Lift Off—No Pain!

Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.

Leaflets on Stalks

The box-elder, or ash-leaved maple, is to be distinguished by its ash-like leaves of three to five leaflets on a single stalk, coarsely toothed and usually deep green, says the American Tree association of Washington, D. C. The bark on the trunk resembles that of the ash, and is light brownish gray, with narrow, shallow furrows. The young twigs are a light olive green.—Nature Magazine.

Twenty Years.

Americus, Ga.—Mrs. Cornelia H. Clifton, who lives near here, is 84 years old, but keeps house for herself and has active charge of the management of her farm. She is the widow of Dr. Thomas Clifton, who fought with the Virginia militia in the War of 1812, and she draws a pension from the government for that reason.

Mrs. Clifton, according to her statement, has had a long experience with Black-Draught. "I have been taking Black-Draught constantly for the last twenty years," says Mrs. Clifton, "and I find that it is the best relief for constipation that I can use."

"For over twenty years I have known about this splendid medicine. A neighbor of mine recommended it to me that long ago and I have taken it when I needed anything of the kind ever since."

"For the last two or three years I have been troubled frequently with constipation and . . . complaints and, when these troubles come on, I take Black-Draught. I keep a box of Black-Draught always in the house. We are never without it."

Millions use Black-Draught. If your supply is running low, get more from your druggist today.

WILL PROVIDE FOR LEGION'S VISITORS

I. E. Gottlieb, a "back" private during the war, will represent the largest post of the American Legion in St. Paul, Minn., when delegations gather there for the annual convention. Gottlieb, son of a Russian immigrant, was elected to his position as commander of a St. Paul post because of his work for the Legion, and because his comrades realized his organizing ability.

On the principal post in the convention city falls much detail work. From the ranks of that post must be recruited the hard workers, the men who do most toward entertaining their comrades, the men who must be on hand practically for 24 hours a day, if necessary, for the success of the affair.

So when the 1924 officers for St. Paul post No. 8 were to be chosen, the thousand members cast about to see who fitted this description most accurately. Regardless of the fact that the members were mostly Irish, this did not deter them from selection of Gottlieb, a Jew. Race had nothing to do with this election. As it happened, but fifteen other Jews are members of the post, and on the night of the election only five were present.

But Gottlieb has had a long record of achievement in Legion organizing. He was a member of the Legion within forty-eight hours after his arrival in the Minnesota city with his discharge from service in his pocket. Since that time he has served as post entertainment officer, post finance officer and has taken an active part in local, county and department activities. When the Ramsey county central committee of the Legion was organized, he played a principal part. He formed the successful post drum and bugle corps, which carried off department honors in 1922 and 1923. He formed the Ramsey County Legion Bowling league, one of the most successful in the Legion. If there has been a productive activity of the Legion in St. Paul, Gottlieb very likely figured in it. Gottlieb was born in Russia and came to America with his parents in 1893. He is the second son of a family of eight. Five of the family served in the World war—three in France. His high school education was never completed, as he left during his first year to become a printer's apprentice, which trade he still follows. With another World war veteran he came back and opened his own shop in the Minnesota city, which he still operates, though he says it is likely his attention to it will be little during the few months previous to the St. Paul convention, in view of his present post.

Out-of-Doors Camp to House Legionnaires

An out-of-doors camp to house visiting Legionnaires who attend the department convention of the Legion in Asheville, N. C., will be established. This is believed to be one of the first instances that the Legion men will, like the Grand Army of the Republic, encamp in this manner.

It is believed that hotel facilities will be overtaxed during the convention and the Kiffin Rockwell post has arranged to open a huge camp, which will require 600 tents, 12,000 blankets and 3,000 cots to care for the visitors. A small charge will be made for accommodation, which will include meals, bus tickets, and to all attractions planned for the Legionnaires during the three-day stay.

Says Former Service Men's Party Will Come

Political muddling has cost the former American soldiers so much during the last four years that the climax will be establishing a former service men's party, according to Joseph Schwartz, a member of the American Legion in Atlantic City. Schwartz made this declaration in speaking before the Lions club of that city.

"The time is coming when the former service men will enter politics," Schwartz said, "a service man doesn't want money, but he wants a soldier party."

SEEK TO IMPORT ILLITERATE LABOR

A few selfish American business interests are seeking to import an "illiterate labor class" as virtual slaves, Garland W. Powell, director of Americanism of the American Legion, charged in Atlanta, Ga. Powell's declaration was made during the course of an address before an illiteracy conference called by the Legion for the state of Georgia.

The Legion men read a letter from a New York commercial organization which stated that the board wanted this country to admit illiterate immigrants. "If we exclude all illiterates, we would be without labor," the letter said.

Powell said these people seek to establish a condition of industrial slavery. He declared that they attempted to explain away their attitude by saying that without illiterates the nation would be without labor, when the fact really is that they desire illiterates so that they can have unintelligent, unthinking labor. Powell further charged that such interests were seeking to increase immigration so that they might enjoy the swollen profits that otherwise would in some measure go to intelligent labor. He added that such a move would lower the standards of education and living.

The letter to which he referred said in part:

"We notice . . . the slogan in the first page of your leaflet which reads as follows: 'No illiteracy by 1927.' It is not quite clear what this slogan means. If it means that no illiterates are to be admitted into the United States as immigrants, it raises a serious question and the board would not approve such stoppage. The labor class is one that we do not raise in the United States; it must be imported. If we exclude all illiterates, we would be without labor."

This idea, according to Mr. Powell, means that a large section of business believes that America does not believe in the dignity of labor. It believes that America must go on-and-on, importing "the scum and riff-raff of Europe, until the majority of our people is composed of scum and riff-raff."

These things, he declared, are absolutely opposed by the American Legion. He argued that under present immigration laws of America, foreign nations make sure that the emigrants leaving their shores are of a low type of humanity, almost impossible of assimilation here.

Agree on Site for New War Memorial in Boston

Site for a World war memorial in Boston, to be built from surplus funds from the state bonus has been agreed on by veterans' societies. This has ended long discussion by members of the American Legion and other organizations extending over nearly two years.

A contention of certain veterans was that the funds be redistributed proportionately to the towns from whence the money came. About $2,000,000 remains in the fund, and it has been voted by representatives of the societies that the money shall be expended on a state shrine, in no way devoted to utilitarian purposes. The location settled on, according to the recent conference, is to be next to the state house, bounded by Mt. Vernon and Beacon streets from north to south and by the state house and Joy street from east to west.

Eight members of the Legion committee acted on the proposal, and voted in favor of the project.

Community Homes to Be Built in California

Construction of American Legion homes in eight different communities in Contra Costa county, California, will be started this spring. According to Morgan Keaton, department adjutant of the organization, the appropriation of $240,000 will be necessary for this work and approximately $13,000 will be allocated to each community.

Under the California law, recently upheld by the State Supreme court, a county is given authority to set aside such funds for erection of a community home for use of veterans, once all the money is paid into the county treasury. The act was passed in 1921. The erection of the homes is under direction of the county boards of supervisors and groups of veterans in each county.

Dig Through Snow to Visit Veteran Patients

Heavy snowstorms completely isolated the Sunnyrest sanitarium for disabled ex-service men near Racine, Wis. As members of the Legion's sick committee from the Racine post had previously announced that they would visit the sanitarium on a certain date, they set out through the snow to fill the engagement in order that the patients might have the little items of personal comfort prepared by the Legion. Two of the men, Eli Hannon and Lester Bowman, were forced to shovel snow more than half a mile in order to get their car through, but they arrived at the time set, and brought first news of the outside world to the veteran patients in several days.
