Thursday, May 17, 1900.

County conventions all over the State endorsed the present method of campaigning the State. We felt sure the people wanted the meetings.

The election to decide whether a three mill tax shall be levied to support a graded school in this town will be held on Thursday, May 31st. Every citizen who has the good of the town at heart should vote for the tax.

Senator Clark, of Montana, who was to have been turned out of the U. S. Senate, has forestalled the action of that body by resigning. His friend, the acting governor of Montana, has appointed him to fill the vacancy. It remains to be seen what the outcome of the matter will be.

The idea of a State appropriation to the Charleston Exposition is one that should be fought by the taxpayers. And it will be. The question will no doubt be agitated in the campaign this summer, and candidates required to state from the stumps whether, if elected, they will vote for such an appropriation.

The proper authorities should put a stop to the habit of plowing into the public roads. In many places parties plow into the public highways, leaving only a track wide enough for vehicles, and into this they too often run their plows, thereby making the roads very uncomfortable for travelers.

Bamberg must have a first-class free graded school. To this end, let everybody work and vote for the three-mill tax at the election soon to be held. The salvation of the town demands a good free school, and every citizen who wants Bamberg to keep pace with other towns of the State, should vote for the school.

The unprovoked killing of a young white man by an insolent negro in a street car in Augusta last Sunday afternoon is said to be the result of not having separate apartments for the races, although the law requires it. The South Carolina railroad trains only are required to carry separate cars, we believe, but the law should be extended to the street cars, busses, hacks, and all public conveyances of any kind whatsoever. The crowding of whites and blacks into a public vehicle too often subjects passengers to the irritation of contending with insolent negroes, and we hope the next legislature will enact a law requiring that the races be kept separate on public conveyances of any kind.

These are the days when the would-be statesman and politician attempts to "bilk" the country newspapers out of a lot of free advertising. This paper has had several candidates for State offices to inform us more than once already that they are candidates, etc. But no word as to their race has been mentioned in these columns, nor will be. We are not in the business of running a newspaper for the benefit of two-for-a-quarter politicians, and when they want advertising they will have to pay for it. "Communications of a personal nature are charged for as regular advertising," and those interested might as well remember that this is an invariable rule of this office.

TO PROTECT FISH.

The Orangeburg county grand jury has also taken cognizance of the flagrant violations of law and the consequent wholesale slaughtering of fish in the Edisto. In their final presentment last week we find the following:

"We beg leave to call the particular attention of this honorable court to a petition handed to the grand jury requesting that some action would be taken in regard to the wholesale destruction of fish by all kinds of vices, traps, nets and sheeting, and we have examined several witnesses and find that the situation is more grave, and would respectfully ask that this honorable court would instruct the proper parties to enforce the law in regard to this unlawful destruction of fish. We respectfully hand to the Solicitor the petition and the evidence handed to us."

Violators of the law can be punished and the traps broken up if our people will but use the proper effort. Let every man appoint himself a committee of one to see that the law is enforced.

Pensions and Schools.

All the counties have now officially reported the deficiencies in the school fund to the comptroller general and the comptroller will forthwith take all steps preliminary to the disbursement of the dispensary profits to the credit of the school fund. Before the warrants go, however, receipts have to be sent for county officials to sign and return.

The comptroller is also ready to begin the disbursement of the State pension fund. The same system as to receipts will prevail, and these will be sent out before the end of the week. County clerks of courts and pensioners will aid in the rapid payment of the pension money by attending to the signing of these receipts promptly.—The State.

The Georgia Primary.

ATLANTA, GA., May 15.—Democratic white primaries were held throughout Georgia today, for the choice of United States senator, congressmen from the 11 districts, governor and other State house officials, members of the general assembly and many judges and county officers. The legislature elected today insures return of United States Senator Bacon and returns now in insure the reelection of the entire Georgia delegation in the house of representatives. The only contest in today's primaries was in the Third district, but there, Lewis, the incumbent won easily from Judge Fort. The action of the primaries is equivalent to an election. Gov. Candler and the other State officers will remain in office two years longer and there will be no change in Georgia's delegation in congress.

Clark Howell, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, was chosen State senator from the Atlanta district.

Denmark Doings.

DENMARK, May 15.—Farmers of this section are busy putting crops in good condition, making ready for the harvesting of the fine grain crop. Cool nights have checked the growth of cotton somewhat and bud worms are playing havoc with corn. Taking all these disadvantages into consideration, the present crop cannot be made as cheap as usual, but the farmers are expecting good prices.

The man of merit is fast coming to the front. The people of this section have their hearts and minds fixed upon high ideals of government, and propose to cast their ballot for that candidate in whom they believe the honest demands of the people can be entrusted.

Mr. S. A. Goolsby has given out the contract for building a large store which he expects to rent. There has been a constant demand for such buildings. There is also a demand for cottages.

Mrs. J. D. Milhous and children were thrown from a buggy Monday evening and were badly bruised. The horse was frightened by someone trying to raise an umbrella.

Confederate soldiers of this community are discussing the approaching reunion at Louisville, Kentucky. Some will probably attend. The place of meeting this year is of special interest to most soldiers, since it is the blue grass region of our Southland, and during the war very little opportunity was offered to visit the city.

The game of ball between Bamberg and Denmark Monday evening was very poor. The sun must have been too hot for the boys.

DER UNTERZEICHNER.

Escape from the Press-Gang.

When war was declared against Great Britain in 1812 the American rallying cry was, "No impressment." The motive for this was to be gathered from an incident related in Dr. Marshall's biography of Commodore Macdonough, U. S. N. Macdonough was at the time captain of the brig Gulliver, from New York to Liverpool, and on the evening preceding her departure from Liverpool, was on shore. A stranger approached him and asked if he belonged to any vessel in the harbor. The instant that the captain named the Gulliver he was surrounded and seized by the press-gang, who took him on board an English frigate. The commanding officer of the frigate paid no attention to the American's objections to this indignity, but ordered him forward. He was shortly commanded to "turn in," and going below, he hung up a hammock and turned in without undressing.

About midnight the corporal of the guard took the hammock next to his. Waiting until the corporal was asleep, our captain rose, doffed his clothes, and put on those of the British officer. Then he climbed the ladder and walked out on the spar deck, to the ship's side. "Sentry," said he, "what boat is that at the boom?"

"The second cutter sir," was the reply. The natural tone of the sentry's answer gave Macdonough renewed confidence, and he boldly walked up to the officer of the deck, and touching his cap, said: "I would like to overhaul the second cutter, sir, I think there is rum aboard here."

"Very well, corporal," answered the officer, "search the boat and see what you can find."

The captain went quickly forward, sprang out through the port upon the swinging boom, and dropped into the cutter. As quick as thought he cut the rope that secured her, and the flood tide struck strong up the river, he quickly dropped astern.

"Help, help!" he shouted, "the boat's loose!" "Get out the oars!" responded the officer of the deck. "You can hold her against the tide."

Macdonough got the oars, and before his purpose was realized the cutter was some distance up the river, and he was pulling with all his might at the oars.

The sentries discharged their muskets at him but the captain made good his escape and regained his own ship. "I'll make the English pay for this," he said; and he kept his word.

Manures vary so greatly as to make it difficult to estimate their value. When a large proportion of coarse foods is fed, with but a limited amount of grain, the manure may not be worth the cost of spreading it, unless on a field very near the barnyard. The average value of one ton of ordinary stable manure, which includes the materials mixed with that voided by the animals, is $2, and the cost depends upon the hauling, as well as the loading and spreading. Such work requires a man and two horses, and unless the manure has been well decomposed the loading and spreading may be tedious work. Considering the time of hauling from the livery stables to the barnyard, it may make the cost of such manure more than its value. If the distance is great, as the manure must be loaded on the wagon, thrown out into the heap at the barnyard, and again loaded on the wagon and hauled to the field to be spread. At a value of but $2 per ton it will pay farmers to purchase fertilizers in preference to buying from livery stables, and especially when the manure consists mostly of straw.—Home and Farm.

The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church (Northern branch) has passed unanimously the provision giving equal representation to the laity, a question that has agitated the church for many years.

A serious strike is now on at St. Louis among the street railroad employees, and as a result every street car in St. Louis is laid up. This has resulted in great loss not only to the railroads, but to every branch of business, and the situation is more grave, because collisions are occurring between the strikers and those desiring to take their places.

It is now settled that McKinley and Bryan will be the Republican and Democratic nominees for President, but both parties are at sea as to the nominees for Vice President, and many "booms" are being started for men who have attained no prominence in national affairs.

A young man who was being examined preparatory to his joining the church was asked: "Under whose preaching were you converted?" "Under nobody's," he replied. "I was converted under my mother's preaching." Remember this, mothers.

The housefly has arrived, in fact a good many of him. He is behaving in his usual rude way; indeed he has no manners at all. He walks right into the breakfast room and takes a seat without being invited. Josh Billings used to remark: "I hate a fly, damn it!"

Lynching in Augusta.

Last Sunday afternoon on a crowded street car in Augusta a young negro named Wilson shot and killed a prominent young society man of that city named Alcott Whitney. The killing was an unprovoked murder, Whitney merely resisting the attempt of a companion of Wilson's to sit in a crowded seat with him, whereupon Wilson shot him. A mob lynched the negro Monday morning. The citizens of Augusta place much of the blame for the killing upon the street railway company, who did not obey the law requiring them to have separate accommodations for white and colored passengers.

A Card.

We guarantee every bottle of Chamberlain's colic, cholera and diarrhoea remedy and will refund the money to any one who is not satisfied after using it. It is the most successful medicine in the world for bowel complaints, both for children and adults.

Bottled Again.

Senator Tillman's bill removing the naval station from Port Royal to Charleston has passed the Senate, and it will doubtless go through the House, though Congressman Elliott is violently opposed to it. Should the bill finally become a law it will mean a great deal to Charleston and the practical destruction of Port Royal as a great Southern port. The naval station at Port Royal has never been popular with navy officers.

The blasting of the hopes of Port Royal and the people of Beaufort would also ruin the aspirations of their city. They sent a strong delegation to Washington to prevent the passage of the Tillman amendment, but without avail.

Rev. Sheldon's Profits.

TOPEKA, KAN., May 11.—The Rev. C. M. Sheldon received $5,000 from the profits of the Christian Daily Capital. He has given $1,000 to the Indian famine sufferers. The balance was distributed as follows:

City Detention Hospital, $1,000; for the contagious disease ward, Christ's Hospital, $1,000; Washburn College, $500; Topeka Y. M. C. A., $500; for a public drinking fountain, $300; Kindergarten Association, $100; Y. W. C. A., $150; W. C. T. U., $100; English Home, $100; State Temperance Union, $100; Anti-Cigarette League, $50.

The ancient belief that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Any one who has had an attack of sciatic or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that this indication is a demon within a man. It has never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement. The application relieves the pain, and the quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by all druggists and medicine dealers.

Sentenced to Death.

RICHMOND, VA., May 15.—At Martinsville today Charles Hairston, the negro indicted for attempting criminal assault upon Miss Gaudin, was tried, convicted and sentenced to be hanged on June 20. The evidence was conclusive.

The militia formed a cordon around the court house square and none were permitted to enter the court room except court officials, witnesses, reporters and lawyers in the case.

The crowd was orderly. The only incident of the day was the disarming of Miss Gaudin's father in the presence of the court. A noted semi-ecclasiastical character has passed away in Mr. Sagar, better known as "Old Sagar," who was sexton of Halifax Parish Church, in England. Sagar once wrongly grouped some wedding parties, with the result that an aged couple, who had no intention of getting married, were joined together in holy matrimony. When told of it, he remarked: "They haven't long to live; so it don't matter very much." On another occasion, "Old Sagar," with true Yorkshire shrewdness, locked up the bride until the bridegroom produced the marriage fees, the sum rendered at the conclusion of the ceremony being insufficient.

Archbishop Temple, of Canterbury is always made impatient of bores, especially of clerical bores. One of the clergy of his diocese who had pestered him a good deal recently wrote an inordinately long letter describing a picture which he had painted. The picture was of a church, and asking permission to do so. By the time his grace reached the end of the epistle his patience was quite exhausted, and he replied on a postcard: "Dear Bishop—Hang the picture!" The clergyman is still wondering how he ought to regard the reply.

Bishop J. S. Key wrote: Teethings (Teething Powders) were more satisfactory than anything we ever used.

The Profits Increase.

At a recent meeting of the State Board of directors they decided to reduce the invoice price of liquor to dispensers. This will not affect the retail prices, but will reduce the annual amount to the credit of the general school fund by $75,000. At the same time the profits to the towns and counties will be increased.

The Herald is at present turning out some as fine Job Printing as can be had anywhere and at regular city prices. We print anything and everything, in any color and every color.

The June Delinquent.

The Paris exposition still claims first attention in the magazines, and The Delinquent gives, in the June number, a lightly drawn but graceful and entertaining picture of the opening-day ceremonies, followed by a short description of the fair as it presents itself to the eye from various points of vantage. Eliot Gregory includes in his paper an interesting resume of French fairs. The large and important part which American women have taken in the fair reflects great credit on the nation and on the various individuals, clubs and committees who have worked so hard to give proper representation to the arts and crafts of woman-kind. Seventeen of the most noted members of the American commission and others who have been prominent in the movement are shown in connection with Walden Fawcett's article in the June Delinquent.

A Woman's Awful Peril.

"There is only one chance to save your life and that is through an operation," were the startling words heard by Mrs. I. B. Hunt, of Lime Ridge, Wis., from her doctor after he had vainly tried to cure her of a frightful case of stomach trouble and yellow jaundice. Gall stones had formed, and the condition grew worse. Then she began to use Electric Bitters which wholly cured her. It's a wonderful stomach, liver and kidney remedy. Cures dyspepsia, loss of appetite. Try it. Only 50c. Guaranteed. For sale by Thos. Black, J. B. Black and Bamberg Pharmacy.

The Ignorance of the Court.

Sam Jones is credited with the following story, which illustrates one of the many amuses seen in the court room. A negro was arraigned for some misdemeanor, and the presiding judge asked him if he had counsel to represent him. He asked the judge what that was. The judge replied, "Have you a lawyer to attend to your case?" "No," said the negro, "I don't need no lawyer." "What are you going to do? Are you going to defend yourself and be your own attorney?" "No," he said, "Marse Judge, I'm just going to throw myself on the ignorance of the court."

Billy Bowlegs No More.

A press dispatch from out west tells this remarkable love story: The wanted list of Leander in swimming the Hellespont to win the fair Helen was eclipsed by the marplot of Lois Hoan, who had his legs broken to take the bows out of them because his sweet-heart objected to curved lower extremities. Hoan is wealthy and has a handsome face but was afflicted with bow legs. He loved a fair young woman and she loved him, but he could not gain her consent to take him as her husband—that is, with the deformity unchanged. Hoan was determined to win his lady love at any cost, so he appealed to a Logansport surgeon who consented to straighten the defective limbs. The flesh was cut away from the bones and the latter were put into plaster casts and the bones have almost knitted together again.

Gov. McSweeney has received an apathetic letter from the wife of C. J. Allen, the former school commissioner of Dorchester county asking for the pardon of her husband, who she said she has several little ones and is in need. It is a pitiful case, but one in which there is nothing to justify the exercise of clemency to Allen.—The State.
