

GLENN SPRINGS HOTEL

More Popular than Ever

From the very beginning crowds have been arriving. This season will register one thousand more visitors to the hotel than during any previous year.

Nestled among the foot hills of the Blue Ridge, nights cool, scenery picturesque and everything romantic. The hotel with its 150 rooms is as neat and inviting as a French sanitarium. The dining room service is not surpassed at any resort in the South. An experienced waiter at each table. If you don't see what you want, ask for it; we have everything in abundance. Glenn Springs water is famous the world over. Have you indigestion, dyspepsia, bladder or kidney troubles, or broken down, languid? Then come to Glenn Springs hotel, and drink from the invigorating, health restoring spout of Glenn Springs. Thousands have been cured by drinking this water. All of the modern baths known to advanced science are administered here. Dr. J. D. Moss, a noted Osteopath, of Charleston, S. C., is operating two modern bath parlors, one for males, while Miss Moss will superintend the ladies department. He gives Massage, Osteopathy, Hydrophathy—same as the Carlsbad, Vichy, Sulphur, Sea Salt and Violet, in modified form. These baths in connection with Glenn Springs water will make the lame walk, the despondent happy and cheerful. Come on, don't hesitate, Glenn Springs is the best place on earth.

The South Carolina Dental Association, with its cultured members and the Cotton Manufacturers, of this State, held their annual sessions at Glenn Springs hotel this season and will be here next year; also the South Carolina Press Association will meet at Glenn Springs hotel in 1910. This is the Mecca of the picturesque Piedmont, and the Queen of all Southern summer resorts—the "fountain of youth," the asylum for the seekers of pleasure, recreation or restoration of health. The wonderful cures which have resulted from the drinking of Glenn Springs water are absolutely marvelous and almost miraculous.

Come to Glenn Springs hotel and mingle with our happy exhilarating company. Get a new lease, and receive loftier ideals of life. The proprietor has been in the hotel business all his life, and all praise the hotel service. Comstock's Orchestra, which furnishes music for the grand opera in Greenville, S. C., is here, one of the best in the South. Dancing, billiards, pool, bowling, box ball, horse-back riding, automobiles—any kind of recreation.

Gov. Jennings and family, of Florida, Gov. Sheppard and Attorney General Bellinger, of South Carolina, and many other prominent people of the United States are here now.

The Hon. J. Preston Gibson, of Bennettsville, S. C., is with us this season, and he will be delighted to see his friends from Bamberg and lower Carolina, and he will extend every courtesy and service. Your friends will be here, more than one hundred and fifty of them are already here. Come and rest and roll on the grassy lawns; live life over and plan for the future while strolling "Lovers' Lane."

"HOLINESS" PREACHER SUICIDE

"Unknown Tonguer" Shoots Woman, Then Kills Self.

Abbeville, July 11.—The Rev. Lawrence Patterson, the "Unknown Tongue" preacher, who rendered himself famous recently by shooting at Grover Cleveland Fritz, on Cotton Mill Hill, and afterwards defending himself in the circuit court and securing an acquittal, broke into the quiet of the cotton mill village again to-day, by shooting a lady friend of his and then committing suicide. It seems that for some time, Patterson had been paying attention to a widow by the name of Mrs. Mag. Pender. To-day he called on her and some dispute arose between them. Patterson drew his pistol and fired at the woman as she fled, inflicting two flesh wounds, one in the thigh and the other in the calf of the leg, but neither being serious. He then placed the point of the revolver in his right ear and fired, the bullet passing out of the top of the head. He died immediately. Upon removing the body, he was found to be armed not only with the pistol, but with a large dirk and other weapons. Patterson had been a Holiness preacher here for some time. Lately he had turned painter and had been painting houses about town. It is believed that his mind was not well balanced. He was seen wandering about the Seaboard depot about 3 o'clock this morning, and his actions recently led people who have come in contact with him to doubt his sanity.

Personal Mention.

—Mr. G. Moye Dickinson spent yesterday in Columbia.

—Miss Alice Sease spent Tuesday in Barwell with friends.

—Miss Essie Dukes, who has been visiting her friend, Miss Roberta Adams, near town, returned to her home at Rowesville Tuesday morning.

—Mrs. I. B. Felder left last week for a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. W. Black, at Commerce, Ga. Her sister and brother had been visiting here, and she returned home with them.

—Mr. A. K. Lorenz, editor of the Aiken Journal and Review, spent a short while in Bamberg Tuesday afternoon. He had been out with the path-finding automobiles of the Columbia Record, and had left the party at Blackville and came down to Bamberg between trains to see what sort of a town it was that the editor of this newspaper was always bragging on. And we were powerful glad to see him, and only regretted that his stay was so short. But he will come back soon we feel sure, and stay longer next time.

—Mr. N. M. Salley, now superintendent of the Greenwood city schools, spent Tuesday in the city, shaking hands with his many friends. Mr. Salley taught in the Carlisle Fitting School here for several years, and later was superintendent of our graded school, and it was a real pleasure for his friends to have him here again if only for a short while. Mr. Salley called at The Herald office, and told us we had the nearest and best printing office in the State, as well as the cleanest, and he stated that he had been in a number of offices throughout South Carolina.

CALIFORNIAN ROBIN HOOD.

Believes in the Doctrine of Common Ownership of Property.

In the recent arrest by rangers of the Santa Barbara forest of George Griffith, the settlers have been relieved of a second Robin Hood, says the San Francisco Chronicle. Griffith was apprehended for numerous thefts committed by him from camps located in the interior of the mountains. The story of his experiences prior to his arrest has in it many of the elements of the dramatic, and the authorities before whom he was brought consider him a sort of enigma. Griffith appeared in Santa Barbara a short time ago, having walked all the way from Portland. According to his statements, he sought work in Santa Barbara, but unsuccessfully, and finally took to the mountains. He is a Socialist and believes in the doctrine of common ownership of property, and upon approaching the uninhabited San Marcos Club house felt no hesitancy in breaking in and helping himself to a number of rifles and an abundant supply of ammunition. Weighted down by his load of stolen property he tramped scores of miles into the interior fastnesses of the mountains, living principally upon such game as could be brought down with one of his numerous stolen guns. During the course of his tramp he came upon the cabin of Forest Ranger Dinsmore and appropriated to his own use such articles as struck his fancy before continuing his wild tramp onward. Upon discovering his loss, Ranger Dinsmore and Ranger Libeu started in pursuit, and knowing that their quarry was heavily armed and likely to resist arrest, they disguised themselves as vaqueros and came upon him from the rear, and before he was aware of their presence they had him covered. Although of slight build and weighing but 100 pounds, Griffith, during the course of his tramp over the rough mountains, carried a pack weighing 150 pounds and endured all sorts of hardships, which resulted in practically denuding him of clothing and covering his body with numerous scars where he had come in contact with the stiff brush and sharp stones. When found he was almost starved and his wild flight had left him in a precarious condition. In spite of the seriousness of his position, Griffith seemed to take the matter slightly and worried not at all for his future. He refused to divulge any information regarding his history, and his strange actions have made his arrest one of more than ordinary interest.

Georgia Proposes Dog Tax.

Atlanta, Ga., July 13.—Any Georgian who wants to keep a dog after September 1 will have to pay the State $2.50 for the privilege, if a bill introduced in the house to-day passes. Since Georgia is financially embarrassed, any plan for increasing the revenues is hailed with delight. The bill provides that township constables shall not only kill all unlicensed pups but bury them "under at least two feet of earth."

Dogs under three months of age are exempt. The author says frankly that the State must have the money now that the liquor revenue is no more and that dogs are a luxury anyhow.

Negro Shoots Negro.

Florence, July 13.—Sheriff Burch was called out on Saturday night to the plantation of Mr. M. S. Haynesworth, near town, to arrest Archie Jackson for the shooting of another negro by the name of Wright. It seems that a woman was the cause of the shooting. For some time they had been rivals for the affections of the woman in question and when they met on Saturday evening Jackson unloaded a shotgun in Wright's leg. Jackson claims that Wright was trying to shoot him when he took the gun from him and did the shooting himself. Wright is very seriously wounded, and it is doubtful if he will live, inflammation of the wound having set in. Jackson is now in jail.

DR MELL RESIGNS.

Wishes to Retire from Presidency of Clemson College.

Anderson, July 9.—At 6:30 this afternoon at Clemson Dr. Mell submitted his resignation as president. To-night the board of trustees is considering it and will announce its decision to-morrow morning.

It is understood that a large majority of the trustees are not in favor of accepting it and it is believed that it will not be accepted and that the board will adopt the recommendations made by Dr. Mell in a statement which he submitted with his resignation.

Clemson College, July 9.—The reports in to-day's papers that Dr. P. H. Mell had resigned the presidency of Clemson College at the meeting of the board of trustees last night had no foundation in fact. The feeling has got abroad that Dr. Mell might resign at this meeting of the board, but early this morning and again late this evening Dr. Mell reiterated that he had not resigned and no statement that his resignation would or would not be presented before the adjournment of the board could be had here up to a late hour. The board is in executive session late to-night and there will be another session to-morrow morning. Until the final adjournment is reached there is little or no chance to get any authoritative report of the proceedings.

Whether or not the resignation will be presented to-night or to-morrow nobody knows. The members of the board and Dr. Mell will not talk for publication. The session last night and the session to-day have been taken up in a careful consideration of the president's annual report and recommendations concerning the various phases of college work and progress, so that up to this time there has been no chance for the presentation of President Mell's resignation if he intends to resign. Only he knows that, so far as can be learned, and he has been interviewed several times during the day with the above results.

Prof. William Riggs, when shown the statement in the Charlotte dispatch that he was spoken of as Dr. Mell's probable successor if Dr. Mell should resign, made the following statement:

"I am not now and never have been an applicant for the presidency of Clemson College. I would not be willing to forsake my profession for the calling of a college president here or elsewhere."

Prof. Riggs is the director of the engineering department of the college.

Congressmen Sick.

Washington, July 12.—Congressmen Johnson and Ellerbe are ill here and great alarm is being manifested by some of their friends. Mr. Johnson was taken ill Friday and was compelled to leave the capitol, since which time, it is said, he has shown no change for the better.

Mr. Ellerbe has suffered an attack of pneumonia as a result of an operation on his leg which was fractured about two months ago. While no definite statement can be secured here to-night concerning the condition of either of the congressmen, they are believed to be quite ill.

"Plug"

There are plenty of "plugs" in the world. "Plug" people, "plug" horses and mules, but we don't deal in "plugs" of either description. The horse or mule you buy from us has the Jones Bros. reputation behind him. That alone eliminates all "plug" possibilities. Our line of etc, are of the kind that must give you satisfaction and value for your dollar.

Our reputation is behind them, too.
