Would Eat With Negroes.

WASHINGTON, February 22.—In the presence of many senators and a large gathering of visitors, Senator Porter J. McCumber, of North Dakota, today read the farewell address of George Washington, receiving close attention of those present.

The house took no formal notice of Washington's birthday.

A lively debate on the negro question took place in the house, arising out of the effort of Heflin of Alabama, to amend the District of Columbia street railway trackage bill, by requiring separate cars for white and negroes. The amendment was defeated and the bill passed.

Campbell, of Kansas, defended the negroes of Washington and during the debate on the Heflin amendment was compelled to admit that he would eat, worship or vote with the negro but would not allow his daughter to marry one. He based his argument on the difference between social and political equality.

News from Olar.

OLAR, Feb. 25.—The program of the literary society for the last meeting was as follows:

Compositions by Misses Maida Still, Agnes Kearse and Master Peirson Morris.

Readings by Messrs. Henry Kearse and Purdy Ayer.

Current Events by Miss Annah McCormack.

Recitations by Elvyn Kearse and Lee Morris.

Debate: Resolved, that Washington deserved more credit for defending America than Columbus for discovering it. Affirmative: Misses Hattie Ray and Belle Cooke. Negative: Misses Effie Barker and Ettie Kearse. The decision of the judges was in favor of the negative.

Miss Kittie Hooton visited her mother in Denmark Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Pauline Clayton is spending some time with her sister, Mrs. Wilbur Sandifer.

Quite a crowd went to Columbia to see the "wrestler's match."

Messrs. Sadler, Nunnally, Baker, and Kearse were among our visitors Sunday.

Mr. A. H. Neely left Sunday to take a position in Columbia.

Mr. Victor Kearse, of Kingstree, was in our town Sunday.

Mrs. Rosa Hooton is visiting Mrs. P. H. Starr of this place.

Mrs. Morris and Harrison are visiting friends in Columbia.

Mr. Willie Barker, of Kline, was in town Saturday.

Miss Mattie Mims, one of our assistant teachers, who has been at her home in Edgfield on account of lagrippe, has resumed her work again.

Wears Live Snake.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Society was treated to a new thrill yesterday at the entertainment at the Plaza Hotel, in aid of charity. A pantomime and tableaux vivants were given and the thrill came when Mrs. James B. Bustis posed, representing the famous picture "Salambo." Garbed in a gorgeous Eastern costume, Mrs. Bustis' appearance was the signal for loud applause, which turned to a shudder as the audience realized that around her neck was festooned an enormous six-foot boa constrictor.

At the evening performance the snake failed to hold its pose and because of the reptile's nervousness an encore was impossible.

The entertainment which was for the benefit of church missions in the Blue Ridge Valley of Virginia, was very successful, fully $10,000 being realized. The entertainment was under the direction of Mrs. Waldorf Astor and Mrs. Benjamin Guinness.

There was no rate legislation passed by the general assembly.

Ten stars are shining this week. Your attention will be called to this report no doubt. Ask to see it next week. A little praise sometime does good. Try it. It is a poor rule that won't work both ways. If your child displeases you, you talk; if he please you, tell him so.

The sixth grade has made great improvement in reading. Read more, and all your lessons will be easier.

The seventh grade studied about China in their geography class last month. They learned many quaint and curious things about the Chinese. This month they are to study about Australia. The teacher of this department thinks it a good plan to have the work for the whole year outlined by months, then the pupil knows what to learn, when to learn it, and where to find it, as well as what's coming next.

Mr. G. B. Clayton brought a fine load of wood to the school house last week.

Arrested in Chester.

CHESTER, Feb. 24.—The police authorities here arrested on Saturday night a white man giving the name of J. A. Stamper, charged with housebreaking and larceny. It seems that the accused broke into the station of the Carolina & North-western railway at Lincolnton, N. C., and took therefrom quite a bunch of railroad tickets, together with a conductor's sunch. The arrest was made by instructions from Conductor H. M. Ross, to whom one of these tickets was offered in payment of fare. Stamper was held in jail here until this morning, when he was taken to Lincolnton by Chief of the Chester Police W. S. Taylor.

Constable Farmer Killed.

Wade Hampton Sellers, a noted blind tiger, known as the "boozie king" of Columbia, shot and killed Constable Farmer in Columbia on Saturday morning. Constables Farmer and Ogg went with a warrant to search Sellers' premises for contraband liquor. He forbade them to enter. Farmer forced the door open, and as he did so Sellers shot him through the stomach with a Winchester rifle. Sellers has been committed to jail on the charge of murder.

Last Friday, by a vote of 57 to 39, the house of representatives rescinded its former action in reference to the use of the hall for the annual State ball, so the hall will be held in the State house as usual.

March 3, 1908.

On Tuesday evening, March 3, the graded school will give an entertainment at town hall for benefit of the piano fund. Every body is requested to come and enjoy the occasion. Oysters, ambrosia, fancy candies will be offered for sale. Doors opened for children at 5 p. m. Oysters served from 5 to 9 o'clock.

If you suffer with indigestion, constipation, feel mean and cross, no strength or appetite, your system is unhealthy. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea makes the system strong and healthy. 35c, Tea or tablets. H. F. Hoover.

ROAD NOTICE.

All road overseers are hereby warned to work their roads at once and put same in good condition. Also the public are warned not to plough in the right of way of the public highway, as it is positively against the law.

J. B. KEARSE, County Supervisor.

Woe Lambs From the Range—Late, but Husky Little Feeders.

"What about those little lambs; they look cheap to me?" remarked the Michigan feeder to his commission man. "Nobody wants them." was the reply. "and unless you know how to handle them I would advise you to buy something else. But they are money makers for the man who can take care of them. All you have to do is to avoid overfeeding and give them proper care. Too many make the mistake in putting light western lambs on feed of crowding them under the impression that they have been starved, whereas they come from a range where lambs are dropped late and have not had time to grow."

It is suggestive of the short feeding furore among both cattle and sheep finishers that demand centers on stock carrying flesh that can be sent back to market within two or three months at the most. The stocker proposition appeals to few, and opportunists for quick action are feverishly sought. While fifty-five to sixty pound feeding lambs have been in request around 7 cents, "peewee" stuff has found few bidders at 5½ to 6 cents. At this season North Dakota furnishes a lot of these little lambs, and as killers cannot use them they have but one outlet. This year the spread between them and heavy lambs is unusually wide, apparently affording the feeder a profitable opportunity to handle the light kind. "Sixty cent corn is the factor," said a trader. "Everybody is afraid of stock that has to be fed any considerable time."

Little husky western feeding lambs, well handled through the winter, sheared in the spring and sent to market fat at a time when big feed lots have been depleted and springers have not yet made their appearance, will make money this winter if the crop on feed is as short as generally believed, concludes the Breeder's Gazette, Chicago.

Special For Swine Men.

The idea of specialization is growing, creeping up over the horizon like a storm cloud from the west, at first small, insignificant patch, but growing and gathering force as it comes on. The swine man seems to be the last one caught in the swirl.

Corn, King Corn, is pre-eminently the finishing food for swine and is not a good food for the breeding herd only in limited amount. The corn belt is surrounded by unparalleled breeding ground for swine. Here is a great opportunity for specialists. Let the man with his clovers and vetches and peas and rye breed and grow pigs to weaning time or a little longer and then send them to the great corn belt for finishing.

The great capacious maw of the middle states can swallow up an unlimited amount of shoats weighing from fifty to a hundred pounds. The cattle feeders and corn growers are always hungry for them.

There are some very successful men who grow their pigs till they bring $5 per head; then they go to the big cattle feeders. It is surprising how small a pig these feeders will take at $5 if they can get a bunch together, says a writer in National Swine Magazine.

Some Cheap Cows.

The Live Stock World says in reporting a recent Iowa Shorthorn sale: "Lone Birch, Daisy, a large roan cow, with a first class heifer calf at foot, at $85, was about the cheapest thing sold. She is said to give a ten quart pailful of milk night and morning." Wonder why Daisy went so cheap? Simply because she was not "pure Scotch." Several others not Scotch sold for even less.

The day will come when these good, big, heavy milking Shorthorn cows will be wanted again, and we advise any young farmer to pick them up when they go at such prices. They will make money for him right from the start and keep on making it. Never mind about the Scotch part of it. Buy good cattle at such figures every time.—National Stockman.

THE FARMER'S SHEEP.

Why Fall Lambs Mean Satisfaction to a Sheep Grower.

Brighton is the great live stock market of the New England states. A Country Gentleman correspondent says: "The next few years will see more native lambs in Brighton than ever before in its history. Do not let the opportunity escape you. If you do not grasp it others will." In the same journal W. G. Appleby of the Fillmore farms, Vermont, gives the following as in brief a few of the reasons why he considers Dorsets the most profitable breed of sheep a farmer can keep:

The ewes drop their lambs in the fall, when they are in better condition than they would be in the spring unless they have been highly fed during the winter, and when the lambs are weaned they can be kept very cheaply until spring. They should be fed some grain again, however, for a little while before mating with the ram.

Dorset lambs that are born in the fall and early winter bring double the price that other lambs four to five months old born in the spring would do.

Fall lambs that are kept for breeders are sheared in the spring, when they will shear between four and five pounds of wool. This goes a long way to pay for their winter's keep.

Early lambs are less liable to infection by internal parasites than lambs born in the spring. In fact, by proper management Dorset lambs can be kept practically free from stomach worms, perhaps the greatest drawback to successful sheep breeding.

GIVE ME THE ROAD

For I am on my way to get a bale of that fine Timothy Hay that has just arrived at Smoak's Stables and which is being sold cheaper than you can buy it elsewhere for, and I am in a hurry, for it is going fast. This is as nice a lot of hay as was ever brought to this market. Remember we have the best equipped livery in this section of the State and the prices are reasonable. Teams can be had at any hour, day or night
