Contracts for advertising not subject to cancellation after first insertion.

Communications—We are always glad to publish news letters or those pertaining to matters of public interest. We require the name and address of the writer in every case. No article which is defamatory or offensively personal can find place in our columns at any price, and we are not responsible for the opinions expressed in any communication.

Thursday, July 3, 1913

South Carolina is certainly rich in her crop of June brides. Never were they more numerous and beautiful.

They do say the reason the lid was on so tight during the press meeting at the Isle of Palms last week was because Bill Banks and Joe Sparks sat on the lid all the time.

There was less politics talked at the recent press meeting than any we have known of for years. The newspaper men evidently do not find it an interesting subject any more.

Well, we went to the press meeting but we didn't say a word about free passes. We nominated the "Rev." Joe Sparks for chaplain, but the steam roller squelched us so completely that we did not have the nerve to "move another motion."

It certainly was a great pleasure to meet our newspaper friends again at the meeting of the State Press Association last week. These gatherings mean a great deal to us socially, and we feel that the friendships formed at these meetings will endure for all time.

Editor W. H. Wallace, of the Newberry Observer, states that he has decided to cut out the press association meetings. We deeply regret his decision. Mr. Wallace issues a magnificent paper, and his presence at the meetings is always an inspiration to the brethren. He was missed at the meeting last week. Let us hope he will reconsider his decision.

Very few newspaper men, especially editors of weekly papers, can afford a trip to Europe, so the next best thing is to read August Kohn's diary of a trip he and Mrs. Kohn took through Europe last year. He has had these bound in book form, and his many friends appreciated the copies which he gave them at the press meeting last week.

The South Carolina Press Association may have some of these days a handsomer president than Harry Watson, but it will never get a more golden-hearted gentleman nor one who will be more faithful and earnest in his work or who will be more attentive and courteous to the members. His term of service ends with his being more universally beloved by the brethren than ever before.

The Press Association of South Carolina could and no doubt would greatly enlarge its sphere of usefulness to the members of the profession if the editors of weekly newspapers would take as much interest in the organization as the editors of the dailies. At the meeting last week every daily paper in the State but one was represented, while numbers of the editors of weeklies were absent. With free transportation and board at $2.00 a day there was no excuse for their staying away.

Speaking of a State ticket for next year, an ideal one to our mind would be composed of newspaper men, say something like this: For governor, Harry L. Watson; lieutenant governor, Ed. H. DeCamp; secretary of State, William Banks; comptroller general, Mason C. Bruson; superintendent of education, E. H. Aull; State treasurer, August Kohn. Under present conditions it would be a mighty fine thing to eliminate all factions in South Carolina and put in a set of newspaper men all round. They'd certainly make a record for the old State, too.

Down in Charleston now they are closing up the blind tigers (or rather open bar rooms) at twelve o'clock at night and on Sundays. If they can close them at these times, why not all the time?

Our good friend, Grist, of the Yorkville Enquirer, takes us mildly to task about the little paragraph in last week's issue in reference to the solicitation of Mr. Beard to Senator McLaurin to become a candidate for governor. Of course, as the Enquirer aptly remarks, if Senator McLaurin is nominated for governor he must receive a majority of Democratic votes, and if there is any considerable call or demand for him to become a candidate (and we do not believe he will be unless there is) it should and will come from Democrats and not from those who openly advocated the election of another than the Democratic nominee for president. That is all there is to it.

That was a fine tribute paid Col. E. H. Aull, editor of the Newberry Herald & News, by Mr. Greneker last week, written and printed during Col. Aull's absence at the press association meeting. But it was deserved. Mr. Greneker wonders at the defeat of Col. Aull as county superintendent of education, and it is to be wondered at. We may be pardoned for saying that we brought up the same subject with our friend last week and we said to him that Newberry county and the cause of education were the losers, not him, for we imagine that it cost him considerably more than he got out of it. By the way, Col. Aull would make a fine State superintendent of education.

CHILD DIES OF CRAYON POISON.

Atlanta Girl was Seen Eating Colored Chalk on Friday, the 13th.

Atlanta, Ga., June 25.—Mary Tribble aged seven, of Atlanta, to-day lost her long fight for life, physicians believing that her death was caused by eating tinted crayon at school. On June 13 she was taken violently ill and since that time had remained on a state of partial paralysis, with occasional feeble rallies. The case completely puzzled local physicians. The child's schoolmates said that they had seen her eat colored crayon.

Ament the Gubernatorial Race.

"We have great respect for Senator John L. McLaurin of Bennettsville, and we do not believe he will not listen to the siren voice of "Bull Moose" Beard and become a candidate for governor."—Bamberg Herald

So have we respect for Senator McLaurin, lots of it, and we are quite well aware that the Herald thinks as much of the senator as we do; but we do not see a great deal of logic in the above remark. So far as "Bull Moose" Beard is concerned, we do not see that he has a great deal to do with it, except that he has as much right to his views as has the Herald or the Enquirer. Although Mr. Beard was closely identified with Governor Blease's campaign especially by the opposition, it does not appear that he is now doing "the power behind the throne" act, or anything of that kind, and if he wants to put in his time playing politics we are unable to see that he is doing any differently from others who are exercising the same right and privilege. As to whether Senator McLaurin is going to be a candidate for governor, we do not know; but we have seen indications that there are a great many other people besides "Bull Moose" Beard who would like to see him get into the running, and if he yields at all, it is fair to assume that it will be as much or more on their account than on account of Mr. Beard. Those who object to Mr. McLaurin, should remember that he cannot possibly reach the governorship, no matter what "Bull Moose" Beard may do, unless he gets a majority of the Democratic votes of the state.—Yorkville Enquirer.

Took John D's Advice.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller attended the children's day exercises in the First Baptist Church yesterday, and he had the satisfaction of seeing his advice about saving pennies carried to a fruitful end. The little girls of the primary class earned and saved their pennies for the Baptist chapel car, and when the bank was opened by the pastor, the Rev. Arthur T. Brooks, 130 pennies were found. Mr. Rockefeller appeared much pleased at the little girls following his advice. Some of the children stammered and forgot their lines, and Mrs. Rockefeller remarked that she thought these little slips by children were always amusing. This was the second time Mrs. Rockefeller had been to Church this spring. Mr. Rockefeller sent a wagonload of daisies to decorate the church. Mr. and Mrs. Rockefeller will go to their Cleveland home this week for the Summer.—The New York Tribune.

PROMOTER LEAPS TO HIS END.

George Townsend, Wealthy Promoter, Jumps into the Mississippi River.

Kansas City, June 28.—George Townsend, the wealthy Chicago railway promoter and brother of Congressman Edward Townsend of New Jersey, committed suicide by throwing himself into the Mississippi river at Kansas City, Kan. This information was disclosed tonight by the finding on the river bank of Townsend's hat, his coat and a note book containing a letter in Townsend's handwriting saying he would kill himself because he "feared the mad house."

Mr. Townsend, 62 years old, disappeared from a local hotel early Tuesday morning. The note named his various attorneys or brokers and ended:

"I fear the mad house again. My estates should leave enough for my wife and others."

George Townsend came to Kansas City last Monday and was to have held an important business conference here Tuesday afternoon. Since his disappearance the police, squads of boy scouts and the mail carriers of both Kansas City, Mo., and Kansas City, Kan., have been searching for him.

Mr. Townsend's family consisted of his wife and two sons, George, ten years old, and Edward, aged six. Besides Congressman Townsend he had another brother, W. R. Townsend of Venice, Italy. The police announced that a search would be begun tomorrow morning for the body.

TAIL NO LONGER WAGS.

Canine's Nature Changed When Fed Salt instead of Sugar.

Good-natured Jack is "everybody's dog" in Sayville, L. I. It was discovered long ago that he is very fond of candy. Sugar is a pretty fair substitute, and in going around his neighborhood Jack gets that trust product at many houses. The granulated is given him on a plate.

A couple of days ago somebody gave Jack a plate of salt. He took one vigorous lap at it. At once his tail ceased its graceful wagging. It dropped limp, and, in a fit of sneezing, Jack cut circles around the room as if mad. Repentant persons put several plates upon the floor, but the plan was vain.

Jack's heretofore automatic tail was paralyzed from stung to tip. A local veterinary says it will never wag again.

"It's been salted down to you," says this scientist.—New York World.

Picks up $10,000 Check.

Some of the friends of Frank Hennessy, a broker, were congratulating him yesterday afternoon that in these days, when there is so little doing on the Stock Exchange and commissions are scarce and customers few, when temptation fell in his way he had the strength to resist it. Mr. Hennessy yesterday morning picked up a negotiable check for $10,000 in the lobby of the Waldorf-Astoria.

Mr. Hennessy, whose office is in the hotel, had stopped at the marble water cooler, just to the right of the room clerk's desk, and taken from the rack one of the paper drinking cups which the hotel furnishes free. Often a person who has quenched his thirst neglects to throw his cup into the waste basket, so that when Mr. Hennessy saw something white on the floor just below the spigot, he thought at first it might be the remains of a sanitary cup. However, he stooped and picked it up, to find, to his amazement, that it was a check for $10,000 on the Bank of Montreal, signed by a man named Harvard.

The finder immediately sought Assistant Manager Stewart, who recognized the initials on the check as those of a Canadian stopping in the house. The latter was found sitting on a sofa reading his mail. He had not missed the check, though it had been at least ten minutes since he had taken a drink at the water cooler.—The New York Times.

GIRL'S FIGHT WITH A SHARK.

Played the 7 1-2-Foot Monster For Two Hours Before He Gave Up.

Miss Ellen Knipe, of Philadelphia, a passenger, on the United Fruit liner Pastores, in yesterday, brought here and will take to Philadelphia with her a collection of lizards, which she made in the West Indies and Central America, says the New York Sun. Miss Knipe, didn't confine her attention exclusively to lizards. While the ship was in Port Limon she captured a shark that measured seven and a half feet. She declined all offers of assistance in handling the monster and she played the shark for two hours. She was nearly exhausted when the shark turned over and gave up the struggle. Then the sailors hauled him on board.

SISSON STOPS CAR

Demand for Transfer Ties Up Washington System.

Washington, June 28.—Representative Sisson of Mississippi took a hand last night in the long fight capital citizens have been making on the street railway companies for universal transfers and tied up one of the systems nearly an hour until a long string of cars was stalled in front of the White House.

The conductor refused a transfer, Sisson declined to pay another fare and invited removal by force.

After a long delay, which chafed hundreds of home hurrying citizens, the conductor announced the car would stay there "until morning" unless Sisson paid. A matron in a hurry paid the conductor a nickel, much to the disappointment of the representative, and the jam was relieved.

Nashville Street Scene of Battle.

Nashville, Tenn., June 27.—As a result of a pistol battle between striking plumbers and strike breakers here tonight Oily Kiser of the strikers is dead, with a bullet through his head, while Clarence Kramer, a strike-breaker, is suffering from a flesh wound in the shoulder. The two factions clashed on Broadway and after an exchange of rocks, pistols were fired. When Kiser had dropped at the first volley, the two bodies broke and ran in different directions. The trouble is said to have grown more pronounced as a result of the beating of Kiser by strikebreakers Thursday night.

D. T. Benser and Clarence Kramer are under arrest, charged with murder, while Charles Miller is also being held in connection with the case.

Kiser was instantly killed. The suspects were arrested by detectives at their boarding house near the scene.

"Movies" Search for Lost Girl.

Boston, June 26.—A world-wide search for Olga Ellis, six, of Revere, who was kidnapped last February by her father, John Ellis, has been instituted through the medium of moving picture films, and wherever movies are shown a striking likeness of the girl and her father will be thrown on the screen.

The movement started in California. With the pictures ore facsimiles of the police circulars containing descriptions of Olga and her father. Mrs. Ellis has arranged to have the pictures appear in the Philippines and the Hawaiian Islands.

A Pitcher's Tragedy.

Connie Mack, who takes great pride in developing young pitchers and then prophesying how they will show up in action, sent in one of his finds in an exhibition game not long ago, says The Popular Magazine. The slaughter of the young slab artist was pitiful to behold. At the end of the second inning Connie was somewhat peeved.

"What's the matter with you, son?" he asked the terrified youngster as kindly as he could—which was not remarkably kindly.

"I—I don't seem to be able to get the ball over the plate," said the pitcher, sadly.

You're mighty right you can't get it over the plate," observed Mack, his peeved condition more aggravated. "And I'll tell you why. Every time you start it over they knock it back at you."

Dod Not Take It.

Sandy MacIvor was "not feeling just well," so he went to the doctor. "What do you drink?" demanded the medico.

"Whiskey,"

"How much?"

"Maybe a bottle a day."

"Do you smoke?"

"Yes."

"Well, you give up whiskey and tobacco altogether."

Sandy took up his cap, and in three steps reached the door.

"Here!" called the doctor, "you have not paid for my advice!"

"Ahm no takin' it," snapped Sandy as he shut the door behind him.—Newark Star.

PICKED UP A RATTLESNAKE.

By Mere Good Chance Two-year-old Tot Escaped Being Bitten.

J. R. Maxwell, Jr., the two-year-old son of J. R. Maxwell, of Belleview, Fla., is alive and playing just as usual today despite the fact that he had as a playmate for several minutes Monday a ground rattlesnake, which he had picked up in the yard of his father's home. The little fellow came running into the house with the snake in his hand, laughing in great glee at his find. The snake was wriggling and attempting to strike him when his father seized and killed it. That the child was not bitten was purely good fortune.

BROTHERS LODGED IN JAIL.

Charged with Assaulting A. C. L. Conductor Gillespie at Cades.

Florence, June 25.—What seems to have been an outrageous affair took place last Saturday afternoon at Cades. Train 47, the local passenger between Florence and Denmark, via Lanes and Sumter, left here Saturday afternoon in charge of Capt. C. K. Gillespie. When the train left Lake City, two young white men by the name of Ward, brothers, refused, it is said, to pay the additional cash fare charged because they did not get tickets. Capt. Gillespie finally persuaded them to do so, but it seems that they grew very angry with the conductor.

When the train stopped at Cades, and while Capt. Gillespie was assisting some lady passengers from the steps of the coach, the two men stepped up behind him and, it is alleged, struck him several severe blows in the head and about the face. Capt. Gillespie at once realized his position and grappled with one of the men, throwing him to the ground and began pounding him with his ticket punch and otherwise disfiguring him as best he could. The other brother, it is said, then flew into the conductor and the two men came near doing considerable damage to the popular young conductor, but assistance reached him and but for the bruises about his head, face and body and his clothing terribly torn, the conductor came out top side up.

The two men were arrested and will be tried in the Court at Kingstree at the next term.

You're Another.

An Irish soldier in an American regiment went to the commanding officer and asked for a few days' leave says Pearson's Weekly.

His officer asked why he wanted to go, and Pat replied that his wife was Spring-cleaning and wanted him at home to help.

"I don't like to refuse you, Pat," said the C. O., "but as a matter of fact, I have just had a letter from your wife, saying that you are of no help to her during the Spring-cleaning, and asking me not to give you leave."

Pat looked sad, but he saluted respectfully, and turned to go. At the door he hesitated a moment, and then turned to his C. O. again.

"Colonel," he said solemnly, "there are two whooping falsehoods in this regiment, and I'm one of them. I'm not married!"

FELDER AND LANFORD INDICTED

Atlanta Attorney Charged with Criminal Libel.

Atlanta, Ga., June 27.—Thomas B. Felder, prominent Atlanta attorney, and Chief of Detectives N. A. Lanford were indicted by the Fulton County grand jury late to-day on charges of criminal libel. Two bills were returned against Felder and one against Lanford. Mr. Felder appeared at the solicitor general's office following notice of the indictments and furnished bonds.

The action of the grand jury is based upon statements published recently in Atlanta newspapers by Felder and Lanford, in which accusations of attempted bribery and graft were made in addition to other allegations considered as reflecting upon the personal character of the parties to the controversy.

Shortly after Mr. Felder was admitted to bond, Chief Lanford also gave bond in a like amount.

SOUGHT HAZARDOUS JOB.

New Jersey Man Hoped to Be Blown Up After Wife Deserted Him

In a suit to divorce his wife on the ground of desertion, Peter K. Hicks, of Patterson, New Jersey, has gone on record in chancery here as a most doleful husband. He testified that the alleged desertion of his wife made him so desolate that he got a job in a powder factory in the hope that the plant would blow up. His prayer was answered a few months later when he was sent to the hospital with five others injured in an explosion.

By the time he recovered he ceased to grieve over his domestic troubles and decided that life was worth living after all.

Ocean Six Miles Deep.

A surveying ship of the German navy has recently discovered the deepest spot in the ocean. It is near the Philippines, about forty miles off the north coast of Mindanao.

Great depths were found to be numerous in this region, but the record sounding showed the amazing result of 9,780 meters, or 406 feet more than six miles.

The greatest ocean depth hitherto known was found by the United States cable steamer Nero in 1901. This spot was to the south of the Island of Guam, and the deep sea lead indicated 9,635 meters—just a little less than six miles.—New York Press.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side. The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good; I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair. At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of wonderful success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.
