It is extremely important that some action in the matter be taken immediately. There are many orchards in the state infested with San Jose scale that have been pruned and the badly infested material left lying in the orchard. This mistake should be corrected, because such infested material is menace to the rest of the orchard and to the whole community in which it is found, being a constant source of infection. Then, there are those trees that are heavily infested with the Shot-Hole Borer, recognized by the small round holes in the bark, resembling those made by number 8 shot and usually a general unhealthy condition of the tree. This insect passes the winter as a small white grub in its burrow in the dead tree, emerging in spring as a small brownish beetle. Trees are often completely girdled by this insect, causing them to die in the course of a few weeks. Besides the two just mentioned, there are numerous other insects that inhabit dead wood and rubbish lying around the orchard. No one will attempt to deny the fact that by destroying
