Our representatives should be very careful in the fixing of the salaries for the officers of this county. The salary should be proportionate to the amount of work done. Our Supervisor gives his whole time to the duties of his office and furnishes a horse and buggy at his own expense, yet he receives less than some officials who have no such expense. Let the salaries be fixed on an equitable basis, and no one will have any reason to complain. They should also bear in mind that our at London, Ky. Charles Lynch was a man whose services to his country as a brave pioneer and righteous judge, as a soldier and a statesman, are by no means deserving of oblivion, still less of obloquy. It seems indeed one of the iniquities of fate that his name should now be universally applied to proceedings that no one would condemn more heartily than he. The records of the court of Bedford county, in Virginia, and those of various Quaker meetings, the journals of the Virginia house of burgesses and of the first constitutional convention, taken together with family documents and traditions, show him to have been an upright and useful member of society and a wise and energetic leader at the most important crisis of American history.-Atlantic.

Volunteers In South America. There is a gentleman in Boston who spent a number of years among the various little South American republics and who gives an interesting account of the methods of one of these small states when it comes to a question of making war. The "navy" of the particular power referred to consists of a single old fashioned side wheel steamer, armed with one gun. In time of peace she is engaged in hauling freight up and down the river which runs close to the capital.

At the outbreak of one of the periodical wars not so very long ago the president of the republic took charge of the steamer and started up stream the remedy that cures a cold in one day on a recruiting expedition, leaving his senior general in charge of the military preparations at the capital. A couple of days later the steamer returned. natives, each firmly bound with a strong rope, were marched off and turned over to the general, with a note from the president which read: Dear General-I send you herewith seventy volunteers. Didn't Recognize It. A distinguished member of the United States judiciary has discovered that he still has something to learn in the direction of agriculture.

He bought a farm as a summer home for his family and finds especial delight in walking about the place, commenting on the condition of the crops and in many ways showing his inter-

"It seems to me you are very careless. Why haven't you been more particular in raking up this hay? Don't you see that you have left little dribblings all around?" For a minute the hired man stared,

A member of a certain Massachusetts parish, prominent for his thrift and personal consequence, was also notorious for his overbearing assumptions and pompous airs. Under the distress and fright of a dangerous illness he "put up notes" on several successive Sundays, and after his recovery, according to usage, he offered a note to be read by the minister expressive of his thanks. The minister was somewhat "large" in this part of his prayer, recalling the danger and the previous petitions of the "squire," and returning his grateful acknowledgments with the prayer that the experience might be blessed to the spiritual welfare of the restored man. #### Editor L. C. Ligon Dead.

AIKEN, February 2.-Mr. Langdon He Was a Brave and Useful Member Theves Ligon died at his home here last evening after an illness of nine weeks. He was the senior editor of the Journal and Review, with which he had been identified for about twenty-five years. Mr. Ligon was born in Abbeville and learned the printing trade under Mr. Hugh Wilson, in the Press and Banner ities between Duns Scotus and Judge office. He was 45 years of age. His loss to Aiken will be great, for he had given much of his time and energy in upbuild ing and beautifying the town. He leaves a widow, two sisters and three brothers. whose name has come to stand for ortwo of them being Presbyterian ministers n the upper part of the State.

> At the Shanghai police court recently curious object was handed up to the bench for inspection. It was contained in a square yellow box, and resembled nothing more than a piece of black wax. It weighed about two ounces, and the policeman in charge of the case explained to the court that it was a Chinese medicine compound of monkey's toe-nails boiled down and hardened by being under-ground for a number of years. It had been stolen from a native apothecary's shop in Nanking. Monkey's toe-nails, it appears, are a well known remedy among the Chinese for stomach troubles.
