BABIES "IN STYLE" AGAIN.

Nearly 135,000 Were Born in New York Last Year.

Babies are in fashion again, and right in the heart of New York swelldom, too, says the Albany Times-Union. Nearly 135,000 were born in the metropolis last year, showing a gain of 24.12 per thousand over 1898, and the aristocrats had their full share of 'em.

Parentetically, it is explained that the much-discussed statistics about no babies on Fifth avenue were unjust to that thoroughfare, anyhow, because they were based on a district inhabited mostly by bachelors, old maids, widows, widowers and elderly folks whose children were grown up. What sense was there in trying to count babies in such a neighborhood?

Well, we're glad. We are right on the job when it comes to looking for signs of healthy, social progress. There's enough of the other kind of signs sticking up under our noses, without looking for them.

A 30-OUNCE BABY.

Perfectly Formed and so Tiny That Finger Ring Slips on Arm.

Drs. Richard and Benson report a new arrival in Port Deposit by the stork route, says a Port Deposit, Md., special. The new baby girl came into the outskirts of the town last Sunday night.

She weighs just 30 ounces, is just under the one foot mark in length, has the cutest little head—not so large as a baseball, but perfectly formed—and with the tiniest eyes. Dr. Benson, as an experiment, took a ring from his little finger and slipped it up the baby's arm.

She is so very small that the doctors say she would slip into their automobile glove. She has no clothes small enough, so the doctors wrapped her in a little wad of cotton and are feeding her with a medicine dropper. The doctors hope to save her. The baby has an appetite.

Posse Pursues Negro.

Winnsboro, June 24.—A large posse of citizens to-night was chasing a negro, Ed Alexander, who is charged with attempted assault on a white woman in the Tion section of this county.

The negro, it is charged, came upon his intended victim when she was alone in the house. When he attacked her she screamed, and a neighbor came to her aid. The negro then fled, with the neighbor in pursuit. The news of the attempt spread, and soon a large crowd of farmers was in full pursuit, on horseback and in buggies, following the negro's trail. They were said to be close behind him to-night.

The negro is believed to have gone in the direction of Ridgeway, his former home.

The sheriff with a deputy went at once to the scene of the crime.

It is thought that the negro may be lynched if he is caught before morning.
