

NEGRO FRIGHTENED OFF.

Attempted to Break Into House in Absence of Men of Family.

St. Matthews, Nov. 10.—Frank Phillips, a negro, was to-day placed under arrest, charged with attempting to break into the home of James Ott, a citizen of the western portion of the county, on last Wednesday night. Mr. Ott and his young son were away at the fair and the young daughters of Mr. Ott were at home alone. Late in the night the young ladies were awakened by an assault upon the front door. They screamed for help, but before fleeing the villain made a final effort at the back door. Help came in response to their cries.

A Chat With the Boys.

This concludes our chats. I hope you will try to live up to what I have been telling you. If you do, you will make men of whom our country will be proud of. I am afraid parents and teachers do not pay enough attention to the young folks in this respect. Patriotism should be taught early. Every child should memorize the words of our national hymn, America, and should be able to sing it if called upon. This inspires one to love his country and will make him a better citizen. Respect and love for the flag should also be taught.

Hats off! Along the street there comes A flare of bugles and ruffle of drums, A flash of color beneath the sky, Hats off! The flag is passing by!"

A French boy was coming to make his home in America. As his ship neared New York, he saw the Statue of Liberty, a gift of France to the United States, and a perpetual reminder of her good feeling toward us. He went upon the deck and sang America with great zest and enthusiasm. After singing it through he sang the French national air, The Marseillaise, with less enthusiasm. He was welcoming the new country and bidding farewell to the old. I am sure he has made a good citizen.

Here is a fact I want you to think about: "We get out of life just what we put in it." Now, if you put little care and thought in your training, you need not expect great results by and by. When you are inclined to shirk, remember you are not only cheating the world but yourself worst of all. Dr. Arnold, whose long experience with young men at Rugby gave weight to his opinion, declared that the difference between one boy and another consists not so much in talent as in energy. Another defines genius as an immense capacity for work. After listening to one of Edmund Burke's most eloquent speeches, his brother who thought more of fun than study, said, "I wonder how Ned managed to get all the brain in the family; but I remember now, when we were at play he was always at work." But all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. The idea then is to have certain hours for study or work and also a time for recreation.

If the time of training seems long, console yourself with the thought that the work done later on will be of a better grade. King Edward, of England, who died last year was sixty years preparing for his real life-work, but when the end came, he could say, "I have done my duty." That was worth more to him than all earthly wealth and honors. "Duty" is a small word, but how much it means! It makes us do things that seem well-nigh impossible.

Christ was thirty years preparing to preach. So you see it takes time to prepare for one's life-work. It is not wise to rush into any work before you are prepared for it. "Learn to labor and to wait."

While it is all important that you should learn to read and write, there are some things even more important. First, learn to be true; second, be pure in thought, language, and life; third, be unselfish. You see there are a good many things to learn, if you wish to be a well rounded man by and by.

I have been a close observer of mankind and I find there are very few people who can control themselves, yet we are told "a person who ruleth himself is greater than he that taketh a city."

A certain philosopher claims that the hardest lesson a child has to learn is to obey; I have not found it so. The hardest lesson I have tried is the mastery of self. I must admit, I haven't mastered it fully yet, but I do not give up easily. The time to get dominion over self is when you are young. It will then become a habit, and you will find it no trouble. I started too late, having had to learn by experience. Begin at once and by some effort you can at last be complete masters of self. You control your pony with bit and bridle. Reason must help you to control your emotions and passions. When some one says anything unpleasant to you, the angry flush shows on your cheeks. You should take yourself firmly in

WEARY OF CRITICISM.

Members of Greenville's Police Commission Hand in Resignations.

Greenville, Nov. 11.—A meeting of city council to-night three members of the police commission, Dr. W. C. Black, chairman, T. O. Lawton, Jr., and T. F. Jamison, handed in their resignations and asked that they be accepted immediately.

It is believed that this action resulted from considerable criticism made upon the police commission lately and from some friction which has been manifested between this body and the city council in the past few weeks in regard to alleged negligence to prosecute criminals in the city.

A closed conference between the two bodies was held several days ago, at which appears to have been manifested little friendly feeling between the two, and a meeting of the Law and Order league of this city was held yesterday, at which it is believed some criticism of the police commissioners was made by local ministers.

In handing in his resignation, Dr. Black stated that he was tired of the criticism which had been heaped upon the commission from both the lawless and the supposed upholders of the law.

The resignations were accepted and a meeting will be held shortly to supply the vacancies.

Rogers Dies from Injuries.

Spartanburg, Nov. 8.—Clyde Rogers, the deaf and dumb boy who was run over by a freight train between the Spartanburg junction and Fairforest after running away from school at Cedar Springs, died at the Springs hospital this morning at 11:30 o'clock after suffering for over a week. The boy's skull was fractured and he was otherwise injured.

The body will be sent to his home, near Florence, where it will be buried.

Dies from Burns.

Brunson, Nov. 10.—Mrs. Lillian Ginn, wife of Angus Ginn, of Brunson, was burned to death this afternoon about 3 o'clock, her clothing becoming ignited from a burning match on the hearth. She was burned so badly that death resulted in a few hours. A. T. Ginn, her husband, is one of Brunson's most prominent business men.

Mrs. Ginn was alone in the house at the time. She ran screaming to the front door and her sister came to her assistance and summoned relief.

Hand and reason with yourself of the folly of allowing the passions to have full sway over the body. It checks and disturbs the action of the vital organs, so is unhealthy a glance in the mirror will show you an unpleasant countenance. Not only is it unhealthy, but makes the face ugly. If you want to live a long time, you must learn to curb the emotions.

God gave man dominion over all the animals, but that does not mean that you are to mistreat them. Some times I see boys who are rough and cruel to the faithful animal that has made his daily bread. Boys, it cuts me like a knife when I see you do that. I must think it is from thoughtlessness rather than cruelty. You sustain the same relation to God that your horse does to you; I don't think you would like to be treated so roughly. The Golden Rule is as applicable to the lower animals as to man. Be kind to everything and you will be happy. For us all "there sleeps a solemn day" ahead. Live right, boys, then you will not fear it. "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh, when thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them."

A young man came to an aged professor and told him, with a smiling face, his parents had given him permission to study law, which was the chief desire of his life. He was in raptures and explained that he would spare no labor or expense in perfecting his education. The old man, after listening with great patience and kindness, gently said, "Well, and when you finish your studies what do you mean to do then?" "Then I shall take my degree," answered the young man. "And then?" asked the venerable friend. "And then," continued the youth, "I shall have a number of difficult cases and shall attract notice, and win a great reputation." "And then?" repeated the holy man. "Why then I shall doubtless be promoted to some high office in the State." "And then?" "And then," pursued the young lawyer, "I shall live in wealth and honor and look forward to a happy old age." "And then?" "And then," said the youth, and then—and then—I shall die." Here the venerable listener lifted up his voice and again asked with solemnity and emphasis, "And then?" The aspiring student made no answer, but cast down his head and in silence and thoughtfulness retired. P. B. P.

Did His Wit Save Him?

Senator Clay, at a dinner in Marietta, Ga., praised the ready wit of a Georgia lawyer.

"Even in his youth, when he was only an instructor in Hiwassee college—my alma mater—even then," said Senator Clay, "he had ready wit."

"They say his wife hinted to him one day just before Easter: 'It is the spring, the beautiful spring, and see—even the trees, dear, have all got new clothes.'"

"So they have," he answered readily. "Beautiful new clothes, and made 'em all themselves, too, besides supplying the material."—Buffalo Express.

Roanoke, Va., Nov. 10.—Lester R. Partlow, a telegraph operator of Cheraw, S. C., has entered suit here for $10,000 against Solomon Rosenberg and others of Roanoke, in which he claims $10,000 damages for false arrest and prosecution on the charge of the larceny of two suits of clothes and the alleged statement by Rosenberg that he would prove Partlow stole the clothes.

Partlow lived in Roanoke before going to Cheraw. When the warrant was sworn out for him he returned here, stood trial and was acquitted by a jury. The trial of the damage suit was set to-day for November 17.
