JNO. R. BELLINGER DEAD.

Citizen Passes Away.

Jno. R. Bellinger, Esq., died at his residence in this city last Thursday afternoon, after a long and brave struggle against an incurable disease. Mr. Bellinger had been in bad health for months, and in the spring he made a trip to New York for treatment. Later he went to Mississippi to a health resort, but he did not improve and was forced to come home several weeks ago. Since that time he had shown some signs of improvement. True he would have months. The burial took place at bad attacks but would improve. However, he had a severe attack Wednesday night and grew worse until the end came about four o'clock Thursday afternoon.

The burial took place at Southcemetery Friday afternoon, end the services being conducted by Rev. S. Carey Beckwith, rector of Grace Episcopal church, Charleston. The funeral was largely attended by the friends and relatives of the family, several from a distance being present. The floral offerings were numerous and handsome, an especially beautiful piece being that from Ornan Lodge A. F. M., of which Mr. Bellinger was a member. The pall bearers were:

ORANGEBURG PASTOR WHIPPED

An Able Lawyer and Prominent The Rev. E. M. Lightfoot Victim of Attack by Frank Demars.

Orangeburg, August 28.-A sen sational affair occurred this afternoon on the North-bound Atlantic Coast Line train, about a mile outside the city limits, when Frank Demars, a former policeman of this city, attacked the Rev. E. M. Lightfoot and struck him twice with a part of a buggy whip, while Mr. Lightfoot, who is pastor of the Baptist church here, was on his way to New York.

The difficulty was a result of a letter written by Mr. Lightfoot to another preacher of this county, in which he stated that Mr. Demars was one of the parties who placed a coffin on the minister's porch more than a year ago, which affair caused much indignation among the citizens of this place. The grand jury made an investigation, but no indictment was returned. Demars says that an explanation made by him to Mr. Lightfoot had been accepted by the latter, who stated that he no longer suspected Demars as being connected with the coffin affair. Mr. Demars' statement of this afternoon's trouble is that, feeling that he had been slandered and his wife and children reflected on, he was determined to demand an explanation, and as Mr. Lightfoot was to be absent from the city for several weeks he decided to have the matter settled without delay. He boarded the train this afternoon and when beyond the city limits asked the minister if he wrote the letter, and produced a copy of the same. Mr. Lightfoot replied that he didn't care to discuss it, whereupon Demars drew a whip and struck the minister twice, after which he desisted on account of the presence of ladies in the coach. Mr. Lightfoot continued on his journey and Mr. Demars returned here tonight. Mr. Lightfoot's side of the affair will probably not be known until he returns, when there will doubtless be further developments.

Getting Ahead

The problem of getting ahead in this life is a matter of shaving and saving. You must shave your expenditures until they are less than your income, then save the difference by putting it into the bank. Or in other words, put a part of your income into the bank regularly and live on the remainder. You do not have to sacrifice the comforts of living in order to save a little out of your income.
