Clemson college in the class of 1906, has been honored with an award of the Charles A. Coffin foundation for achievements in electrical development.

Mr. Barton is one of 40 individuals so honored among the 80,000 employees of the General Electric company. He is now one of the leading engineers of the Central Station department of the General Electric company and was granted this Coffin award for improvements in motor generator sets, for use in substations for transforming the alternating current supply in large cities to direct current for the Edison three wire system. The improved sets are self starting, self synchronizing and load limiting, so that it need not be disconnected in case of trouble on either the DC or AC system, but keeps at its work and reestablishes service as soon as the outside trouble disappears.

The advantages are a saving in attendants, a reduction in the investment in storage batteries and improved continuity of service.

Mr. Barton is one of many of Clemson college's graduates in electrical engineering who have won distinction with the General Electric company and with other big electrical organizations during the last two decades and much of the credit for their success is due to the labors of the late Dr. W. M. Riggs, who for many years was head of the electrical engineering division and director of the engineering department.

Kills Wife and Commits Suicide.

Anderson.—G. J. Bee, 62, and his wife, 60, were found dead in their rooms at the home of their daughter, Mrs. C. H. McClure, here after members of the family rushed to their apartment upon hearing two shots.
Mr. Bee is thought to have killed his wife and turned the pistol upon himself as a result of despondency over the recent failure of the Dargan Printing company, of which he had long been foreman.

A grandson, Clifford McClure, was the first to reach the dying couple. Shot through the forehead, Mrs. Bee died instantly while her husband, also shot through the head, lived but a short time. The tragedy occurred late Sunday night after the family had retired.

Mr. and Mrs. Bee were former Charlestonians, having lived in Anderson for the past 12 years. They had been married 42 years and are survived by one child, Mrs. McClure, of Anderson, with whom they made their home, and one brother, O. P. Bee, of Savannah. Mrs. Bee was formerly Miss Elizabeth Channing.

Would Care For Retired Ministers.

Columbia.—The annual conferences of South Carolina of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, have been asked to raise a total quota of $522,244, being $259,846 for the South Carolina conference and $262,398 for the Upper South Carolina conference, of the $10,000,000 superannuate endowment fund that denomination is undertaking to raise for its aged and worn-out preachers, as announced by Bishop W. F. McMurry, chairman of the board of finance, St. Louis, in charge of the movement.

The minimum amount asked of the churches of the annual conferences of South Carolina is the amount equal to the total assessed for presiding elders and pastors' salaries last year. Most of the charges in the conference have pledged the raising of their amounts and the others are expected to do so at once, while many of the churches have volunteered to raise larger totals than the quotas asked. The money will be pledged on the five year payment plan.

The total sums asked of the annual conferences of South Carolina are divided among the districts of South Carolina and Upper South Carolina as follows:

South Carolina conference: Charleston district, $43,200; Florence district, $50,174; Kingstree district, $35,912; Marion district, $42,775; Orangeburg district, $48,084; Sumter district, $30,701.

Upper South Carolina conference: Anderson district, $35,713; Cokesbury district, $38,270; Columbia district, $48,110; Greenville district, $46,300; Rock Hill district, $42,370; Spartanburg district, $51,635.

There are over 900 of the old preachers, called superannuates, in the Southern Methodist church, who have been forced to retire on account of age or physical infirmities.

Gang Working Road.

York.—The York county chaingang, 24 strong, is plugging away on the new road from Sharon to the Chester line, near Lockhart, a job that will probably require nearly all of next year to complete. Three miles of the road southwest of Sharon have been completed. Fewer convicts are on the chaingang now than in several years, it is said. Of the 24 prisoners, 22 are negroes and two are whites. The superintendent of the chaingang is A. J. Parrott, who is considered one of the best road builders in the county.

WHAT SHALL WE HAVE FOR DINNER?

When we lose interest in our meals it is time to consult a physician. It is necessary for us to have a proper respect for food and interest in it, to make eating it worthwhile.

Onions Stuffed With Ham.—Peel eight good-sized onions, cover with boiling water and cook until nearly tender; drain, rinse in cold water and drain again. Cut out the center of each onion, leaving a thin walled cup. Sprinkle the inside with salt. Mix together one cupful of cooked, chopped ham, one cupful of bread crumbs, one-fourth of a cupful of melted butter, one-half teaspoonful of paprika, one tablespoonful of minced parsley, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, and the onion that was taken from the centers, chopped not too fine. Fill the onions with this mixture, rounding it up well. Pour a cupful of thin cream or rich milk around the onions, place in the oven and cook half an hour, basting three times with the liquid in the pan. Mix three tablespoonfuls of melted butter with three-fourths of a cupful of cracker crumbs and spread the mixture over the onions. Return to the oven to brown the crumbs. Serve from the baking dish.

Cabbage Imperial.—Trim and fold back three or four of the outside leaves of a firm head of cabbage. With a sharp knife remove the center, leaving a thick wall. Take one cupful of cold seasoned meat, one cupful of sliced potatoes, one cupful of sliced carrots, and enough of the chopped cabbage to fill the head. Season well with salt and pepper, adding a few tablespoonfuls of butter. Press to mixture into the cavity, tie up in a cheesecloth and steam and cook in a small amount of water until the cabbage is tender. Cut in pie-shaped pieces and serve on a chop plate. If the stuffing in the center lacks flavor one may pour over a white sauce thickened with one cupful of grated cheese or finely-minced cheese. Serve hot.

Gingerbread Custard.—Scald a pint of milk, beat the yolks of two eggs and add one-fourth of a cupful of sugar; add the milk gradually to the sugar and egg and pour this over gingerbread crumbs (a cupful or more) in a baking dish. Set in a pan of hot water in the oven and bake until the eggs are set. Cover with a meringue prepared from the egg whites and a few marshmallows and brown in the oven.

Wherever a true woman comes, home is always around her. The stars may be over her head, the glow-worms in the night—cold grass may be the fire at her feet; but home is where she is.—Ruskin.

SUNDAY NIGHT SUPPERS

For a hot dish to serve for supper there is nothing more tasty than a well-made croquette:

Veal and Ham Croquettes.—Take a cupful of minced veal and half as much minced cold ham. Mix with three tablespoonfuls of fine cracker crumbs. Rub the yolk of a hard cooked egg through a colander and add to the above mixture. Season with pepper, salt, onion juice and moisten with gravy or butter. Bind with an egg beaten until light and form into croquettes. When ready to serve, dip in egg and crumbs and fry in hot fat.

Milk Toast.—Prepare toast enough to serve the family. Dip in hot milk and butter, well. Place on a deep platter and pour over a white sauce prepared by melting two tablespoonfuls of butter and the same of flour; when bubbling hot and well-mixed add a pint of rich milk. Cook until smooth, season well, pour over the toast.

Potatoes on the Half Shell.—Bake large smooth potatoes of uniform size until done. Divide carefully into halves lengthwise, scrape out the interior without breaking the skin, mash the potato soft with a little hot milk and melted butter, salt and pepper to taste. Add a teaspoonful of grated cheese for each cupful of potato and return to the emptied shells. Set in the oven until hot and slightly brown. Serve in the skins.

Egg Sandwiches.—Mash the yolks of hard cooked eggs and moisten them with a few drops of oil and the same of vinegar. Sprinkle with pepper, salt, celery salt, and a dash of mustard. Mix well and make into sandwiches by spreading on buttered slices of graham bread.

A Dish From Virginia.—Take three cupfuls of apple, three cupfuls of cornmeal, one teaspoonful of salt and one cupful of water. Combine the chopped apple with the cornmeal, add water, salt and mix well. Drop by spoonfuls on a greased baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven until the apples are cooked and the pone brown. Serve hot with sirup.
