What will the building committee now do with the residence on the lot they have party used rifles for shooting the fish on purchased? The trustees have elected a principal who will live elsewhere, so this does away with the idea of having the nice fish near the top of the water. Cool principal reside on the school grounds.

City council will at its next meeting consider the proposition of lighting the streets of the town by electricity. The service to be furnished is sixteen arc lights at $90 each per year, or $1,440 for the service. While this newspaper has always argued for better street lights, we do not see how taxes can be lowered and nearly $1,500 be paid each year for lighting. The present service costs, we understand, about $500 a year, and if taxes are to be lowered it seems to us that $1,000 a year is all council can afford to pay. However, we have no suggestions to offer. This newspaper has let up on discussing the waterworks and electric lights question for awhile.

The South and the East.

"It is beginning to look as if the oldtime alliance between the South and the East, with consequent victory, were coming around," says Mr. C. W. Garris, chairman of the Railroad Commission of South Carolina. It was an alliance between these sections that made possible the only Democratic victories since the Civil War. In 1884 and 1892 the South and the East got together, fought shoulder to shoulder and won brilliant campaigns. Four years later the experiment was made of forming an alliance with the West. To a certain extent it was a coalition against the East, which for some reasons was asserted to be antagonistic to the interests of the South and West. The .csult, as is very well known, was disastrous to the Democratic at Mr. J. R. Carter's place came off last

The West is much less in sympathy with us, both politically and commercially, than is the East. The interests of the South and the East are closely interwoven. Whatever hurts one must inevitable affect the other. It seems to be logically correct, therefore, that these two sections should stand together, rather than antagonize each other. Philadelphia and New York are of more importance to us of the South than every market and city in the West put together. Mr. Garris is right when he says he sees signs of a rapprochement between the South and the East on political lines.

The leading men of both sections are beginning to think more of the old battlewinning alliance than for a number of years. The Democracy wishes to win in the next campaign; the South must furnish the bulk of the votes for that party; the hopelessness of expecting anything of the West is becoming more apparent all the time, hence it is but natural that the South and the East should make an earnest effort to get together.—Savannah Morning News.

Ehrhardt, it is said, is noted for petitions, but think it time to go out of business now, since a petition was circulated last week petitioning the council to allow place of business to be kept open on Sunday. It is to be hoped that the council will not allow it. In fact, they can't unless they first repeal the ordinance against keeping places of business open on Sunday, and then as the members of the council are all Christian gentlemen they will surely not stand quietly by and forget their oath of office and vows to their respective churches.
